Bogan Launches Moron Tests for Pupils

SCHOOL CHIEF ACTS TO CURB DELINQUENTS

Storm Police

Women break police lines as funeral crowd fights to see coffin of Baby Dorette Zietlow, who died after being kidnaped by George Rogalski, 13 year old moron. Story on page 8.

Superintendent of Schools William J. Bogan yesterday announced a plan to give psychological examinations to children in the Chicago public schools who are suspected by their teachers of being "border line" mental cases. Nine psychiatrists have consented to work with Mr. Bogan in evolving a system for examining and treating these selected pupils.

The plan had been under consideration by Mr. Bogan for several weeks. The kidnaping of Dorette Zietlow by George Rogalski, 13 year old schoolboy, who abandoned the baby and let her die of hunger and exposure, has emphasized the necessity for immediate action, he said. Rogalski, a ward of the Juvenile court, was allowed to return to his studies without school authorities being informed of his past record and his exhibition of tendencies to delinquency. He had been in the custody of the Juvenile Detention home for stripping the clothing from another little girl.

To Test Border Line Cases.

James B. McCahey, president of the board of education, said it would not be necessary for the psychiatrists to examine all of the 500,000 pupils in grammar schools and high schools, but only those children regarded by their teachers and pupils as doubtful or border line cases. The methods used in the past by the child study bureau of the public schools, which handles 9,000 cases a year, will be enlarged and expanded, Mr. McCahey said. The psychiatrists will coöperate directly with the bureau. The examinations will be carried out in such a way as not to embarrass any children.

Mr. Bogan announced that the psychiatrists would confer with him and Dr. Daniel P. MacMillan, director of the bureau of child study, next Thursday. Dr. MacMillan said there were at least 100 serious mental cases in the public schools, as well as 5,000 dull or subnormal pupils. Many of the mental cases have already been examined. The doctor said the whole school population should be examined periodically in the interests of the safety of the pupils and to forestall serious crises in mental cases.

"Need an Aroused Public."

"An aroused public opinion, which alone can make this program possible, is needed," Mr. Bogan said. "We must have the coöperation of parents and the entire community in our program.

"As a matter of routine we have recourse for assistance to the Society of Orthopedic Surgeons, the Society for the Prevention of Blindness, the Oto-laryngologists for the conservation of hearing, the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium, the Cardiac association for heart cases, and the Committee on Epilepsy.

"However, the assistance offered by the coöperating agencies in the case of mental defects of children is not well organized, and therefore it is suggested that the leading psychiatrists of the city be asked to coöperate officially in certain cases that we must handle."

Richard S. Folsom, attorney for the board of education, said that while no opposition was expected from parents in the carrying out of the plan, the board, if necessary, could legally force parents to allow the examinations.

Psychiatrists Promise Aid.

The psychiatrists who have consented to work with the board of education are: Dr. Francis J. Gerty, superintendent of the Cook county psychopathic hospital; Dr. Paul Schroeder, head alienist of the Institute for Juvenile Research; Dr. Harry Hoffman, director of the behavior clinic of the Criminal court; Dr. A. S. Hershfield, former state alienist, and Dr. H. Douglas Singer, Dr. Meyer Solomon, Dr. Harold S. Hulbert, Dr. Ralph G. Hammill, and Dr. Lewis J. Pollock.

Dr. MacMillan, in urging the coöperation of parents in the program, said that the hope of handling mental cases lies in discovering them at an early age and treating them properly so that the schools should not be contributing to delinquencies. Dr. Gerty declared that education could not be

BY EUGENE SPECK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

ABOARD S. S. EXILONA, Bound for the United States from Smyrna, Turkey, April 14.—[Saturday.]—Samuel Insull, fugitive Chicago utilities promoter, was finally and definitly in the hands of United States authorities today and on his way to Chicago to stand trial on criminal charges in connection with the bankruptcy of his utilities enterprises.

He was formally turned over to an American agent last night in a ceremony something like the delivery of a parcel, for which a receipt was given to the Turkish authorities.

Insull's stay in Smyrna, where he arrived after an all day train ride from Panderma, was short and his departure unexpectedly simple. All was done in a few hours.

Rushed Aboard Ship.

When the prisoner's train arrived at 3:30 p. m. he was driven to the office of Faik Bey, chief of the Smyrna harbor police. Without delay he was placed on a swift police launch and taken to the Exilona, lying with steam up outside the breakwater. He was helped up the gangway by an English speaking policeman, whose hand he held during the difficult climb.

Insull was followed by Burton Y. Berry, third secretary of the United States embassy in Turkey, who was assigned to return the prisoner to American soil.

Berry read to the Turkish police a copy of the warant signed by President Roosevelt. Insull stood mute, thereby pleading not guilty.

A copy of the warant was given to Fenzi Bey, chief of the Smyrna police, who thereupon dictated a receipt, which was typed in the office of Capt. Wenzel Habel by Faik Bey. This document was signed by Capt. Habel, Berry, and Fenzi, and Insull became a prisoner of the United States.

"Tell them if I am ever in Istanbul again I will look them up, but I hope they will not have official reasons for looking me up," he said.

The prisoner will be under constant supervision until he arrives at New York about May 8. He has a corner cabin to himself and Berry the one adjoining.

Due in Sicily April 17.

The Exilona sailed shortly before 1 o'clock this (Saturday) morning. It is of 6,000 tons and has a speed of 12 knots, will not sail direct to the United States, as had been indicated, but will make several short stops en route. The first is at Catania, Sicily, where it is due April 17. From there it may proceed to Algiers and to Casa Blanca, Morocco.

Considering his ordeal, Insull has borne up under the strain very well. He had virtually no sleep last night while crossing the sea of Marmora from Istanbul to Panderma aboard the little steamer Adana. THE TRIBUNE correspondent who is traveling with the prisoner watched him take it with a grin all the way.

Although he retired at 10 o'clock last night on the Adana he had a restless night. This was followed by the tiring all day train ride to Smyrna. Insull blamed last night's restlessness on oversmoking.

Shaves with Cold Water.

Awake when the Adana reached Panderma at 3 a. m., he shaved with cold water and then had some coffee, bread, butter, and jam. He talked freely until 5 o'clock, chiefly on British politics.

At breakfast time Berry appeared on deck for the first time.

"Who's that?" Insull demanded.

"That's Berry," I replied. "Shall I introduce you?"

"Certainly," he answered.

After a rather stiff meeting between the federal officer and his future prisoner Insull said:

"I understand you are to be my custodian to the United States."

"I have orders to accompany you, sir," Berry replied.

Shortly after 6 a. m. Insull was escorted to his train to begin the 14

Question: Who Pays for All This Whisky?

Problem in etiquet: Who should pay for the cigars, whisky, cosmetics, and drug store sundries purchased for three women witnesses in a murder trial while they are under the protection of the police and the state's attorney?

"Not my office," is the decided opinion of State's Attorney Courtney. "I'll have nothing to do with paying for such whoopee."

That is why Police Commissioner Allman, Capt. Daniel Gilbert of the state's attorney's police, and Chief of Detectives William Schoemaker are investigating the proper procedure and the necessity of having any procedure at all.

Widow One of Witnesses.

The women witnesses are Mrs. Mary Regan, whose husband, James, alias Walsh, was shot down in her presence at their home, 9223 Houston avenue, on New Year's day; her sister, Mrs. Elsie Buckhein, and her mother, Mrs. May Watley. They were taken under protection on Feb. 9, after they had identified Albert Ciha, gunman and gambler, as one of the three slayers.

State's Attorney Courtney agreed to pay for their board and lodging. The police agreed to furnish a guard. So Mrs. Watley and her daughters were ensconced snugly first in one, then another, south side hotel, with two policemen and one police matron constantly with them. According to program, they went on March 10 to the Carolan apartment hotel at 5480 Cornell avenue.

Their hotel bill for the week was $71. But there were additional charges for the more luxurious of creature comforts, including many pints of old bourbon, magazines at $1 each, large boxes of Havanas, etc. The figures ran something like this for the incidentals: March 10, $35; March 11, $28; March 12, $49; March 13, $46; March 14, $38, and March 15, $7.

Police and Matrons Quizzed.

He and Chief Schoemaker, after the state's attorney ruled that he wouldn't liquor his witnesses at the state's expense, called in the twelve policemen and the three matrons who have at different times served on the detail. They all looked blank. What whisky? they asked. What cigars? They had, they said, never heard of any such purchases and they had neither drank nor smoked on the witnesses' account.

"We just sat around and played cards with the ladies," was the consensus of the fifteen guards.

It was disclosed that the bills had all been O. K.'d by one B. Jones. That, said the policemen, was the way the witnesses registered: "B. Jones and Party."

William Casey, manager of the Carolan, asserted last night that he knew nothing of the whoopee part of the bills. His guests, he said, stayed only a week and their account of $71 total was promptly paid. Several policemen last night declared the women and their guards were still there.

Ciha was tried on the murder charge and on April 4 was found guilty and sentenced to 99 years in the penitentiary. The witnesses are being kept in the hope that two others accused of participation, James Breen and a man known only as Pete, will be apprehended and brought to trial also.

LATE CONGRESSMAN'S SON ENDS HIS LIFE OVER BAIN FAILURE

James Martin, 45 years old, a son of the late Congressman Charles Martin of the 4th district, shot and killed himself last night in his home at 1647 East 69th street.

Mrs. Lottie Martin, the widow, told the police that Martin some years ago had been wealthy, but that the crash of the Bain banks wiped out his fortune and that he had been despondent. He had worked for a time as a south park policeman, but recently had not been able to find employment.

"He came home and talked to me early in the evening," Mrs. Martin said, "and threatened to kill himself. I talked him out of it for the time. I have been ill and I fell asleep. When I awoke I found his body in the dining room."

Martin's father was elected alderman of the old 5th ward about 1900 and was prominent thereafter in south side politics. He was a member of congress at the time of his death in 1917.

Dentist Pulls the Wrong Tooth; Court Favors Him

New York, April 13.—[Special.]—The liability of a dentist for extracting the wrong tooth divided the Appellate division today when the court, by a vote of three to two, reversed a judgment against Dr. Adolph Berger, professor of oral surgery at the Columbia university dental college, in favor of Mrs. Margaret Doniger for $500. The majority held the tooth Mrs. Doniger had asserted was extracted by mistake was diseased, while she still has the one she wanted taken out.

A dissenting opinion said the dentist was not at liberty to use his own judgment, but was required to follow the plaintiff's suggestion.

House Ready to Push Fair Bills Through

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., April 13.—[Special.]—Early passage of legislation authorizing federal participation in the Chicago Century of Progress next summer was assured today, but only after irate Illinois Democratic statesmen had aired their pique at the failure of Fair officials to give jobs to their constituents.

After listening to Rufus C. Dawes, president of the Exposition, and Maj. Lenox R. Lohr, general manager, explain that political recommendations were not considered in hiring Fair employés, Chairman Kent Keller [Dem., Ill.], of the house library committee promised that the legislation needed to continue government exhibits would be brought speedily before the house.

Mr. Keller's committee has jurisdiction over the required measure which will call for a new appropriation of $405,000 and reappropriation of $75,000 out of funds unexpended from the sum supplied last year.

Sabath Charges Bias.

Neither Mr. Keller nor Representative Adolph J. Sabath [Dem., Ill.] minced any words at the hearing today in telling of their disappointment in not landing at least a few jobs in return for their support of World Fair legislation last session.

Mr. Sabath was particularly irate, not so much because he didn't get any jobs for his constituents, he said, but because he felt Democrats were being discriminated against by Fair officials. Mr. Keller had less of a grievance—he nominated only one for a job at the Exposition and he was turned down.

Cites Jobs Available.

"Gentlemen," said Maj. Lohr, "consider—add up the city aldermen, other political office holders, the founders who contributed $1,000 each, the men who floated the bonds and who bought them, and the Illinois congressmen here in Washington. Why, if we gave one job to each one our pay roll would be much larger than it was last summer."

He explained that police jobs at the Fair can only be filled by men from the civil service police lists of the city; that chair pushing jobs are cared for by the concessionaires, as are waiters' positions and other jobs on concession projects. The only jobs available to Fair officials are guides and laborers, he said, and laborers are all union men.

SENATE RAISES LEVY BY HALF A BILLION DOLLARS

Roosevelt Is Back; Joshes and Warns Congressmen.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

Washington, D. C., April 13.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt breezed merrily into town today after his fishing holiday, and he looked spry and very chipper of eye.

His tongue was uncommon sharp, too, and from the time of his arrival—when he served notice "I'm a tough guy!"—until eventime—when he waxed bluntly ironical over one of the latest antics of congress—the President showed he had his dander up.

Mr. Roosevelt will come to grips with the rebellious senate tomorrow afternoon and with the rebellious house on Sunday evening. He issued summons late today to senate leaders to come to the White House tomorrow at 2:30, and to the house leaders he sent a call to appear after supper on Sunday.

May Take Stern Measures.

The executive gave every sign during the day that he may deal some pretty stiff blows to the congressional leaders in a strenuous effort to push the congress back to submission.

Since the President's departure for his fishing paradise off the Florida coast both houses gave gone far from the fold of the New Deal. There has been speculation as to how he would deal with the revolt, some observers predicting he would employ suave diplomacy and the gloved hand, and others anticipating resounding haymakers from the presidential fists.

Probably it will be a combination of both, but if today's samples are faithful auguries for the future, congress is in for some interesting jousts with a battlesome President.

Give Him Rousing Welcome.

There seemed to be every reason for Mr. Roosevelt to show grace and loving kindness to congressmen this morning, for most of the Democratic members and a few Republicans as well got the Marine band together and marched down to the station to welcome the hero home. Many were there who had voted to override the President's veto on the veterans' bill and who voted contrariwise on other New Deal legislation, and some of these were sheepish and looked like bad boys bringing red apples to teacher.

They cheered, along with some 3,000 of the capital populace, and after reception committees appointed by both houses had entered the President's private car to convey their high regards to him he decided, quite abruptly, to make a speech.

He went to the back platform of the car and the congressmen and the citizens gathered around, and "I am very glad to see you all," said the President, beginning on a cheery plane, and with beaming smiles wreathing his handsome tanned features.

Starts with a Laugh.

"It is mighty good of you to come down here," he went on. He laughed with that characteristic tossing of his Returns Are to Be Open to Public Inspection.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 13.—[Special.]—A gale of laughter evoked by a quip from Vice President Garner—a rattle of sonorous "yeas" and a few scattering "nays"—an explosive sigh of relief—and the senate tonight had passed a revenue bill which adds nearly a half billion dollars to the nation's tax burden.

Two weeks of the most frenzied squabbling ever seen on Capitol hill marked the drafting of the record-breaking measure. It now goes into a conference between house and senate committees, where it will be further remodeled. It has been generally forecast that the house would balk at some of the increases.

Vote to Publish Returns.

In this final day of work on the bill, the senate voted to publish all income tax returns so that they may be available for public inspection. By a vote of 41 to 34 it adopted an amendment presented by Senator Robert M. La Follette [Rad., Wis.] which makes it mandatory upon the secretary of the treasury to publish the returns made by all corporations and individuals.

The President now has the power to publish returns, it was pointed out, but has never seen fit to do so. This fact was pointed to by Senator Pat Harrison [Dem., Miss.] as indicating presidential disapproval of income tax publicity, and he urged his colleagues to defeat the La Follette amendment.

Senator La Follette argued that publication of income tax returns would curb many of the abuses of the income tax law which were disclosed in a recent senatorial investigation.

"If Morgan had known that it would be printed in every newspaper in the land that he had not paid an income tax one year he would never have dared to evade the tax in the manner in which he did," declared La Follette.

Iowa Senator Protests.

"It destroys all the privacy that the individual is entitled to," he said. "He has the right to keep his income private if he wishes. Experience has shown that the returns are valuable only to bond solicitors and to nosey people looking for gossip."

A similar amendment has been passed by the senate at other sessions, but has never survived the conference. In 1924-'26, it was recalled, income tax returns were made public and Senator Harrison recalled the "stormy disorder" which accompanied the publicity in his argument against the amendment.

Norris for Amendment.

"The real purpose of this measure is to increase the honest revenue to the government," he declared. "Secrecy reduces tax collections. This amendment won't hurt a single citizen and will bring extra millions of dollars into the treasury."

The ensuing vote was another victory for the radical group led by Senators La Follette, Norris, and William E. Borah [Rad., Idaho].

Senator James Hamilton Lewis of Illinois voted against the amendment and announced that his colleague, Senator William H. Dieterich [Dem., Ill.], would also have cast a negative vote.

Twelve Republicans, 23 Democrats, and one Farmer-Laborite joined in the affirmative vote, while 15 Republicans and 19 Democrats voted against the amendment.

Bill Greatly Changed.

The tax increases in the revenue bill made it difficult to recognize the measure as the same bill which started its perilous passage through congress many weeks ago.

The house of representatives had shuddered when it finished work on the act. It added $258,000,000 to last year's tax bill and many a congressman up for reelection contemplated sadly the effect this tax boost might have upon his desirability in the eyes of the voters.

The senate finance committee recommended the addition of another $72,000,000 in taxes, making a total of $330,000,000 extra to be drained from the taxpayers' pockets.

It remained for the senate itself to show the country what really can be done in connection with this matter of raising taxes. It piled another $150,000,000 upon the tax load, making a grand total of $480,000,000 more than last year.

habitants of the United States shared in the payment of taxes, it was pointed out, each man, woman, and child would have to pay approximately $3.50 more than last year if the present revenue bill becomes law. It need not be added that there are a few odd millions who do not pay taxes.

How Taxes Were Increased.

The increased taxes in the new revenue bill are made up as follows, the amounts estimated being approximate:

Capital stock and excess profits taxes	$ 85,000,000
Increase in estate tax rates	25,000,000
Changes in income tax structure	85,000,000
Administrative changes on depreciation	35,000,000
Capital gains and losses, consolidated returns abolished	20,000,000
Personal holding company tax	20,000,000
Exchanges and reorganizations	10,000,000
Partnerships	5,000,000
Administrative changes on gas and oil	15,000,000
Miscellaneous	20,000,000
Total	$485,000,000

Most sensational of the above increases are the flat increase of ten per cent in all income taxes and the estate tax increases. The former was sponsored by Senator James Couzens [Rep., Mich.] and the latter by Senator La Follette. Both amendments to the bill will be strongly opposed in the conference, it was reported.

Defeat Tax on Exempt Bonds.

The senate almost—but did not—passed an amendment which would have added several hundred millions of dollars to the already staggering total. This was a proposal by Senator Bennett Clark [Dem., Mo.] to tax government and state securities which are now exempt from taxation.

The tax on government securities alone, if this amendment went into the law, would have totaled one hundred and sixty million dollars. Vast additional amounts would have come from the tax on other securities, state and municipal, now tax exempt.

But the senate apparently felt that it had gone far enough. Senator Kenneth McKellar [Dem., Tenn.], moved to strike all but government securities from the suggested taxation and his motion was sustained by a vote of 38 to 27. Senator Clark then declared that this action had emasculated his bill and he withdrew it.

Night Session Threatens.

Argument over the Clark measure became so heated that a late night session was threatened, but as soon as that was out of the way the dinnerless senators, who had worked steadily since noon, eyed the gold plated hands of the senate clock which pointed to 7 o'clock, and quickly approved the bill. The final vote was 53 to 7.

During several hours of the session the senate argued over a proposal to reconsider its action of yesterday when it voted to elminate consolidated income tax returns. Senator Borah charged that a powerful lobby, representing wealthy corporations which will be hurt by the elimination of the consolidated return section, was seeking to influence the senate to reconsider. The motion to reconsider lost, however, by a vote of 58 to 19.

The hilarity in which the session was concluded was caused partly by Senator Henry F. Ashurst [Dem., Ariz.] and partly by the presiding officer, Vice President Garner. Senator Ashurst, proponent of a ten cent a pound duty upon copper, admitted that he had no chance to get this duty imposed at the present time, but asked for a vote on his motion for the sake of the record.

Relieved at the prospect of the end of work on the revenue bill, a number of senators mischievously shouted a mighty "Yea" when the motion was put and the "Nos" were comparatively feeble although the sentiment of the senate was ten to one against the proposition.

"The yeas have it—I mean the noes," said Garner, grinning. And the senators released their pent up emotions in a great shout of laughter as the half billion dollar revenue bill became history.

WATCHMAN'S BODY IDENTIFIED.

The body of a man recovered from the drainage canal in Summit on Thursday, was identified at the county morgue yesterday as that of Joseph Siakoper, 59 years old, 2013 Allport avenue, a watchman, who disappeared Jan. 17.

hour trip through Anatolia to Smyrna. This journey enabled him to see almost as much of Turkey as the Turks did of him. Colorful crowds, with a sprinkling of veiled women, lined the route all the way.

DENY WALES HAD STOCK.

LONDON, April 13.—(AP)—A high source in St. James's palace today denied a report from Chicago that the prince of Wales heads a list of prominent Britons who invested in Insull securities, profited, and sold before the crash.

It was said the prince of Wales never purchased any Insull or any other speculative stock and that his security investments are limited to gilt edge lists and only handled by a well known firm in London.

In regard to rumors that prominent Britons were tipped to sell their Insull stocks at a profit, informed quarters in the financial district said it would be most difficult to trace such transactions. There were many persons here who undoubtedly bought and sold Insull utility stocks. Some profited, others got caught. Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon was among those mentioned in the favored Insull list.

MARTIN WINS DELAY.

The embezzlement case against Martin J. Insull, in which arguments on a motion to quash the indictments are pending, was continued another week yesterday in the Criminal court of Judge James F. Fardy.

John E. Northup, Insull's lawyer, got the continuance to give him more time to prepare his arguments. Northup contends that the indictments are illegal because the Criminal Court building, where the grand jury sits, is not in the county seat, and because the grand jury was not properly drawn. The Supreme court recently held that an indictment was illegal on the latter ground, and State's Attorney Courtney is seeking a rehearing.

FATHER KILLS 2 CHILDREN, THEN ENDS OWN LIFE

Washington, Pa., April 13.—(AP)—A father tonight shot his two small children to death and then fatally wounded himself.

The dead are Gleason Roupe, 27; his son, Gleason Jr., 4, and daughter, Betty, 2½.

The girl was dead when Merl Roupe, a brother, and Joseph Phillips, a brother-in-law, entered the house and discovered the tragedy. The father and son were conscious. They were moved to a hospital where they died a few hours later. All were shot through the head with a small rifle.

Hoodlums Break Windows of Oak Park Beauty Shop

Vandals riding in a speedy automobile smashed windows last night in a barber shop at 6807 Cermak road, Berwyn, and a beauty shop at 328 Madison street, Oak Park. Two electric signs in the beauty shop were broken. John Wolf, owner of this place, told police he had recently been asked to join a hairdressers' association and that he had refused.

BLAME POISONING FOR DEATH.

The coroner's office began an investigation last night into the death of Peter Ladrick, 42 years old, 4453 South Albany avenue, who died earlier in the day in the Michael Reese hospital, supposedly from the results of slow poisoning.

FLYER AND WIFE ARE KILED WHEN PLANE CRASHES

Akron, O., April 14 [Saturday].—(AP)—A private plane crashed near Hinckley, in Medina county, last night, and early today two bodies, identified as those of Lester Krug, 26, and his young wife, were brought here.

Akron airport attendants believed the two were the only occupants of the ship, a three-place cabin plane.

Krug was a reserve officer in the army air corps and a former lieutenant in the air service. He had made a trip to Cleveland so that the plane's owner, W. B. Moore of Canton, O., could take a train to Buffalo.

The plane struck the side of a sugar house as it crashed.

SIMPSON CARRIES LAKE COUNTY BY MAJORITY OF 621

The official Lake county vote in the Tuesday primary for the Republican nomination for congressman in the 10th district, in which Ralph Church defeated Congressman James Simpson Jr., was announced last night by Clerk Lew A. Hendee at Waukegan.

Simpson received 9,655 votes and Church got 9,034. Simpson's margin of 621 was offset by heavy losses in the Cook county section of the 10th district. Unofficial Cook county figures give Simpson 22,309 and Church 25,814. These unofficial Cook county figures, combined with the official Lake county tabulations, give Simpson 31,964 and Church 34,848, a winning margin of 2,884 votes.

Z. E. SALISBURY OF CHICAGO KILLS SELF IN BRAZIL

Zoll Elnore Salisbury, for six years Brazilian representative of the Brunswick-Balke-Collender company of Chicago, shot and killed himself yesterday in Rio de Janeiro, according to cable dispatches received here.

Coincident with this news, reports were heard that local postal inspectors have been investigating a registered package containing worthless clippings, supposedly sent by him to the Chicago office. It was further reported the package had been insured for $19,500. Company officials declined to discuss this. They said they knew of no reason for Salisbury's apparent suicide.

Salisbury, who was born in Chicago in 1883, possessed a colorful career. He was twice lieutenant governor of the Philippines. According to his brother, Lyman Salisbury, of Crown Point, Ind., Salisbury served in the United States army from 1900 to 1904, then studied dentistry at Northwestern university, and practiced as a dentist in Hammond, Ind., from 1909 to 1911. Then he went to the Philippines as a constabulary officer. During the world war he served as an army captain at Fort Sill, Okla. His widow and two children survive.

AWARD $4,000,000 CONTRACTS FOR 2 BREAKWATERS

Contracts aggregating $4,000,000 have been let for the construction of two new breakwaters at Calumet harbor and Indiana harbor by the engineering division of the war department under the public works administration, it was announced yesterday in the office of Capt. Richard L. Smith, engineer in charge of Chicago district.

A cellular type breakwater, the first ever built, will be constructed at Calumet harbor. It will have steel sheet pile siding with a stone fill and will be capped with stones weighing from 7 to 20 tons each. U. S. engineers assert it will be the most economical and durable type of breakwater in existence.

Work will start about May 1. The Indiana harbor breakwater project will not be so large. It is to be an extra breakwater of over 2,300 feet of rubble mound and core stone.

INDICT J. R. NUTT, VAN SWERINGEN IN BANK'S CRASH

Window Dressing Charges Name 3 Executives.

Cleveland, O., April 13.—(AP)—Joseph R. Nutt, W. M. Baldwin, and O. P. Van Sweringen were indicted by a county grand jury today on charges of issuing a false financial statement of the condition of the Union Trust company as of Sept. 29, 1931.

Nutt, former chairman of the board of the Union Trust company, which was closed for liquidation following the national banking holiday a year ago, also is a former treasurer of the Republican national committee.

Outgrowth of Inquiry.

The same jury recently indicted Baldwin and Kenyon V. Painter, capitalist and largest stockholder of the bank, on charges of misapplication of the bank's funds.

The indictments returned today were the outgrowth of an investigation of an alleged "window dressing" transaction in connection with the statement of condition made in response to a call by the state superintendent of banks.

Frank Cullitan, Cuyahoga county prosecutor, said Otis Paxton Van Sweringen detailed the operation as follows:

On Sept. 29, 1931, Van Sweringen was in the Morgan offices in New York "on another matter" when he met Nutt. He previously had received a communication from Nutt asking if he [Van Sweringen] could sell the bank some bonds.

What Records Show.

Nutt had papers already drawn up for signature. These called for purchase by the bank of 10 million dollars in government bonds which Van Sweringen had left with the Morgan company for safe keeping.

On Oct. 7, 1931, nine days later, the transaction was reversed and the bonds "resold" to Van Sweringen. The bonds never left the Morgan company vaults.

STUDENTS HOLD NOISY ANTI-WAR CLASS CUTTING

Pacifist Disorders Take Place in East.

New York, April 13.—[Special.]—What was advertised as a nation-wide student strike against war developed three centers of disorder in the east today—in Harvard, Johns Hopkins, and the City college of New York. Several thousand students in various educational institutions here cut their 11 o'clock classes and attended one hour campus demonstrations.

At Harvard and Johns Hopkins right wing students clashed with the demonstrators. The Cambridge meeting ended in a barrage of grapefruit and onions, the Baltimore affair in a stream from a fire hose which dispersed both pacifists and patriots.

Marked by Noisy Disputes.

Trouble at other colleges and universities was confined to boos, catcalls, and noisy disputes between student factions.

[The "strike" did not occur at Chicago university or at Wisconsin. A week ago a pacifist parade against war took place at the Midway; nothing yesterday.]

Peaceful demonstrations were held at Columbia university, New York university, and other institutions in New York and elsewhere. Although the strike was called on a national scale, only scattering reports were received from colleges and universities outside of this section. The organizers asserted that 15,000 students participated in the New York City demonstrations, but gave no figures for the country as a whole.

Organized by Pinks.

The demonstrations were organized by the Student League for Industrial Democracy and the National Student league, left wing organizations. Speakers denounced war, attacked militarism and imperialism, and adopted resolutions embodying the so-called Oxford pledge against war:

"We, the students of ——— college, pledge not to support the government of the United States in any war it might conduct."

In the College of the City of New York agitators and organizers waylaid students on their way to classes and distributed handbills urging them to "walk out." Banners and placards were displayed: "Strike Against War," "Cut Classes 11 to 12," "Schools, Not Battleships," "We Will Not Support Materialistic War," "Abolish the R. O. T. C.," and "Fight Against Imperialist War."

Picket the Classrooms.

Anti-war students picketed classrooms and campus gathering places, urging all students who remained at work to join the strike.

Large detachments of police were on duty at all colleges. They wore white gloves and did not carry nightsticks. The police had no trouble keeping order except at City college.

Before the zero hour, a delegation of ten students asked Dean Morton D. Gottschall of City college for permission to hold the anti-war demonstration. He refused, but offered to give them a permit for a meeting in the great hall of the college "at a proper time." He declined to commit himself when they asked whether he intended to interfere by calling the police.

The student leaders than went to the flagpole on the campus, where about 600 students gathered soon after 11 o'clock. It was said that most of them were free at that hour, and only about 100 cut classes.

Police Interfere.

In addition to the general anti-war placards seen at all yesterday's meetings, the City college demonstrators also carried cards demanding: "Reinstate the twenty expelled students!" referring to boys expelled last year for radical activities.

As the meeting was getting together, police arrived and announced no speeches would be permitted. He said he had received instructions to this effect from Dr. Frederick D. Robinson, president of the college. This was later denied by Dr. Robinson, who also denied having called the police.

Following the police, Dean Gottschall went to the campus with Dr. Frederic Woll, head of the hygiene department, and tried to persuade the students to disperse. He tore into bits several anti-war pamphlets and placards. There was considerable disorder but no battle and no arrests.

Demonstration Squelched.

At Harvard a barrage of eggs, oranges, lemons, onions, and grapefruit broke up the anti-war demonstration of the National Student league. The bombardment continued until the Harvard yard police cut off the source of supply in the kitchen of the Harvard Freshman union. Police then dispersed the crowd, numbering about 2,000.

Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. watched the fun from the outskirts of the crowd at the start of the demonstration, but yard police hustled him away in an automobile.

Norman Thomas Speaks.

Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for President in 1932, and Corliss Lamont, son of Thomas W. Lamont, were speakers.

"We will not again be herded into war."

At Vassar, at Poughkeepsie, President Henry N. MacCracken led about 300 students through the streets in the first public demonstration since 1917. In that year the students marched for war. Today they marched for peace.

Several hundred students at Syracuse university staged a "strike against war" on the edge of the campus and listened for an hour to speeches against "imperialistic" war.

FIND ART J. SMITH KHAKI SHIRT CHIEF, GUILTY OF PERJURY

New York, April 13.—(AP)—Art J. Smith, national leader of the Khaki Shirts of America, was found guilty tonight of perjuring himself by saying he saw Athos Terzani fire the shot that killed Antonio Fierro in a riot which broke up a Khaki Shirt meeting in Queens last fall. Frank Moffer, a Khaki Shirt, later pleaded guilty of shooting Fierro.

Smith, who accepted the verdict unmoved, was remanded for sentence next Friday. Under the law the penalty for this offense is not more than ten years in state's prison, no minimum being fixed.

About a hundred were in the courtroom at the time, many of them followers of Smith, but there was no demonstration.

LAWYER FAINTS AS HE APPEALS GOLD DECISION

Collapses Arguing Own Hoarding Case.

New York, April 13.—[Special.]—Frederick Barber Campbell, 60, the lawyer who was named in the first indictment charging a violation of the gold hoarding regulations, collapsed in the federal Court of Appeals today while arguing his appeal from Judge John M. Woolsey's decision, and had to be taken from the federal building in a wheelchair.

The case before the court was Mr. Campbell's suit against the Chase National bank to recover $200,000 in gold bullion, which he had deposited in the bank for safe keeping, and which, after the issuing of the President's executive order last summer, directing the surrender of all gold to the treasury, the bank had refused to return to Mr. Campbell.

First Argued Before Woolsey.

The action was first argued before Judge Woolsey, who dismissed it for lack of jurisdiction, holding that the suit, an equity action, should have been brought in the state courts. The criminal action, charging Mr. Campbell with failing to report to the secretary of the treasury his gold holdings, which Judge Woolsey held to be valid, was not before the court.

Mr. Campbell, a slender, gray haired man of conservative manner and dress, was attempting to convince the court that his equity action was properly filed in the District court. He had estimated that it would take him two hours to argue his case, but Judge Martin T. Manton, presiding judge of the court, reminded him that he was limited to one hour.

He explained that in his cause against the bank he had no remedy at law and that a replevin action would not have served in the attempt to recover the bullion. He said he was forced to seek relief in equity and since the bank's threat to surrender the gold to the Federal Reserve bank had been based on the President's order, he felt the action involved the constitutionality of the orders and would require a determination in the federal court.

Judge Learned Hand, who with Judge Manton and Judge Thomas W. Swan made up the court, questioned this, pointing out that dozens of similar actions come up in the state courts. Mr. Campbell explained his position more fully.

Suddenly his head dropped to the manuscript stand before him, and before any one could reach his side he fell to the floor in a faint. Argument was adjourned until Monday.

REPORTS COLOR ADVERTISING BEST SALES STIMULANT

Advertisments which are attractively illustrated, preferably in color, are those which appeal most to women, according to J. R. Pershall, advertising manager of the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois. His views were expressed last evening in an address, "Will Women Read It," before the home service conference of te American Gas association at the Palmer house.

"Your woman reader," he said, "likes your product done up in nice packages. Color is the new trend. Its use in magazines has given them great pulling power. Advertising experts are looking forward to the use of color on a large scale in the daily press."

INSULL LAWYERS QUIT AS COUNSEL FOR MIDDLE WEST

Resignation Accepted by Judge Lindley.

The law firm of Schuyler, Weinfeld & Hennessy, whose removal as co-counsel for the receiver of Middle West Utilities company is sought in a proceeding now pending before Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley, yesterday announced its resignation, effective April 30.

Charles A. McCulloch, the receiver, informed the court that the law firm had submitted its resignation and Judge Lindley accepted it. The asserted reason for resigning at this time is that the affairs of the receivership estate have been put into such shape that they can be handled by one law firm, with a consequent saving to the creditors.

Both Schuyler, Weinfeld & Hennessy and the remaining law firm, Burry, Johnstone, Peters & Dixon, have been receiving an allowance of $2,500 a month on account.

Decision Near in Fraud Case.

Judge Lindley has under advisement and is reported to be about ready to decide, a case in which Samuel Insull Sr., his bankers and lawyers are accused of "framing" the Insull receiverships and perpetrating a fraud upon the court. Former Corporation Counsel Samuel Ettelson, who originally brought the charges of conspiracy and collusion—more than a year ago—asked that Receiver McCulloch and the two law firms representing him be removed and the Middle West receivership declared void.

Ettelson first made his charges before Referee in Bankruptcy Garfield Charles and later before Federal Judge Evan A. Evans in connection with motions to block the confirmation of Calvin Fentress as trustee of the bankrupt Insull Utility Investment company and to disallow further fees to him. Fentress had been receiver prior to the election of a trustee. He was not confirmed as trustee and Judge Evans refused a further allowance of fees, at the same time ruling that Insull Utility Investments, and by implication Corporation Securities and Middle West Utilities, were collusively placed into receivership.

McCulloch Asks Inquiry.

As a result of this finding, Receiver McCulloch requested Judge Lindley to conduct a thorough investigation into the receiverships to dispel any clouds of suspicion. Attorney Ettelson also requested an inquiry and demanded the removal of McCulloch and his lawyers. Judge Lindley, on his own motion, ordered the investigation and conducted what came to be known as a "town meeting," in which the charges were fully exploited.

It was brought out in these hearings that Samuel Insull Sr., one of the original co-receivers of Middle West, was forced to resign six weeks after the receivership began when his colleagues, Mr. McCullouch and the late Edward N. Hurley, discovered an "abuse of corporate authority" on his part.

Attorney Ettelson accused the firm of Schuyler, Weinfeld & Hennessy — Schuyler, Dunbar & Hennessy at the time of the receivership—of unethical conduct in accepting the appointment because they had represented the Insull companies for years, and Daniel Schuyler, head of the firm, had been Insull's personal attorney for twenty years. The evidence disclosed that Gilbert E. Porter of the law firm of Isham, Lincoln & Beale, which also had represented the Insull companies, refused to accept an appointment on the ground that it would be improper.

SINNERS TIRE, RETURN, MARY PICKFORD SAYS, BUT CITES NO CASES

Philadelphia, Pa., April 13.—[Special.]—"Men are like little boys. When they are tired of being naughty they are glad to come home."

Mary Pickford was not speaking specifically of Douglas Fairbanks when she made that remark during an interview here, but the inference today was obvious.

The name of her husband, whom dispatches describe as visiting Luttrellstown castle in Ireland with Lady Ashley, was constantly on the movie star's lips during the conversation.

She quoted Anita Loos:

She would not speak directly, however, about her estrangement from her husband nor about the reported reconciliation betwen them.

TELLS A GHOST YARN AT HEARING ON DRUG CHARGE

Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan yesterday listened to one of the most gruesome recitations in his courtroom experience. Charles Long, 40 years old, colored, was arraigned on narcotic charges and was seeking to explain how he happened to be in a suspected drug peddlers' den at 4730 Prairie avenue when it was raided. A small quantity of drugs was found.

"I work in an undertaker's room near there," Long related. "This undertaker lets me sleep in the place. It's practically full of spirits.

"On the night of the raid I heard some of the coffins creaking. When I was able to move I ran over to the other building, and was just sleeping there when the raiders arrived. Next day I discovered that glue drying on the coffins had made them creak."

LOOP PARADE ON APRIL 20 TO OPEN CIRCUS SEASON

With a revival of the old-fashioned circus parade of clowns, acrobats, animals, and a calliope, the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus will open the spring season in Chicago at the Coliseum on April 21. The show will continue for 16 days.

The parade this year is to be an illuminated street pageant through the loop, with the line of march more than a mile and a half long, to be staged on Friday night, April 20.

One of the features of the circus will be a pageant, "Persia," staged by Rex de Rosselli, European producer, with 2,000 people and animals taking part, and finishing with a fireworks display.

S. K. MARTIN III. AND HIS WIFE ARE RECONCILED

Samuel K. Martin III., grandson of the late Otto Young, Chicago millionaire, has been reconciled with his wife, Mrs. Jane Catherine Martin, former show girl, according to word from Washington yesterday. The wife sued him for separate maintenance in Chicago two weeks ago.

This reconciliation first became known when Attorney Sylvanus George Lee appeared before Judge Roman Posanski in the Circuit court and asked a modification of the injunction secured by Mrs. Martin, tying up the income from a trust fund which was her husband's share of the $20,000,000 Young estate.

At the attorney's request, Judge Posanski allowed the payment of a $10,000 quarterly payment due April 1, but the injunction still is effective as to future payments. Later, word came from Guy Mason, Mrs. Martin's attorney in Washington, reporting that the Martins had been reconciled without the aid of counsel. He knew no further details.

In her separate maintenance bill Mrs. Martin charged her husband with squandering his fortune on liquor and parties, and with failing to contribute to her support.

RUFUS C. DAWES SELECTED FOR CIVIC AWARD

Rufus C. Dawes, president of A Century of Progress Exposition, has been selected by a committee of the Benjamin J. Rosenthal Charities, Inc., to be the recipient of the foundation's gold medal which is awarded annually for outstanding civic service. The presentation will be made by Abel Davis, chairman of the Chicago Title and Trust company, at a noon luncheon April 17 at the Standard club. Mr. Dawes was selected for his work in connection with the World's Fair. Others who have been awarded the medal include Gov. Horner, D. F. Kelly, president of the Fair store; Fred W. Sargent, president of the North Western railroad; Dr. Benjamin Goldberg, and Alfred C. Meyer.

Kane Co. Sherif Nominees Win by Narrow Margins

The Democratic and Republican nominees for sherif of Kane county won the nominations in Tuesday's primaries by the narrowest margins in the county's history, the official canvass revealed yesterday. L. L. Urich of Batavia won the Republican nomination by only 32 votes, and the margin of the Democratic winner, Albert J. Kampmeyer of Elgin was 18 votes.

'32 TAX PENALTY DEADLINE WILL FALL TOMORROW

Volume of Payments Is Below Last Year.

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate tax collections yesterday, including those for 1932, were $2,249,687, making a total of $156,222,138 collected since enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act began on April 28, 1933. The day's collections of real estate taxes and the uncollected taxes for the four years follow:

April 13	$ 5,422	$ 43,683
Uncollected	14,631,144	39,483,752
	1930.	1931.
April 13	$ 57,086	$ 126,683
Uncollected	63,398,264	87,945,820

The day's collection of 1932 real estate taxes totaled $2,017,358, and of 1932 personal property taxes, $246,680.

With midnight tomorrow fixed as the legal date after which penalties will be added to payments of 1932 personal property taxes and the first instalment of 1932 real estate taxes, the county treasurer's staf worked overtime last night receiving and recording payments.

The office will be kept open this afternoon, and also from 8 a. m. to 4 p. m. tomorrow, to take care of the last minute rush. That rush was on to some extent yesterday, but the number of items paid was well below similar totals for corresponding days in other tax payment periods.

This was laid by members of County Treasurer McDonough's staf to County Judge Jarecki's recent ruling in the 15 per cent assessment reduction case. Thousands of home owners who had paid their 1931 taxes in full failed to benefit by that ruling.

Won't Jeopardize Rights.

As a result tax payments by home owners on 1932 bills have virtually ceased since the ruling was announced despite assurances by county officials that taxpayers may pay the first instalment of their 1932 bill in full without jeopardizing their righis to reduction in their total bills. Any reductions which they may get, by complaints filed with the board of tax appeals or otherwise, will be made on their second instalment payments.

George Hagenauer, auditor in the treasurer's office, announced that when the books were closed last evening, a total of $20,771,913 in real estate taxes and $7,093,482 in personal property taxes on the 1932 levy had been recorded. This did not include payments made to township collectors in the country towns, where collections are reported to be as good, or slightly better, than they were a year ago. Also it did not include payments at the tax warant division of the treasurer's office.

That division handles payments made partly in tax warants, which include most of the bills of large taxpayers. Instead of waiting until the final day before penalties fall to make payments, thus saving interest on the money involved as they did in former years, most large corporations deposit their warants some time in advance, giving the treasurer's employés time to calculate accrued interest on the warants.

May Exceed Last Year.

In excess of $10,000,000 has already been deposited in this way, to be turned into the treasury on the penalty date. Taking these payments into account, it seemed probable last night that the total 1932 payments up to the penalty date will exceed the percentage of payment at the same time on the 1931 taxes.

For 1931 the treasurer had collected at the penalty date real estate taxes equivalent to 57 per cent of the total first instalment extensions. These payments included a number of second instalment payments, but did not include country town collections.

This year, to pass the 1931 record, Treasurer McDonough will have to get in $20,000,000 more between now and tomorrow night, exclusive of country town collections. When the tax warant payments, as yet unrecorded, are taken into account, it is extremely likely that he will do this.

20,000 WATCH BLAZE IN BANKERS' BUILDING; LOOP TRAFIC TIED UP

Occupants of offices, and patrons of a first floor restaurant in the Bankers' building at 105 West Adams street were driven to the street yesterday by smoke from a fire which started in a basement paint shop of the building.

Although property damage was comparatively small, firemen experienced extreme difficulty in fighting the blaze. Dense smoke from the burning oil substances, and the intense heat kept even those equipped with masks from descending the stairs.

Several large holes were finally chopped in the floor of the Thompson restaurant on the Quincy street corner, and hose streams played on the fire from above. A new "smoke ejector" was also used to clear the basement, under the direction of Division Marshal Joseph Mackey.

A crowd of some 20,000 spectators jammed the streets and blocked trafic in all directions, despite the efforts of police. Total damage to the building was estimated at only a few thousand dollars.

HORNER PUSHES OWN SLATE FOR JUDICIAL RACE

BY PARKE BROWN.

Gov. Horner, it was disclosed last night at an organization meeting, is attempting to raise a deciding voice in Democratic affairs in connection with the judicial election of June 4.

As the plan for coalition now stands, the Democrats will have the selection of the men for two vacancies, one in the Circuit court and one in the Superior court. Gov. Horner has a candidate for each, and he has gone so far as to ask a chance to speak for one of them although he had been warned of united opposition to his candidate from the territory which must sponsor him if he is to be agreed upon.

Unable to Attend Meeting.

The meeting, that of the county central committee, was attended by Mayor Kelly, State's Attorney Courtney and other leaders, in addition to the ward and district committeemen. It was called to hear the governor. He sent word he was unable to reach here until this morning and final action was deferred until his arrival.

The coalition plan advanced materially during the day. The executive committee of the Republican county central committee met and ratified the proposal for the renomination of the six sitting judges with the Democrats taking two vacancies and the G. O. P. getting the third, a Superior court place.

After calling the Democrats together Chairman P. A. Nash explained the situation in reference to Gov. Horner and went on to say that the governor had urged most strongly the nomination of Charles F. Molthrop of River Forest. Nash said that he had told the governor that the country towns districts were unanimously opposed to the suggestion, but, he added, the governor thought he could convince the committee if he had a chance to talk to them. Thus the trip to Chicago, now deferred until this morning.

Fills Vacancy in Court.

Gov. Horner last year appointed Attorney Molthrop to a six months' vacancy in the Superior court caused by the election of Judge John Prystalski to the Circuit bench. Judge Molthrop served that brief term but, except for Gov. Horner, the leaders have not considered him for nomination at this time.

That Chairman Nash's statement concerning the attitude of the country towns was correct was verified when the roll of the committee was called and Ning Eley of DesPlaines and Roswell B. Mason of Winnetka, taking their turn to present names, proposed John C. Lewe of Riverside.

The attitude toward the governor in the Molthrop matter was evident, but the general feeling of the committee, certainly not one of warm friendship, was brought out a few moments later when letters of indorsement for various candidates were read. One of them was a letter from Gov. Horner urging the nomination of Attorney Frank J. Corr, selected by the city council to act as mayor during the interim between the death of Mayor Cermak and the election of Mayor Kelly.

Ask What is Name.

A secretary read the letter, closing with the signature.

"What's the name?" asked someone, and there was a brief wave of laughter in that section of the room.

There was much comment over the fact that in the presentation of names of candidates the only applause came when speakers urged the selection of Cornelius J. Harrington for the Circuit court vacancy left by the appointment of Judge Philip L. Sullivan to the federal bench. Mr. Harrington's ability, his long service to the party, his service record and other points were dwelt upon by speakers from all three sections of the city.

Ald. Corr appeared to be running second in popularity, judging from the number of times his name was mentioned, but several committeemen after the meeting questioned whether Gov. Horner's letter in his behalf had not lessened his chances of nomination.

Kern's Name Heard.

There was a rumor that some sort of a deal had been made to give one of the two open nominations to Jacob J. Kern, who served one term as state's attorney from 1928 to 1932 but it could not be traced to its source. Kern now is well along in years and has not been publicly active in Democratic affairs.

A score of other names were presented, among them that of a woman, Attorney Pearl Hart. Others were Michael Rosinia, Benjamin E. Cohen, Joseph Lisack, Municipal Judge Frank M. Padden, Otto C. Rentner, Municipal Judge Jay Schiller, and Max Korshak.

Both Democratic and Republican conventions are scheduled for noon today. They must act, according to the law, before midnight tonight.

Victim's Companion Tells of Pre-Crash Drinks.

A verdict of accidental death was returned yesterday by a coroner's jury investigating the death of Arthur V. Z. Jennings, 39 years old, 1201 West 41st street, La Grange, who was burned to death early yesterday when his automobile collided with a truck at Devon and Crawford avenues, Tessville.

George P. Blackford, 50 years old, 522 Lake street, Oak Park, Jennings' companion who was cut and bruised in the crash, testified at the inquest that he and Jennings had been drinking at a Devon avenue saloon before the crash.

Driver Saw No Lights.

Herbert Cripps, 35 years old, 4922 Jackson boulevard, driver of the truck, declared at the hearing that he did not see Jennings' car until it was a few feet from the truck. The car, he declared, had no lights and he added there was no opportunity to avoid the crash. Both the automobile and the truck were destroyed by flames which followed the crash. D. W. Huggins, 4164 Clarendon avenue, helper on the truck, was severely cut and bruised.

Jennings was a salesman for the paper box division of the American Colortype company, 1151 Roscoe street. He is survived by his widow, a small son, and his mother, Mrs. Harriet E. Jennings, who lived with him.

Year's Toll Reaches 343.

Jennings' death and two others brought the Cook county automobile toll since Jan. 1 to 343. The other victims were:

Hugh Wallwork, 64 years old, 701 Reba place Evanston. Died at St. Francis hospital, Evanston, yesterday of injuries received when struck by a hit and run driver at Chicago avenue and Mulford street, Evanston.

Abe Gechman, 33 years old, 4101 Arthington street. Fatally injured yesterday when his car collided with another driven by Peter Schernoss, 34 years old, 3537 Schubert avenue, at Seminary and Wellington avenues.

POLICE CAR AFLAME AFTER A BLACK CAT RUNS ACROSS PATH

Sergt. Robert White and his detective bureau squad were cruising south in Clinton street yesterday when a black cat ran in front of the car. Recalling that it was Friday the 13th, there were forebodings on the part of the policemen. Sure enough, at Clinton and Washington streets, the detectives suddenly discovered the squad car was on fire. They watched gloomily while firemen extinguished the blaze.

POLICEMAN SLAIN IN BATTLE WITH 3 STORE BANDITS

Patrolman John Officer, 43 years old, one of the best known Negro members of the police department, was shot through the heart and killed last night in a gun battle with three Negro bandits in William Friedman's shoe store at 302 East 43d street.

The bandits, all armed, had herded Friedman, Albert Pearson, 4344 Calumet avenue, Negro clerk, and six Negro patrons into a basement, and were about to escape with $200 loot when Policeman Officer entered.

Officer entered the store when he noticed no one inside. He walked toward the rear with gun drawn. Suddenly one of the bandits fired at him. Officer fired back, but fell a moment later, shot in the heart. The hoodlums escaped in a commandeered car owned by Jack White, Negro, of 350 East 59th street. White was forced to drive them away. Officer lived at 523 East 67th street and was attached to the Wabash avenue station.

"ROBBER" FREED; FOUND INNOCENT PERJURY VICTIM

Frank Coyne, 7835 South Wood street, who was convicted of robbery with a gun two months ago, and has since been confined in the county jail, yesterday was granted a new trial by Judge Michael Feinberg and was speedily released. The action was taken after it had been conclusively shown Coyne was innocent and had been convicted on perjured testimony.

Judge Feinberg ordered that Attorney Julius Reznik, accused of arranging the perjured defense, be arrested. He was still being sought last night. Reznik, it was also brought out in court, has been conducting a "parole mill," offering to supply prisoners in the Joliet penitentiary with sponsors at a flat rate of $200 each.

Philip Murphy, alias Mansfield, one of the actual robbers, has confessed not only his participation in the holdup of one T. Allen, 1934 West 39th street, on Jan. 31, but also that Reznik, for a fee, obtained him a sponsor for parole from Joliet. Graham Cogan, stationer at 120 North La Salle street, who furnished an alibi for Mansfield, has been arrested. Mansfield has been ordered to a life term in the penitentiary as a habitual criminal. The other of the real robbers, according to the later testimony, is Edward Coyle. He is being sought.

99 Couples Get Marriage Licenses on Friday, 13th

Ninety-nine couples expressed indifference to the Friday the 13th jinx yesterday by obtaining marriage licenses, Chief Clerk Sidney Summerfield reported. Most of the couples were unconcerned over the date, he said, and asserted they were not the least bit superstitious. There was a decrease of 32 licenses issued yesterday as compared to the number issued a week ago.

NRA ARBITERS FAIL TO STOP HOTEL STRIKE

Efforts by National Recovery administration arbiters yesterday to end the strike of the cooks, waiters, and bus boys of the Parkway, Webster, and Belden-Stratford hotels at 2100, 2150 and 2300 Lincoln Park West, respectively, were unsuccessful. After a conference in the NRA offices at 400 North Michigan avenue for several hours, union officials announced that they would continue to place pickets about the hotels and would halt deliveries of food stuffs, milk, and other supplies, as they have done since Wednesday.

Joseph Connery, receiver of all three hotels, which are under the same management, informed the NRA mediators that he was unable to discuss any terms for settlement without the approval of Circuit Judge Joseph Burke, the chancellor who appointed him. Max Caldwell, business agent for the Waiters' alliance, the union organization, informed the receiver that the employés were demanding an increase from the $45 monthly wages previously paid to the $60 a month minimum set by the hotel code. He announced that the union employés were willing to return to work immediately on these terms.

The mediators directed the hotel receiver and the union officials to appeal to Judge Burke for a decision.

VOLIVA DEFEAT POSSIBLE IN ZION ELECTION TODAY

Zion will vote today on a president and two members of the Zion school board. According to reports late last night, Wilbur Glenn Voliva, general overseer, is in danger of losing his first Zion election in many years. In a last minute appeal last night Voliva conceded that the election would be close. His candidates are Sylvester H. De Pew for president and Carl G. Lee and Richard F. Hire for trustees. The independents are putting up Onias W. Farley for president and Mrs. Margaret S. Purcell and Homer G. Ingram for trustees.

Policeman Arthur Rathke Kills Himself in Home

WITH THE UNITED STATES FLEET, Off West Coast of Mexico, April 13.—(AP)—The confusion of death and destruction that a high seas battle between two great fleets brings tested the leadership and seamanship of officers of the United States fleet today.

Admirals received flashes that their flag bridges had been shot away and their staffs, including themselves, wiped out.

Engineer officers were advised their power plants were crippled. Navigators learned their ships' propellers were destroyed, communications were cut off, turrets disabled and compartments flooded.

Act to Avoid Collisions.

Dreadnaughts, cruisers, destroyers, submarines, aircraft carriers staggered crazily out of the battle lines, and other ships in column had to act promptly to avoid collisions. Smoke poured from funnels simulating ships afire.

Such was the chaos that Friday the thirteenth found the bulk of the American navy in today, en route to Panama and the Atlantic from California waters.

It was the famous battle casualty drill, in which the officers who remained "alive" under the orders had to act quickly and bring order out of chaos.

80 Fighting Ships in "Battle."

The spectacle was the climax of the engagement between more than 80 fighting ships under command of Admiral D. F. Sellers, as commander in chief of the Blue fleet, and a theoretical fleet of similar strength known as the Grey, simulated by the supply ships and commanded by Rear Admiral Frederick J. Horne.

When it was over and the signal "Cease present exercise" flashed from the U. S. S. Pennsylvania, the "dead" admirals, captains and other officers and men came back to life with comments on the tactical effects of the "destruction."

GENEVA LABOR OFFICE FINDS WORLD IDLENESS IS ON THE DECREASE

[Copyright; 1934; By the New York Times.]

GENEVA, April 13.—The league of nations' international labor office reported today in its quarterly statement that the general improvement in the world unemployment situation which began a year ago continued during the first three months of 1934.

Compared with the same period in 1933, which eliminates seasonal influences, it reports a decrease in the registered unemployed in the following countries: Australia, Austria, Canada, Danzig, Denmark, Estonia, Finland, Germany, Great Britain, Hungary, Italy, Japan, Latvia, The Netherlands, New Zealand, Norway, Palestine, Rumania, the Saar, the United States, and Jugo-Slavia. The greatest increase in employment was in the United States, Canada, and Germany.

Unemployment became worse in Belgium, Bulgaria, France, the Irish Free State, and Portugal. No conclusions are drawn for Czechoslovakia, Poland, Sweden, and Switzerland because different returns from these countries conflict.

American unemployment, the report says, fell from 13,294,000 in March, 1933, to 11,874,000 last March and the employment index rose from 58.7 to 73.9.

JUDGE SETTLES DISPUTE WITH DILLINGER JURY

A settlement of the controversy between Judge William J. Murray of the Lake county, Ind., Circuit court and six grand jurors who aroused the judge's anger by criticisms contained in their report on the escape of John Dillinger from the Crown Point jail was arrived at yesterday. This settlement seemed to be satisfactory to all concerned.

Judge Murray, who had cited the grand jurors to show cause why they should not be held in contempt, listened to an answer in which the six asserted they had only tried to carry out the court's orders and had no intention of casting personal aspersions upon him. He then expunged the report from the records and ordered the grand jury discharged.

Judge Accepts Answer.

"I am sorry that this has come up, gentlemen," Judge Murray said. "It is not pleasant for the court. I accept the answer. It was unfortunate that you were not better advised."

The grand jurors, in the original report, had sharply criticized the judge for failing to order Dillinger, the most notorious of present day criminals, confined in the Michigan City prison rather than in the Crown Point jail while he was awaiting trial for murder.

Indictments against Ernest Blunk and Sam Cahoon, deputy sheriff and jail turnkey, who were accused of willingly aiding Dillinger in his flight, will stand, it was said. It was indicated that Judge Murray plans no more action against Special Prosecutor Martin J. Smith and Deputy Attorney General Homer Barce, advisers of the grand jury in their investigation.

Arraign Dillinger's Girl.

In Chicago the focus of interest in the Dillinger case was the arraignment of Evelyn Frechetti, the outlaw's woman companion, before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker. A removal warant for her return to St. Paul was presented, but on motion of the government there was a continuation of the hearing until April 23. Bonds for the woman were set at $60,000, although a plea that it be made $200,000 was made by United States Attorney Dwight H. Green.

"This man Dillinger," said Mr. Green, "is the most dangerous criminal in this country. To set bonds of less than $200,000 in this matter will place the full responsibility for her appearance on the commissioner."

When the demand for such a high bond was first made by Assistant United States Attorney Austin Hall, there was a vigorous protest from Miss Frechetti's attorney, Louis Piquett.

"That's asinine," he shouted.

Orders Attorney to Apologize.

Commissioner Walker reprimanded the attorney and ordered that he apologize to Mr. Hall.

Unusual precautions to keep the woman prisoner from escape were taken. She was accompanied from her cell to the hearing by no less than fifteen guards. So great is the reputation of the missing Dillinger that it was feared he might attempt to rescue her, even from the court building.

It has been established, according to Melvin H. Purvis, chief investigator here for the department of justice, that Miss Frechetti was with Dillinger in St. Paul shortly before he shot his way out of a trap set for him there by government men. She is charged with harboring a fugitive.

Government agents yesterday visited a safety deposit box at 2805 North Clark street, said to have been used by Dillinger and Evelyn while they were in Chicago. The key to the box was found in their St. Paul apartment.

Patrol Northern Indiana After Jail Raid by Dillinger

Warsaw, Ind., April 13.—[Special.]—America's public enemy No. 1, John Dillinger, who visited Warsaw at 1 o'clock on the morning of Friday the 13th and left his calling card, in the form of a badly battered head on the shoulders of Night Police Officer Judd H. Pittenger, has again disappeared, without leaving a forwarding address.

No trace of Dillinger or his companion, identified by Officer Pittenger as Homer Van Meter, 26, an escaped Indiana convict and a henchman of Dillinger, has been found since the two made their escape in a dark colored sedan. Indiana state police officers, rushed here early today by Capt. Matt Leach, have been busy all day patroling highways and searching for just the resemblance of a clew to his whereabouts.

Accosted on Street.

Dillinger and the man suspected of being Van Meter, accosted Officer Pittenger as he was making his rounds in the heart of the business section early Friday morning. Both were armed with sub-machine guns.

"We want your vests," Dillinger said quietly as he accosted the policeman. "Where are your keys to the police station?"

Pittenger denied having the keys as he stalled for time, hoping that some one would come to his aid. He seized the gun held by Dillinger and the two wrestled with it for more than a minute. Then Van Meter poked his gun in Pittenger's back and Dillinger was quoted as saying:

"Don't be a d—— fool. We don't want to kill you."

Officer Pittenger said "I don't want to be killed." I have two kids at home."

Struck Four Times.

The two bandits then disarmed Pittenger and struck him three blows over the head and one on the back.

The bandits then marched the officer one block through an alley and half a block along a main street to the jail, concealing their guns under their overcoats and warning him not to make a noise or give a signal.

They followed him up the stairs to the police station which is on the second floor of the city building, over the fire station. Pittenger turned on the light and had an opportunity to compare Dillinger with a large picture of the desperado on the police bulletin board. He was positive of the identification.

After unlocking the door leading to the inner office of the station, Van Meter tore open a glass case on the wall, containing three bullet proof vests. He also picked up a revolver.

Officer Flees Bandits.

As Dillinger, who was standing within the small room, turned his head for an instant, Officer Pittenger slammed the door and ran for the stairs. The bandits followed, but he succeeded in gaining the shelter of an alley, hiding behind a theater building. He saw the two bandits enter a car parked near the station and drive away to the north.

FRENCH PREMIER DEFIES WAR VETS; CUTS PENSIONS

Threatens to Resign if Opposed.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, April 13.—Ignoring the ultimatum addressed to him yesterday by the representatives of 3,500,000 war veterans, Premier Gaston Doumergue today staked his political career and the future of France on the integral application of his economy program.

Whereas the veterans announced yesterday that they would only consent to cuts in their pensions after July 1, providing the government achieved its sweeping program of political and economic reforms in the meantime, Doumergue today informed the veterans' delegates that the cuts would be applied by a decree which will be published in the Journal Officiel tomorrow or Sunday.

Threatens to Resign.

It is reported that Doumergue warned the veterans that if they attempted any protest demonstrations or resisted the decree in any way, he would resign at once. Finance Minister Louis Germain Martin also announced that he would resign if the cabinet did not apply the decree at once.

On the actual question of money a compromise was reached in a conference between the veterans and Doumergue and Germain Martin. The main issue was whether the pensions will be paid out of lottery proceeds, as the government originally asked, or out of a special fund financed by government guaranteed bond issues. A compromise was reached whereby the pensions will be supported by the lottery, but with a government guaranty that a possible deficit will be made good. On several minor issues the government gave in to the veterans.

It is also presumed that while Doumergue insisted that the veterans' demands that they be shown concrete reforms before accepting sacrifices were inadmissible for the prestige of the government, he privately assured them that the reforms they are demanding would in effect be achieved by July 1.

Vets in Awkward Hole.

The veterans were put in an awkward hole by this rebuff, which was cleverly combined with material concessions. If they try to back up their strong words of yesterday it will amount to a revolution and they are not ready for that. Apparently they are simply going to back down—another triumph for the gentle, smiling, old man who speaks softly but has shown that he carries the big stick.

On the other hand, the disgruntlement of the veterans, however muffled, is likely to feed syndicalist agitation against the economy program. Today communist postal employés called an hour strike just to try its hand at crippling public service in preparation for more serious activities, but it seems to have been more or less of a fizzle. Socialist civil servants, supported by Reds, will try to make the strike more effective Monday.

The government late today suspended 29 postal employés for conspicuous participation in the one hour strike. The suspensions were explained as a provisional measure, to be followed by permanent punishment to be governed by the individual records of the accused.

ANTI-SUPERSTITION SOCIETY DEFIES JINX AND URGES MORE 13S

At the regular Friday the 13th meeting of the Anti-Superstition society last night, a resolution was adopted demanding that hotels and railroads use the number "13" on floors, rooms, and train compartments. Thirteen members of the organization, which met at the L'Aiglon restaurant, signified their approval of the measure by spilling salt on the table in the light of 13 candles.

The resolution stated:

"Whereas various business enterprises, including hotels and railroads, have long enough insulted human intelligence by the deliberate omission of the number 13, we, the members of the Anti-Superstition society, hereby call upon them to cease bowing before superstition, and to employ this proper number in its proper place."

BEVERAGE TRADE HEAD DENIES GANG RULE IN INDUSTRY

Refutes Conspiracy Count at Racket Trial.

BY GEORGE WRIGHT.

Arthur J. Canfield, head of a beverage company bearing his name and also president of the Beverage Dealers' institute, took the witness stand in the racket conspiracy trial yesterday before Chief Justice Philip J. Finnegan of the Criminal court, to deny that he was party to a conspiracy to racketeer as charged by the prosecution.

He is the third of the eighteen defendants to take the witness stand. Previously Dr. Benjamin M. Squires, University of Chicago economist, who was virtual dictator of the cleaning industry, had testified, as did Attorney Morris I. Kaplan, who finished his testimony yesterday morning.

Denies Hoodlum Connections.

Canfield told the jury that the beverage institute was formed in order to remedy conditions which existed in the trade. He denied that hoodlums or racketeering had any connection with the formation of the institute, as is charged by the prosecution.

"Many of us in the industry were selling below cost of manufacturing," said Canfield. "Our salesmen were 'running down' the products of our competitors and the ethics generally were bad. We were afraid of losing our businesses through cutthroat competition."

Canfield said that the beverage dealers decided that an outsider should be brought into the association to conduct its affairs. He said that among those under consideration were Harry Olson, former chief justice of the Municipal court, and Ald. Jacob Arvey. He said that after a canvass of the various prospects it was decided to employ Attorney Kaplan because of his familiarity with trade association law.

Advised on Price Fixing.

The witness said that Kaplan advised the organization that it had the right to set a minimum price for its products. Such procedure was not a violation of the law, he said the attorney informed the association.

Under cross-examination by Assistant State's Attorney William E. Crawford, Canfield denied that he ever had heard Dr. Squires make a statement attributed to him, to the effect that he [Dr. Squires] told a group of beverage manufacturers that "I'll not come into the beverage business if it isn't cleaned of gangsters, because I had that situation to face in the dry cleaning business." Dr. Squires at one time had been mentioned as a possible dictator of the beverage industry, according to the evidence.

Canfield then was excused and the defense apparently ended the beverage phase of the fourfold conspiracy charges.

Take Up Laundry Trade.

After a hurried conference among defense attorneys, the concluding phase of the defense was opened, that concerning the laundry industry.

Arthur C. Brunell, 8000 Phillips avenue, secretary of the Grand Laundry company, 3049 Calumet avenue, and George Mattwiller, 130 North Austin boulevard, Oak Park, owner of the Mattwiller Laundry company, 1637 West Cermak road, both denied on the witness stand that T. Henry Klein, president of the Laundry Owners' association, and a defendant, had threatened the owners of cash and carry discount laundries.

During the morning session of the trial the defense scored a victory when Judge Finnegan ruled that Defense Attorney Benedict J. Short could introduce into evidence a contract which the defense contended showed that Al Capone was a partner in the cleaning and dyeing business with Morris Becker. Becker, an important state witness, had denied that Capone was in business with him.

Introduce Charter.

The defense introduced over the vigorous objection of the state, a charter for the Sanitary Cleaning Shops, Inc., showing that the stockholders, as listed in the application, were Capone, Maurice Cowen, Louis Cowen, slain Cicero publisher; Howard Blum, Carl Stockholm, six day bicycle rider and also manager of a Becker store, and Ruth Corstens, private secretary to Becker.

Although Becker's name did not appear, many of his associates and employés in the cleaning business were among those listed as stockholders, and the defense contended that it showed plainly that Becker was associated with Capone.

As court was adjourned to Monday Attorney Short, acting as spokesman for the 12 defense lawyers, said that the defense would conclude its case before April 25. The case has been on trial since last Jan. 4.

STATE OFFICIALS DENY FAVORING ROAD BUILDERS

Can Pick Own Bonding Firm, Says Kingery.

BY HAL FOUST.

Director Kingery of the state department of public works and State Highway Engineer Lieberman yesterday vigorously denied rumors that any favoritism was shown toward road contractors who patronized Horan and O'Brien, Chicago insurance agents and brokers, in obtaining their indemnity bonds for state work. Al Horan, chief bailif of the Municipal court, and M. J. O'Brien, former chief clerk of the sanitary district, are both influential Democratic politicians.

A special committee of the Illinois Association of Insurance Agents recently addressed a letter to Gov. Horner reading in part: "It is believed desirable that contractors be permitted to furnish bonds of any financially responsible company . . . through agents of their own choice."

Get Much of Business.

"It's true," Mr. Kingery replied to a direct question, "that Horan and O'Brien have received much of the bond business from contractors doing work for the state. But no contractor has ever been told by this department where to buy his bond nor has any contractor been favored as a result of where he obtained his indemnity."

The director caller for the files and showed that under the date of Oct. 11 he issued the following memorandum:

"It is my understanding that no one, in any department of the state, is offering suggestions to bidders regarding the agency or company in which they are to furnish bonds. This is the policy of the department of public works and buildings, and its divisions are expected to comply."

Lieberman Gives Example.

"Some time ago," said Mr. Lieberman, "I learned that a solicitor for bonding business was telling contractors that his company had a drag with the state administration. I reported the solicitor's conduct to his employer and the practice was stopped."

A large portion of the bonding business done indirectly with the state is through contractors working for the highway department. Contractors before being awarded a contract are required to post a performance bond for the amount of the contract. The department records are indicative but not conclusive of how much business Horan & O'Brien is getting.

Horan and O'Brien Figures.

Horan & O'Brien is an agency of the Fidelity and Casualty Company of Maryland. In 1933 the Maryland company wrote $753,774 of the $25,834,614 contractors' bonds accepted by the highway department. In 1933, Gov. Horner's first year in office, this company had $4,781,906 out of a total of $11,256,122.

"We're glad to cooperate with any investigation," said Mr. O'Brien. "It's true that we are getting much of the business from contractors doing work for the state, but there has been nothing unethical in our solicitations. We have repeatedly cautioned our agents not to make any representations of having political influence with the administration.

"I can't say offhand how much of this bond business we are getting, but I'm willing for the figures to be published from our books, if you want to use them. I know some of our competitors have kicked to Gov. Horner and have even complained to Washington. The government had an investigator on the case, but in so far as I'm able to learn he didn't find anything wrong."

Mr. Horan is in Wisconsin on a vacation.

Twins Lead to Family Breakup

Just Twice as Angry!

John Farley of 6709 Kenwood avenue did not like children, and was angry when he learned that he was to become a father, according to the story told by his wife, Gladys, to Judge Rudolph Desort yesterday. When twins arrived in October, 1930, he was twice as angry, she said, and continued being cruel to her until they separated soon afterward. Judge Desort instructed her attorney, Norman Becker, to draw up a divorce decree, granting her custody of the twins, Ronald and Donald, now 4 years old, and said he would sign it.

DIVORCED YOUTH SUICIDE IN FRENCH PREMIER'S HOME

PARIS, April 13.—(AP)—Enzo de Bonse, son of an Italian general and former son-in-law of Mme. Gaston Doumergue, shot himself in Premier Doumergue's apartment and died late today. De Bonse, who was 24, left Italy at the time of Premier Mussolini's rise to power and came to France, where he was naturalized and attended the Sorbonne.

At the famous Paris university he met Marthe Grave, daughter of Mme. Grave, who now is the wife of the French premier. They were married after the war and had three children. They were divorced in 1930.

De Bonse called to see his divorced wife and after a conversation, conducted in the presence of Mme. Doumergue, shot himself with a pistol. The young man suffered from neurasthenia and his act was attributed to despondency and failure to effect a reconciliation with his former wife. In 1931 Premier Doumergue married Mme. Grave.

COURTNEY URGES POLICE TO PUSH AUTO THEFT WAR

Praises Results, but Asks Untiring Vice Drive.

Automobile theft is "still the outstanding crime in Chicago and must be stopped," State's Attorney Courtney told 65 police captains, lieutenants, and park officials yesterday after he had complimented them for their participation in the campaign which has brought a marked decrease in the number of automobiles stolen from Chicago motorists.

Citing April 9, when 46 cars were stolen and three cars stripped, Mr. Courtney declared that 105 cars had been stolen and 15 stripped on the corresponding day last year.

Asks Untiring War on Theft.

"This example clearly illustrates the vast improvement that has been made in decreasing thefts," he said, "but 46 cars taken in a single day is still too many. It's up to you police captains to stop these thefts. Our efforts must be untiring."

He declared that his office would keep a close watch on the number of thefts in each police district. If there is an increase in any district which points to police laxity a shakeup of personnel will follow, he indicated.

Mr. Courtney asked that more detectives be assigned exclusively to investion of automobile thefts, and warned that improved conditions do not warant adding other work to the duties of policemen on auto theft assignments. Motorcycle policemen, now seen only on the boulevards and thoroughfares, should be detailed to patrol side streets and alleys where many cars are stolen, he told the captains.

Asks Accessory Check Up.

Every man on the police force should be reminded that it is one of his duties to be on the lookout to check this form of crime, State's Attorney Courtney said. Particular attention should be paid to second-hand auto parts shops, he said, since many stolen cars and parts have found their way into these places.

Daily reports giving details concerning each car stolen or stripped, including information about the insurance, must be turned in to the state's attorney's office hereafter. Mr. Courtney told the captains. He also requested reports on all motorists arrested at this late date for driving with old licenses or without any license tags.

"If things don't improve even more than they have during the last year," the state's attorney said, "there may be some captains transferred."

Two robbers carrying small machine guns entered the plant of the Castle Baking company, 4224 Roosevelt road, yesterday afternoon and after proceeding to an office on the second floor compelled employes there to surrender $1,640, with which they fled. Harry Jacobs, manager, said that $1,000 was taken from a safe, $530 from the cashier's cage and $110 from his pockets. The two men fled to the street and escaped in an automobile driven by a confederate.

McGUGIN CALLS WIRT INQUIRERS BIASED, UNFIT

Brain Trust Assailant Is Gagged on Floor.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., April 13.—[Special.]—Congressman Harold McGugin of Kansas demanded today the immediate removal of Chairman Bulwinkle and Representative John J. O'Connor from the select house committee appointed to investigate Dr. William A. Wirt's sensational charges against the Roosevelt "brain trust."

HAROLD McGUGIN.

Their "obvious bias and prejudice" toward the Gary educator, as reflected in several recent incidents, makes the two leading Democratic members unfit for further service on the Wirt committee, McGugin charged. Unless they are removed, he said, the committee "can no longer retain the confidence and respect of the people of the country."

Objects to Time Speech.

Mr. McGugin, militant foe of the "brain trust" and defender of Dr. Wirt, was prevented by Democratic Leader Joseph W. Byrns of Tennessee from voicing his demand for the removal of Bulwinkle and O'Connor on the floor of the house.

His request for unanimous consent to address the membership out of order met the immediate obection of the Democratic floor leader and the Kansan was forced to insert his remarks in the record unuttered.

His attack was not confined to Representatives Bulwinkle and O'Connor. Included also were Secretary of Interior Harold Ickes, who yesterday charged Dr. Wirt with attempting to obtain public works funds for his own benefit; Speaker of the House Henry Rainey; and the majority floor leader, Mr. Byrns.

Cites Example of Attitude.

The conduct of the two committee members and the three administration officials toward Dr. Wirt presents "an issue far greater than the issue presented in the original Wirt charge," McGugin declared.

It was Representative Bulwinkle's refusal to retract his statement that Dr. Wirt had been jailed for pro-German activities during the war which led McGugin to charge the chairman today with gross unfairness toward the Gary educator.

Bulwinkle's unwillingness to correct that statement in light of proof of its falsity, said the Kansan, was clear indication of the chairman's "bias and prejudice" against the Gary educator.

As for Representative O'Connor, ranking majority member of the committee, said McGugin, his objection to the presentation of telegrams refuting Bulwinkle's charge against Wirt amounted to approval of the chairman's "false and malicious" attack on the school expert.

Should Bulwinkle and O'Connor be removed from the committee, McGugin pointed out, Speaker Rainey would have to make replacements.

"The public cannot help but wonder about the speaker's fairness and impartiality in making the new appointments," McGugin declared. "This is due to the fact that the speaker was reported in the press as saying, before Dr. Wirt appeared before the committee, that Dr. Wirt would be put in jail if he did not testify.

"There was no occasion for that statement. Dr. Wirt had not refused to testify. There is only one logical construction which can be placed upon the speaker's statement, and that is that in advance the speaker was undertaking to discredit Dr. Wirt before the people of the country."

Attack Is Renewed.

Meanwhile in the senate Senator Arthur Robinson (Rep., Ind.) interrupted debate on the revenue measure to read a list of editorials criticising the handling of the Wirt case by the Bulwinkle committee.

Robinson made a few observations himself, but emphasized the criticism of the editorials regarding the "brain trust" exposure.

The Democratic leadership in the senate, anxious to pass the revenue measure, made no effort to answer his cry of "unfair tactics" in the treatment accorded the veteran educator from his home state.

Girl Accuses Boy Friend of Marriage Trickery

Unlearned in the ways of civil wedding ceremonies, Helen Wojcik, 18 years old, of 538 North Dearborn street, believed her boy friend when he told her they were married after merely obtaining a marriage license. The boy friend, she said, who is Emil Goebel of 1734 Monroe street, took her on a "wedding trip," and after six months deserted her. Discovering she wasn't married, she obtained a warrant from Judge Francis Borrelli yesterday charging Goebel with fraud and rape.

ACT TO SUBJECT SCHOOL PUPILS TO MORON TESTS

Bogan Move Aims to Curb Child Delinquents.

Urges Study of Children.

Dr. Hershfield said that careful study should be made of children selected by their teachers as having peculiar mental twists.

"These cases should be followed up with both psychological and psychiatric tests and complete social service treatment in the home," he asserted, "for it is not a question of placing children in parental schools and correctional institutions but of recognizing defects and diverting children to better activities.

"Young Rogalski, with his strong sex complex, could have been diverted to a more constructive and moral attitude. Most children can be reclaimed if their defects are discovered while they are young."

Dr. Hoffman suggested that when a child entered school a physician should furnish an analysis of its mental condition. Then examinations should be given systematically every two years by the school child study department, he said, and conditions in the home should be investigated.

Criticism of Court Continues.

Criticism of the Juvenile court for its failure to inform school authorities of the criminal history of its wards continued yesterday. Secrecy is imposed by statute on the proceedings of the court and the information gathered by social service workers is not made available to teachers and other authorities with whom the released offenders come in contact.

Mrs. Edward W. Jackson, vice president of the Illinois State Parent-Teacher association, said that Rogalski might never have committed the crime if his teachers had known his past record.

"Those responsible for a boy's conduct should know his background," Mrs. Jackson declared, "so that they can be on the alert for any outbreaks on his part. Young Rogalski could have had a love of humanity instilled in him in school if his instructors had known his tendency. Secrecy is unwise in such cases; it is, indeed, perilous."

Won't Recommend Leniency.

The board of directors of the Juvenile Protective association, at its regular meeting in the Hotel La Salle yesterday, decided not to recommend leniency for Rogalski.

"The opinion of the board is that the protection of society is the main thing to be taken into consideration in this case," said Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen, chairman of the board, after the meeting. Dr. Hoffman had appeared before the board to describe the characteristics of the boy, whom he has studied during the last few days.

Dr. Hoffman said that he believed sex delinquency was inherent in the boy, and stated that he would recommend that he be placed in Joliet prison or Pontiac reformatory.

Woman Held on Charge of Receiving Stolen Goods

Mrs. Clarence Olson, 36 years old, of Evanston was held to the grand jury on charges of receiving stolen property by Judge James M. Corcoran of Evanston yesterday. She was said to have taken rugs valued at $5,000, stolen from seven Evanston homes by Glen Kenley, also of Evanston. Kenley is now in federal custody, charged with violation of the Dyer act.

Women Smash Police Lines at Funeral of Baby Dorette

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

The tragic life and more tragic death of 2½ year old Dorette Zietlow, victim of a young moron who kidnaped her and left her to die of hunger and exposure, was followed yesterday by a funeral made grotesque by 10,000 curiosity seekers. Most of them women, they formed a solid mass before the chapel from which services were held, at 3337 West North avenue, blocked traffic, and packed the street for a block.

The 40 or more policemen assigned to keep the crowd in order were helpless against a mob of pushing women, many of whom held children in their arms or by the hand. Extra squads of police were called, but arrived too late.

Women Break Police Lines.

When, at the end of the services, marked by a reproach to the curious from the minister in charge, four Boy Scouts from troop No. 51 bore the pitifully small white coffin out of the chapel, women broke police lines to tear away many of the pink sweet peas partly covering the top.

To protect her against the effect of witnessing the worst of the crowds, the mother of the dead baby, Mrs. Gertrude Zietlow, 32 years old, an inmate of the Chicago State Hospital for the Insane at Dunning, who had asked to attend the funeral, was taken to the chapel at 8 o'clock in the morning.

Mother Looks at Dead Child.

The mother, attended by Nellie Adams, a nurse of the institution, kissed the hand of her child and murmured, "My baby is pretty." Then she was returned to the institution which has sheltered her since shortly after Dorette's birth. Since then Dorette has been cared for by her mother's mother, Mrs. Dora Witte, 1942 North Central Park avenue, 63 years old. It was from Mrs. Witte's front yard that the child was abducted last Sunday.

Meanwhile her kidnaper, George Rogalski, 13 years old, was visited by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Rogalski, 1863 North Oakley avenue, in the Cook county jail, where he was confined on a murder charge while awaiting action of the grand jury. At the time he committed the crime of kidnaping the child, taking her to an abandoned stable "to look at her," George was a ward of the Juvenile court, which had released him from the detention home last fall after a similar offense against another little girl. The parents were accompanied to the jail by Attorney Thaddeus C. Touder, counsel for their son.

Pastor Criticizes Authorities.

At the funeral services criticism of the authorities who allowed the boy to be at large was made by the Rev. Henry A. Lambrecht, pastor of St. Peter's Evangelical Lutheran church, 2238 Cortes street, where Dorette was in the infants' class in Sunday school.

The closely packed chapel, into whose windows women's faces peered from the outside, on whose roof crowds of persons broke down chimneys, was quiet as the pastor, standing behind the open coffin, said sternly:

"A large number of persons have come here today perhaps to satisfy their curiosity. Except for those who can offer real help, the others had helped best by being absent.

"But none of us are here to pass judgment on the boy who committed this dreadful crime. I believe that the boy's brain is not functioning.

Assails Lack of Supervision.

"This boy had been committed to an institution. He was returned to society apparently without supervision. If there was any real supervision his teachers at least would have been told by authorities to watch the boy.

"I believe we dare to say that the major portion of the blame rests on the institution which allowed the boy to return to society without supervision."

The pastor commended the policemen of the Shakespeare avenue district who, led by Acting Capt. Charles Essig, contributed $100 toward the cost of the funeral, and the John F. Conley post of the American Legion, which bore the remainder of the cost. Members of the Legion were present in uniform, as well as members of the women's auxiliary of the post. Chester F. Mitchell, former post commander, spoke briefly.

At the close of the service the police cleared a path in front leading to the hearse. Cries of women shouting: "Down in front, I can't see" were heard within the chapel.

Then came the Boy Scouts, their frightened faces white above their khaki uniforms, carrying their light burden.

Then came the grandmother, a shrunken figure in a shapeless coat and hat and proper black dress which neighbors had helped to buy, it was said.

Victim's Brother and Sister.

Behind her, clutching the belt of her grandma's coat, her eyes closed and tears streaming down her small red face, was Lois, the 12 year old sister of the dead baby. She was undersized and apparently undernourished despite the grandmother's efforts to care for the children properly, as was the 4 year old boy, Kenneth.

The father of the children, David George Zietlow, who had sat holding the boy on his knee throughout the service, walked behind, his head lowered doggedly.

At Concordia cemetery, where the burial took place, a crowd had formed long before the cortege reached the gates.

Throughout the morning, before the funeral crowds of persons, many of them weeping women with children, filed past the coffin of the child. At one time they went past at the rate of 40 a minute, an undertaker's assistant said. Many of the women put nickels, dimes and quarters into the pasteboard box held by Mrs. George Baker, 877 North Paulina avenue, a friend of Dorette's parents. The fund collected in the morning and the previous night, with $60 raised by schoolmates of Lois Zietlow at the Funston school, and the nearby Stowe school, will be given to the children's grandmother.

Chicagoan Given Silver Star for War Gallantry

The war department yesterday announced the award of the silver star to William S. Bryan, 230 South La Salle street, for gallantry in action at Hilsenfirst, France, on July 6, 1918, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Washington. Bryan was a lieutenant in charge of a detachment of the 138th infantry, 35th division. He was cited for exceptional bravery under heavy machine gun and artillery fire during a raid and effecting a safe return of his detachment to the American lines.

START PARLEYS IN DETROIT TOOL AND DIE STRIKE

Labor Groups Threaten to Extend Walkout.

Detroit, Mich., April 13.—[Special.]—A strike in tool and die shops, called at midnight Thursday, was scarcely under way today before executives of individual jobbing companies and the Mechanics Educational Society of America began negotiations.

Out of a total of 90 shops affected settlement has been reached with about twenty of them. Officials of the Automotive Tool and Die association are conducting a survey to determine how many of their members were involved. The maximum was placed at 4,000.

The strike involves both independent jobbers and members of the Automotive Tool and Die Manufacturing association. It does not involve the tool and die departments of automobile plants.

Argue Over General Walkout.

Dissension developed late today in the ranks of the Mechanics' Educational Society of America over the question of calling out all union members in 164 Detroit tool and die jobbing shops.

Should such a strike be called by the M. E. S. A., leaders plan to include the 20 shops which has met the union's demands on wages and hours. The theory would be that a general strike would force companies which have not settled into line, though companies which settled would suffer.

This plan was strenuously opposed by some members in a secret meeting on the grounds that it was "unsportsmanlike" and that plants that had raised wages and shortened hours should not be discriminated against.

The subject will be further discussed.

Alexander Marks, organizer at the Pontiac plants of General Motors Trucks company, Fisher Body company, and Pontiac Motor company today, said a meeting of the executive committee of automobile workers throughout the midwest will be held Sunday afternoon.

Demands at Pontiac.

Among the wage and hour demands presented at Pontiac were:

Women to receive as much pay as men on equivalent work.

No work on Saturdays or Sunday except in an emergency.

Double pay in the case of emergency.

William Collins, Detroit A. F. of L. organizer, said he knew nothing of any plans for a strike in Pontiac, and that what is being done there is nothing more than routine and that the wage question cannot be taken up through the Automobile Labor board without first negtiating direct with employes.

Members of the M. E. S. A. who remain at work during the strike shall pay for the benefit of striking workers any money received as a recent wage increase, and all members employed by the large automobile plants shall be required to pay $1 per week per man for the duration of the strike for the benefit of striking members.

INDIANS WIN SCALPS IN PRAIRIE BATTLE —AND THEN IN COURT

In case you think the days of Indian massacres are over you're wrong, as Des Plaines street police and three white men who appeared yesterday before Judge Thomas A. Green can testify.

Two Chippewa Indians, Chief White Eagle, 49 years old, and Charley Fine, 42 years old, stood to one side in the courtroom.

On the other side stood the three white men, with enough cuts, bruises, and bandages to make them look like advance agents for Custer's last stand. They were casuals (but looked more like casualties) named John Miller, Herman Kraus, and Mike Kowalski.

White Eagle explained he and Charley Fine had camped on a prairie vacant lot, at Randolph and North Ada streets, when the white men appeared and tried to drive them off. The appearance of the white men after the police had stopped the slaughter was enough evidence as to who had won.

And Judge Green made it worse for the whites by fining them $25 and costs each, explaining that Indian warfare is a thing of the past. The Indians were released, and announced their intention of returning to their happy hunting grounds at Flambeau, Wis.

NEW PLAN WILL PROTECT ALL '34 FAIR VISITORS

Officials Reveal Program; Police Force Cut.

BY EARL MULLIN.

Public protection plans for the 1934 A Century of Progress Exposition, covering the police and fire departments and liability insurance for all visitors, were announced yesterday by Fair officials. The outstanding phase of the program is the 40 per cent reduction in the number of policemen considered necessary.

"Last year's Exposition," said Charles G. Thurman, chief of the protection unit, "showed that Fair crowds are composed of persons who do not have to be watched by the police. While we did not expect criminals, we did anticipate a lot of careless and thoughtless people who would have to be cautioned against minor violations. Records show this worry to have been needless. This year we are saving as a result of that lesson."

Only 200 Arrests Made.

Records of the Fair police show that in 1933 only 200 arrests were made out of a total attendance of 23,000,000, a record never equaled by a previous international exposition. The majority of those were for disorderly conduct. In each case a heavy fine was imposed by city authorities, and the individual was prevented from revisiting the Fair.

"We had expected a great deal of trouble with pickpockets and intoxicated persons," Chief Thurman said, "basing our belief on the records of previous expositions. Not more than a score of pickpocket cases were reported, and in practically every case the money was recovered. This was due to the efficiency of the detail under Police Lieut. Edward Kelly."

One of the greatest nuisances expected by the Fair was the marring of buildings and the trampling of lawns by visitors. Not a case of this type was reported last year.

Police Force of 250.

As a result of 1933 experience, therefore, the 40 per cent reduction in the Fair's police force has been decreed for 1934. The department will number 250 men for the opening of the Exposition on May 26, as compared with 400 men last year.

With bars banned and the carrying of hip flasks discouraged, the Fair expects little trouble from liquor. Drinks of all kinds will be sold in cafes, and decent drinking habits will not be discouraged. Intoxicated persons will not be arrested, but will be escorted from the grounds.

"It was our experience last year," Chief Thurman said, "that every person carrying a bottle expected to drink all the contents before leaving the grounds. This year, with drinks being sold, there is no such necessity, and we expect less drinking."

The fire department, which has been in operation all winter, will remain the same as last year. The guide department will be cut from 1,700 to 500 members for opening day.

Under the insurance plan, every visitor will be protected against accident and illness. Exhibitors will also be covered by blanket insurance. First aid will be provided by a grounds hospital.

The uniforms of the guide and police departments have been retained. A special troop of twenty policemen, dressed in a uniform yet to be announced, will be maintained for distinguished visitors.

Horses Get Workout

April 13, 1934.

JACK, Gene, Rock, and Roany, four of the work horses here on the farm, had a good workout yesterday when they played an important part in one of the new experiments on THE TRIBUNE farm in Kendall county. The project is improvement of worn-out pastures with a seed mixture. The idea is to determine how a wornout, overgrazed tract of land can be reseeded economically to bring back rich, luscious grass.

Several months ago it was decided this kind of a project would be one of the most worth-while and practical things to do on the experimental farm because many farmers face the problem of maintaining good pasturage for stock, especially in view of the three dry summers that we have had in the middle west.

Clarence Thurow, manager of the experimental farm, picked out a typical overgrazed tract of this experiment. First, Clarence Sleeter disked and pulverized the pasture, using a tractor for motive power. When this was done Jack, Gene, Rock, and Roany were hitched to a grain drill. Guenther drove this outfit over the prepared ground to put in the mixed pasture seed. This mixture [which agricultural authorities have tested and recommend] consists of Kentucky blue grass, timothy, red top, red clover, alsike clover, and Korean Lespedeza. The horses acted pretty snappy on this job of hauling the drill to put in this experimental pasture mixture. Of course, they haven't had much to do in harness and naturally have lots of pep. However, it may be that in some unknown manner the farm "grapevine" system passed the word along to these husky work horses that this job of reseeding was going to provide some grand meals for them before the summer has gone.

Barney and Billy, the two young horses that are still in grammar school learning how to behave in a harness, have had their fourth workout and it is interesting to see how these two are reacting to their lessons. Barney has made up his mind that he might just as well resign himself to the inevitable, so he is going along very nicely with little or no monkey business. Billy, however, still thinks he can outsmart this harness game. Therefore the excitement still continues in breaking these two young horses. It looks now as if Guenther would have to get a set of stop and go lights to teach Billy the traffic signals, with especial emphasis on the red stop sign. This horse gets going, and long after poor Barney is ready to quit and stand still so that the harness can be taken off, Billy sees nothing but a green light and, Boy! how he does cover the ground.

Clarence saw two prairie chickens at the south end of the farm yesterday morning. This was encouraging because all of us are trying to help these birds increase their numbers. Rawlings continues to have all kinds of bird visitors at the pond where the wild geese are nesting. Yesterday a small flock of wild honkers dropped down to the pond to have a visit with their domesticated relatives. Jacksnipe have been mucking around for food at the edge of the water hole, and even a lowly coot dropped in for food day before yesterday.

Girl, 6, Dies of Burns from Throwing Oil on Hot Stove

Marilyn White, 6 years old, died in Oak Forest infirmary early yesterday of burns received Thursday when she threw kerosene on a hot stove in her home above James Testard's saloon at 147th street and Western avenue, Posen. Testard, the child's stepfather, is divorced from Mrs. Charlotte Testard, 34 years old, 922 West 57th street, who was the driver of the car in which Victor J. Kaminski, president of the village of Posen, was killed a week ago. Mrs. Testard was released on a $5,000 bond Thursday at the Homewood highway police station and will appear for a hearing in Harvey April 17 on a charge of manslaughter.

BEG YOUR PARDON

In the issue of last Tuesday THE TRIBUNE quoted Dr. Rolf Jaeger, the new German consul general, as saying that "Germany's foreign trade is suffering due to the Nazi anti-Semetic campaign."

Dr. Jaeger writes to say that "when the reporter asked me about German exports and whether the boycott movement had had some influence on Germany's foreign trade, I answered that the export situation was not favorable, but that this was primarily due to the depreciation of the currency of those countries which went off the gold standard. I pointed out, furthermore, that during the last year the German-American foreign trade was relatively well maintained."

Courtney to Receive Merit Award Thursday

State's Attorney Courtney will be formally presented with the law enforcement medal of the United States Flag association for 1933 at a banquet next Thursday evening in the grand ballroom of the Hotel Sherman. The award of the medal to Mr. Courtney, which is for "meritorious law enforcement," was announced March 9.

MISSING BAULER WITNESS BACK, ELUDES INQUIRY

Policeman John J. Ahearn, missing state witness in the trial of Ald. Mathias [Paddy] Bauler of the 43d ward, charged with assault to kill, still proved to be an elusive witness last night. It is hoped, however, that he will show up in the state's attorney's offic today.

Yesterday afternoon Ahearn telephoned Assistant State's Attorney Emmett Moynihan to announce that he was back in Chicago and not missing and that he would appear at the state's attorney's office within a few hours. He did not show up. Instead he telephoned again, saying he wished to go home first, and agreed to meet Moynihan at a loop hotel at night.

Sets Appearance Today.

Apparently he failed to meet Moynihan, for he telephoned last night to Capt. Dan Gilbert, chief investigator for the state's attorney, and said he would appear at the state's attorney's offic today. Whether he actually met Moynihan could not be learned, however, for the assistant state's attorney could not be reached.

The case against Ald. Bauler is based on a shooting affair in front of the alderman's saloon at 343 West North avenue, last Christmas, in which Ahearn was shot and wounded. Without Ahearn as a state witness, the state is practically helpless to prosecute the alderman.

Ald. Bauler's case had been postponed to Thursday — a date chosen many weeks ago so that his trial appearance would follow the primaries and not unduly embarrass the alderman in his election campaign.

Find Witness Missing.

When the case came up, both prosecution and defense were apparently ready for trial. Then it was discovered that Policeman Ahearn was missing. This threw out of gear the state's plans for a trial. At the same time the pudgy alderman's lawyers insisted on an immediate trial, regardless of the absence or presence of Ahearn.

This attitude drew the charge from Assistant State's Attorney Moynihan that possibly the defense had paid Ahearn's hospital bills to soothe him and to keep him away from court. Judge Donald S. McKinlay then continued the case to April 30.

If Ahearn shows up today, Moynihan will go before Judge McKinlay on Monday and seek to accommodate the defense by asking for an immediate trial.

DALE REFUSED DEATH STAY IN HOLDUP MURDER

George Dale, sentenced to be electrocuted on April 20 for the murder of Gus Hosh 71 years old, a delicatessen store owner at 3949 Division street, was denied executive clemency by Gov. Henry Horner yesterday. His case was heard by the board of pardons and paroles in Springfield on Tuesday.

Mrs. Eleanor Jarman, 30 years old, who, was Dale's companion in the robbery of Hosh's shop, during which the murder was committed, has been convicted and is now serving a term of 199 years in the penitentiary. Leo Minnick, another accomplice, is serving a similar term.

A conditional pardon was granted by the governor to Mario Chiostri, serving a ten year sentence for his part in the holdup of the Bryn Mawr State bank in 1924. Chiostri started his term in 1926.

The pardon board will hear two more pleas for clemency on the part of convicted slayers from Cook county on next Tuesday. The pleas are those of John Schock, sentenced to die for the killing of a policeman in a courtroom, and John Francis, sentenced for killing 1 Chicago milk wagon driver. They, too, are scheduled to be electrocuted on April 20.

ROB SOUTH SIDE CIGAR STORE.

The South Shore Tobacco company store at 8540 Commercial avenue, was robbed of $650 and a quantity of cigarets and cigars by four armed men yesterday.

QUOTES CANNON AS ADMITTING HE DITCHED RECORDS

Feared Virginia Inquiry, Statement Indicates.

Washington, D. C., April 13.—(AP)—A statement that Bishop James Cannon Jr. had destroyed all of the correspondence I could lay my hands on so that any one who delved into my affairs would find nothing" was produced in the trial of the bishop today in District of Columbia Supreme court.

The statement, purporting to have been made by the bishop on Oct. 6, 1931, was read to the jury by John J. Wilson, the government prosecutor. It referred to the preparations of Bishop Cannon for a Mediterranean cruise in February, 1929.

"I know that bunch down in Virginia," he was quoted as saying.

The bishop is being tried, with Miss Ada L. Burroughs, his former secretary, on a charge of failing to report all contributions that were made by E. C. Jameson, a New York insurance executive, to his 1928 campaign against Alfred E. Smith.

Gives Bishop's Account.

The statement said Cannon and Miss Burroughs "got together" to make a report to the house of the Jameson contributions.

Using the bishop's own words, as taken from the transcript of his conversation with the district attorney on Oct. 6, 1931, Wilson put into the record an involved account of Cannon's handling of political funds.

In his interview by the district attorney and in evidence already before the court, reference has been made to "refunds" by the bishop to himself. Referring to one instance of these refunds in his questioning by the district attorney at the time of the interview the churchman said:

"Those refunds in there happened in this way: Those gentlemen, Bob Miller and Bob Jones and Dr. Branson and maybe one or two more men in the south, they were authorized by me to go ahead and spend money.

Explains Source of Money.

"I said 'I will take care of it; you go ahead and spend it,' and they went ahead and spent it and I sent them checks.

"I found out I had to take it out of the Jameson money, and I sent it and gave myself a refund for that money."

"Why," Mr. Wilson asked, "did you find you had to take it out of the Jameson money?"

"Because I didn't have enough money."

At another point Bishop Canonn was quoted in the transcript as saying he gave Miss Burroughs "a check of $17,000 of the Jameson money to pay outstanding obligations."

Before he put the interrogation-interview transcript into the record, Wilson told the jury he expected to prove that only one anti-Smith committee, and that headed by Bishop Cannon, functioned in the south in 1928.

Issue over Tie-up.

At the very outset he met a defense witness who was active in the Virginia state campaign and who insisted he never had heard of Bishop Cannon's headquarters committee, anti-Smith Democrats, during his work against Smith. The prosecution sought to establish a connection between the headquarters committee and the Virginia state committee.

The witness, Frank Lyon of Lyon Village, Va., was put on the stand by Cannon's attorney in an attempt to prove that there was no association between the headquarters committee and the state committee.

The prosecutor showed the witness a letter, asking him with reference to the letter head:

"Doesn't this say headquarters committee, anti-Smith Democrats, James Cannon Jr., chairman?"

Heedless of Stationery.

The witness said it did.

"Don't you remember having seen that stationery?"

"I don't."

"But such a letter was sent out by your authority?"

"Yes."

The witness said that "I didn't pay any attention to stationery," to which Wilson retorted "you didn't pay any attention to the committee either."

Canada Acts to Grant Bennett Authoritative Rule

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., April 13.—By a vote of 64 to 28, the government of Premier R. B. Bennett today passed through the house of commons in committee the "blank-check" authority it demands in this year's relief bill to deal with any emergency threatening the "peace, order and good government of Canada." Liberals had fought the clause for eight days, claiming it was a usurpation of parliamentary powers by Mr. Bennett and his cabinet.

THE SATURDAY NEWS OF NEW BOOKS

New Fitzgerald Book Brilliant; Fails as Novel

But Reviewer Declares You Must Read It.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Finnley Wren," by Philip Wylie. [Farrar & Rinehart.]

Both published this week.

AFTER a silence of eight years so far as a book is concerned, F. Scott Fitzgerald, whom we all once looked upon as the official Angel Gabriel of the younger generation, offers us this week a novel which will be as easy as was "This Side of Paradise" or "The Great Gatsby" to place critically.

The first of those was a landmark in America's literary history and "The Great Gatsby" a landmark in Mr. Fitzgerald's brilliant literary career. "Tender Is the Night" is . . . , but wait a paragraph or so and judge for yourself.

The novel opens with the statement of a dramatic premise brilliantly conceived, and stated in phrases more vivid, more exact than ever came from Scott Fitzgerald's pen. Each paragraph gives the reader who takes joy in words and their precision intense pleasure. He reads them aloud the more lingeringly to relish their clipped, exact delineation of design. The problem is, in the first part of the book, that of young Dr. Diver, his wife, whom he loves and who loves him, and a young, lovely, innocent movie actress who falls, as does every one else, in love with the spiritual and physical strength and virility of Dr. Diver.

Against the background of the ultra-lavish Riviera and men and women who are all slightly mad in their pursuit of pleasure or their escape from reality, the stage is set psychologically by Mr. Fitzgerald for a drama which promises to be a major opus.

Then, suddenly, just as the reader has decided that, of all the books that Scott Fitzgerald has done, this one shows the most mature skill, the most brilliantly flowered art, impalpable genius, the book takes a sudden dive into an entirely different mood, tempo, design, spirit. It is almost as if, walking blissfully over Elysian fields, the author had walked straight off a precipice and landed, plump, among the prickly cacti of the abnormal, whose needles goaded him into fantastic leaps here and there, his destination forgotten in his pain.

The rest of the book deals with the case of Dr. Diver as a young psychiatrist, just after the war, and a beautiful and immensely rich young girl who had been driven off her mental balance by her father's incestuous attack, whom he helps to cure and grows to love . . . and marries, and what happens to that marriage, and the two partners to it. Only it is not so simple as that.

If Mr. Fitzgerald had gripped that problem and despite its agonizing needles carried it straight to its solution, the book might have been a masterpiece. In that case the whole first third of it would have had to be rewritten in the mood of the main part of the book. But, despite pages of great brilliance, Scott Fitzgerald is lost, it seems to me, during most of the book. Probably the book was intended as an epic of the ironic destructive powers of life; like influenza, more fatal to the sound than to the unsound. But even that isn't clear to the reader.

And yet, if only for that first third, if only for the occasional superb precision of thought and observation, "Tender Is the Night" is a novel which must be read. It is, however, not at all difficult to place critically. I feel sure that all of you will find it a brilliant failure.

Here's Novel with No Form at All.

"Finnley Wren" is another book which has been a long time a-borning. Four years, I think, Philip Wylie has been working on it. It is proclaimed "a novel in a new manner."

It is "in a new manner," but not "in the new manner." It is not at all in the new manner in the sense that it resembles, for instance, "Ulysses," which is the full and logical statement of the accepted new technique which is concerned with action in its subjection to thought, and with thought in both its conscious and its subconscious manifestations.

Nor is it in the "new manner" stylistically, as exemplified in the work of E. E. Cummings or Gertrude Stein, who are striving for effects with words which they do not always confide to their readers.

"Finnley Wren" is in a new manner because it hasn't any form at all. Part of the time the hero is telling his life story to the author; part of the time the author is observing events; in both cases the author is setting down something that he has presumably seen or experienced or been told. But suddenly and for no apparent reason the author becomes omnipotent and sees actions which he could not possibly have seen and which have never been shared with him even through thought transference.

So far as style as concerned, except for the occasional trick of omitting all punctuation, Mr. Wylie does not write at all in the modern manner. He has a lusty, full-blown prose. The book is "a novel in a new manner" which seems, to this observer, too mannered.

"Finnley Wren," like "Tender Is the Night," has so much in it that is brilliant that the reader becomes either angry or very sad because it isn't a better book. It has a modern version of the forthrightness of Rabelais, although it lacks Rabelais' inevitability. Finnley Wren sometimes is self-conscious about his naughtinesses, Rabelais never was. But it isn't the hero's amours that make him a man, but his honesty, his lack of illusions.

The great spectacles of his life and love are interspersed with nonessential but vividly illuminating details of his thought. In the swiftly fading brilliance of the heat lightnings of the emotional hours of his life as he recalls them to his friend, Philip Wylie, Finnley Wren is seen. He is never a whole picture, and yet the reader has, at the end of the book, a strange sense of his essential being. And for that technical tour de force "Finnley Wren" is intriguing.

Friends of Library at U. of C. to Hold Lincoln Program

The recently founded Friends of the Library of the University of Chicago will meet on Friday evening at 8:30 at International house to hear a distinguished group of Lincoln authorities discuss the literature and the historical source material about the great rail splitter.

The recent acquisition by the university of the famous Barton collection of Lincolniana will thus officially be celebrated.

The speakers of the evening will be William E. Dodd, eminent historian and ambassador to Germany, who will return to the Midway for the weekend; Carl Sandburg, whose "The Prairie Years" is the most brilliant and profound of all the modern biographies of Lincoln and is soon to be followed by the record of the tragic later years; Lloyd Lewis, whose "Myths After Lincoln" probes profoundly the true and apochryphal traditions of Lincoln's ideals and accomplishments, and Gov. Horner, whose collection of Lincolniana has been a treasure trove for all Lincoln scholars, of whom he is a recognized leader.

"Life of Cardinal Mercier" Is Sympathetic Biography

"The Life of Cardinal Mercier," by John A. Gade [Scribners], is a sympathetic life story of an outstanding Catholic exhorter that the eternal spiritual values be not lost in the confusion of moral and physical forces which swayed the world from 1914 to 1918. The author is not a Catholic.

Asserts Poem, Not Ideas, Is Test of Poetry

Miss Strobel Sees All Verse as Propaganda.

BY MARION STROBEL.

THERE has been a lot of unnecessary talk for and against the poet still preoccupied with the eternal verities, and for and against the poet who is, on the contrary, articulately aware of our economic crisis. It is high time, I think, to state that the poem is more important than its subject matter, and that any successful poem is propaganda.

Shelley made the nightingale a bitherer spirit than it ever had been; Wordsworth made daffodils dance forever in the mind's eye, and Robert Gessner, in "Upsurge," has made out a tremendous case for communism, not because of communism but because of his magnificent presentation of our world dilemma. He shows an endless line of starvation stretching across America—making us see it panoramically, and then giving us a close-up of shoes, matted hair, rotten teeth.

The words are as telling as uppercuts to the jaw, the rhythm hammers home one unforgettable horror after another. The poem is about "the youngest old man in the world." It has more vitality than a prize fight. It has structure besides. It shows us the "bleeding peoples of the earth." Derisively we see England: Southampton with "double rows of rusted ships"; Oxford: "Poorhouses of thought"; Cavalcade—"obituary of England's glory."

More briefly we see France. Superficially, Germany. And lyrically, the "green land of the soviets." Whether or not we clasp hands with the "workers of the world," we can clasp and clap them over this poem.

An opposed political point of view is that of the Italian poet, Lauro de Bosis. Gilbert Murray has written a stirring preface for De Bosis' long posthumous poem, "Icaro." In this preface we are told that De Bosis was so violently against the Fascist revolution that, when the ordinary methods of communication were closed to him, he acquired a plane, learned how to pilot it, and on Oct. 3, 1931, volplaned down over Rome scattering thousands of leaflets addressed "To the King" and "To the People of Rome." He has never been heard of since.

This preface, which gives us the man De Bosis swooping low over Rome, going to death for an ideal, is a more memorable poem than "Icaro," based on a Greek myth and executed in the Italian classical tradition.

Entirely removed in spirit from Gessner and De Bosis are the Irish poets, Yeats and Gogarty.

William Butler Yeats, the Nobel prize winner for 1924, has at last issued his collected poems. Here are lyrics from 1899 to 1933. Every one interested in the haunting "perfect beauty in rime "should surely possess them.

Oliver St. John Gogarty, the waggish Dublin doctor, is a delight. His "Selected Poems" are witty and warm and as sharply cut as a gargoyle. The Irish eyes of Yeats and Gogarty look beyond communism and capitalism to beauty.

London Literary Magazine Gets a New Director

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON.—[Special Correspondence.]—Following upon the establishment of the magazine, New Stories, which has now produced its first number, comes news that Life and Letters for so long edited by Desmond MacCarthy, is to appear under the editorship of Hamish Miles. It is again to be a monthly and its range will be wider than hitherto; therefore, its prospects are good, for there is ample room in England for a serious literary periodical which does not rapidly run to seed and become the product either of a clique or of its editor's fancy.

Mr. Miles should be an excellent editor. He has talent, critical acumen, and catholic taste. I have now been waiting for years, in hope, for a long promised biography of George Gissing, which should be the standard work on that celebrated but too little read novelist, and which Mr. Miles has been writing [it seems to me] ever since the declaration of peace.

The magazine is to be published under the imprint of Jonathan Cape; but it will not be an official organ of the firm.

By the way, Cape is publishing a book by Michael Roberts entitled "Critique of Poetry." This will be found to contain a spirited defense of modern poetry; and those who have read John Sparrow's "Sense and Poetry" may like to set Mr. Roberts, who has done a great deal to bring the modern poets to public notice, against Mr. Sparrow before making up their own minds about the intelligibility or otherwise of much modern verse.

While other books have been more noticeably singled out by the increasingly numerous selectors of these isles, the novel most quietly making its way into the homes of England at the present time is "When Yellow Leaves," by Ethel Bolleau [Hutchinson]. Miss Bolleau, I believe, is destined to become a really popular novelist. She is the author of several books of modest air, and "Turnip Tops" [also Hutchinson] escaped the notice of all but the most astute of critics upon its publication just over a year ago.

But the public liked this book and bought it.

Kenneth Horan, author of "It Is Later than You Think," will lead the round table discussion at the luncheon of the Society of Midland Authors today at the Hotel Sherman.

Friends of Writers Announce Awards at Annual Dinner

The Friends of American Writers Foundation for Literature made their annual awards last night at a dinner attended by 300 members of the many Chicago clubs supporting the foundation as well as members of the Friends of American Writers and their honored guests among the Chicago literati. Cash awards of $50 each were given to Lloyd Lewis for his biography of "Sherman, Fighting Prophet," and to Prof. Franklyn Bliss Snyder of Northwestern university for "The Life of Robert Burns" in nonfiction, and to Janet Lewis, author of "The Invasion," for fiction. Besides the cash awards the society has placed $500 worth of the three books on the shelves of the Chicago Public library and its branches as further manifestation of their approval.

Genevieve Forbes Herrick of the Washington staff of THE TRIBUNE was the principal speaker of the evening and delighted the audience with word pictures of "Washington Literary Lights and a Few Shadows."

Lloyd Lewis and Prof. Snyder were present to be laurel-wreathed, but Janet Lewis [Mrs. Yvor Winters], who lives in California, was unable to be present, and her father, Dr. Edwin Herbert Lewis of Lewis institute, with characteristic brilliant charm, accepted the award in her name.

New England Is Setting for Story About Success

"Jeremy Hamlin" [Appleton], by Alice Brown is a story of a self-made man in a background rarely associated fictionally with the personal hewing out of great fortunes and power, New England. Miss Brown has shown brilliant technical skill in piecing together, after his death, the life story of her hero through the memories of the four people most seriously affected by his demise, and fitting those pieces into the growing life stories of his survivors.

A New "Super-Charged" Gasoline That Gives up to 6900 More Firing Charges Per Gallon

Shell Refineries Develop a Sensational New Way to "Re-Make" the Chemical Structure of Gasoline . . . Resulting in More Mileage, Added Power and Quicker Starting

In the new improved Super Shell you get up to 6900 extra firing charges in every gallon. Super Shell is the answer to what over 200,000 of you motorists told us you wanted in a gasoline — extra power and more mileage.

To give you these extra firing charges, Shell developed a costly new refining process. Old methods wouldn't do. This new Shell process actually "re-makes" the entire chemical structure of gasoline. Even a single ounce, a few teaspoonfuls, contains as much as 54 extra firing charges!

It's the firing charges in your engine that drive your car forward. That's why these 6900 extra firing charges in each gallon of Super Shell give you more power, quicker pick-up, and — above all — extra mileage.

Try this first super-charged gasoline in your car. You will notice its quicker pick-up at once! You will actually feel Super Shell's surge of extra power!

And keep an accurate check of your mileage. Many users report more mileage with Super Shell, as much as one or two more miles per gallon. The added mileage you get from Super Shell is just so much extra money for your pocketbook.

Super Shell still sells at the price of regular gasoline. Change to Super Shell today.

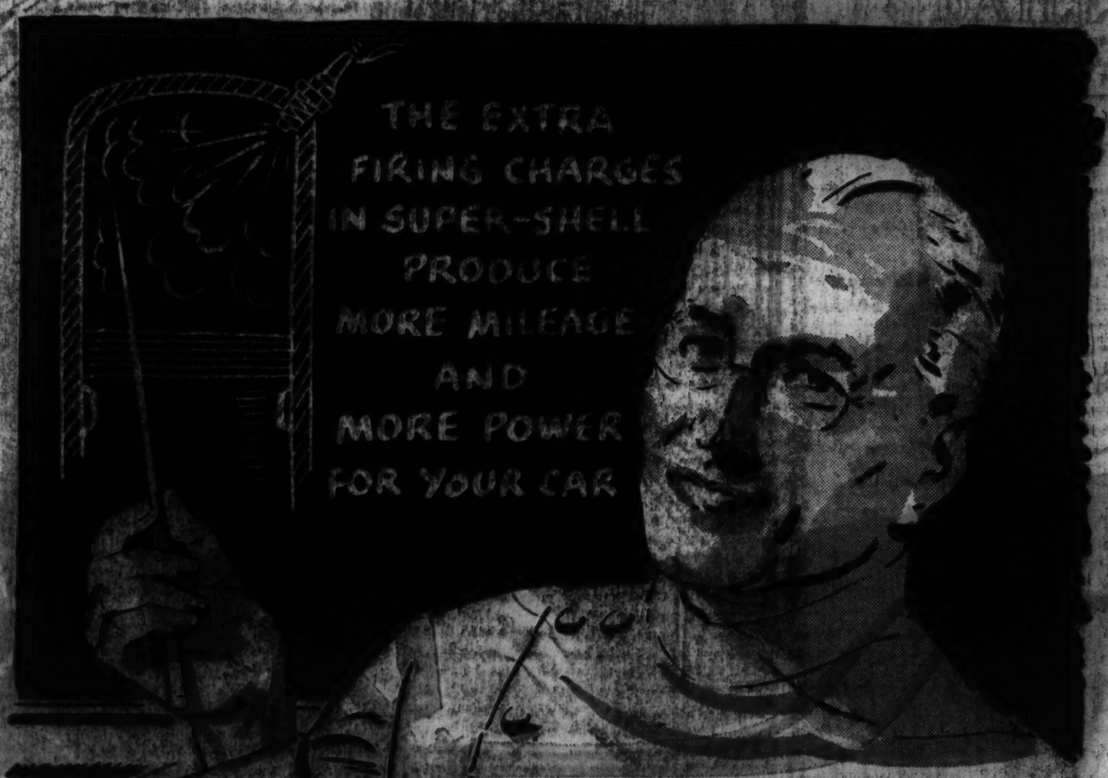

MORE ENERGY IS NOW CONCENTRATED in every gallon of the new Super Shell. As many as 6900 extra firing charges in every gallon. Think what that means to you in greater power and mileage. You'll never use any other gasoline again once you've tried Super Shell.

AUTOMOTIVE ENGINEER IS AMAZED! Mr. Allen Taylor (at left) tried super-charged gasoline and tells Shell technical expert, Mr. Robert I. Lewis, "This new Super Shell has the power we engineers have been looking for in gasoline these last few years."

"I GET BETWEEN 1 AND 2 MORE MILES to the gallon from super-charged gasoline, and it makes my car wonderfully responsive," reports still another delighted Super Shell user. —Kathryn Trombley, St. Louis, Mo.

THIS MODERN TRANSPORT AIRPLANE is powered with two 700 H. P. Wright-Cyclone engines which are equipped with mechanical super-chargers that force gasoline under pressure into the cylinders to get more firing charges per gallon. Now gasoline itself has been actually super-charged. Super Shell, by its new "re-making" process, actually has up to 6900 extra firing charges in every gallon!

RELIGION WILL BE PROTECTED, GERMANS TOLD

But Goebbels Orders Church Press Banned.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, April 13.—"In politics we demand a totalitarian state, otherwise we are letting all persons seek bliss in their own way," Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, Germany's minister of propaganda and enlightenment, said tonight in a radio address to the world at large and his Nazi countrymen.

The minister was referring to the religious conflict now stirring the reich. He thus borrowed the slogan of tolerance of Frederick the Great, much to the surprise of religious circles.

Dr. Goebbels deftly sidetracked charges that the Nazis have introduced a new paganism based on an entirely German religion by asserting that this charge is based on the Nazis' claim to a totalitarian state. Meanwhile churchmen are pointing out that the religious unrest is caused by the strong Nazi anti-church and anti-Bible campaign.

"Religion will be protected by the Hitler government, which alone saved German churches from bolshevism," Dr. Goebbels said. "There is no labor nor bourgeois press—no Catholic nor Protestant press left in Germany—only the German press."

In these words he forecast the complete elimination of newspapers with religious backing.

The minister warned persons who continue to criticize the Nazis to "beware not to underestimate our determination to defeat any blasphemous attempt on the government."

"We are on guard," he continued. "We allow a few dozen ferreting intriguers to remain at liberty because their grotesque activities amuse us."

Referring to the fact that the wages of workers have been reduced in many German industries, he sounded the follow warning to employers:

"The government will not allow them to sabotage social progress nor will it tolerate an unjustified rise in prices or dividends."

Praises German Workers.

To workers of the nation, "whose heroic will to create" he praised, Dr. Goebbels promised that the government will do everything in its power to advance their standard of living.

"In a little more than a year Chancellor Hitler has achieved what he had promised to accomplish in four years," he continued. "German business has been revived and the number of the unemployed has been reduced by half."

Reichsbishop Dr. Ludwig Mueller meanwhile issued a proclamation in which he said that his appointee, Dr. August Jaeger, a layman, will draw up a Protestant church administration "firmly welded together."

Questions of faith are not to be touched, he said, adding that they will be considered only after Dr. Jaeger, acting as deputy dictator of the Protestant church has reorganized the framework of the church "in spite of all opposition."

Labor Chief in Address.

Robert Ley, chief of the German labor front, today told the iron and coal barons in the Ruhr district that now "only two fronts remain in Germany—the front of decent people and the front of money bags."

"There are 24,000,000 members in our labor front organization and the Nazi party," he exclaimed. "Business leadership must be achieved through this organization. The workers joined. We know the employer has also understood the message of our day."

He said he was "very hopeful" that the bill would pass.

FIND AUSTRIA'S NAZI PRISONERS IN BAD TEMPER

Guards Are Tyrannized by Camp Inmates.

VIENNA, April 13.—(AP)—Spring and a group of foreign correspondents visited the Dollfuss government's concentration camp for outlawed Nazis this afternoon.

What the newspaper men saw—after having been barred for almost a year from looking through the barbed wire barriers surrounding the Hitlerite prisoners—was the former military cantonment of Woellersdorf, looking like a cross between a Russian village of long beards and a modern nudist camp.

Many of the 265 prisoners had grown luxuriant beards during their long incarceration and most of them were tanning their athletic bodies in the spring sunshine.

In Great Physical Shape.

Although the commandants frankly admitted that forty had recently contracted dysentery and now are convalescing in hospitals, the prisoners seen by the visitors appeared to be in splendid physical condition.

They had, however, developed ragged tempers on the subject of their long confinement without trial and they exercised what amounts almost to tyranny over the 62 gendarmes and 600 Fascist Heimwehr men, whose duty it is to guard them.

The Nazis get on the nerves of their guards to such an extent that one commandant already has had a nervous breakdown. His successor said the post was no picnic.

Verbal Barbs at Warden.

While the correspondents were being conducted through the various barracks—the visit was made after repeated requests to be allowed to see how the prisoners were faring and to get the truth about rumors regarding their "mistreatment"—the prisoners started a rapid fire word attack on the chief warden and his assistants.

Such verbal barbs as "Why are we here without trial?" and "Don't you feel ashamed of yourself?" were hurled.

"This goes on all the time," he said. "It's terrible!"

The rules are that the prisoners must pay six schillings [$1.08] a day for board and rent and are permitted to buy extra food. They are given setting-up exercises daily, and otherwise spend their time talking, taking sun baths, and participating in athletic games.

They smoke as often as they like, except when cigarets are taken away temporarily as punishment. Other penalties include assignments to unpleasant chores or, in severe cases, to solitary confinement.

The prisoners' quarters look very much like army barracks. Their chief complaint is that they are not allowed to sing.

REORGANIZE AIR LINE TO BID ON MAIL CONTRACTS

A new operating company, American Air Lines, Inc., was organized last evening by the board of directors of American Airways, to bid for the new air mail contracts recently advertised by the postoffice department. The new company was formed in accordance with the announced intention of Cord corporation, the holding company which controled American Airways, of reorganizing the air line in order that it may be eligible to bid for the new contracts.

L. C. Seymour of Chicago, who was president of American Airways, was elected president of the new concern. L. B. Manning, vice president of the Cord corporation and chairman of the board of the older air transport company, will asume the same duties with the new concern. C. R. Smith of Fort Worth is vice president; T. J. Dunnion is treasurer, and R. S. Pruitt general counsel. All these officers were members of the board of directors of American Airways. As announced four days ago by Cord corporation, the holding concern which controled American Airways, the new corporation will take over the equipment and personnel of American Airways if it is successful in obtaining new mail contracts.

Beh of Des Moines, investment banker, who was tried on a charge of forgery in an application of the city of Ottumwa for PWA funds to build a bridge. The jury was out three hours and thirty minutes.

Upon hearing the verdict Beh immediately threw his arms around his wife and sobbed openly, then shook hands with each of the jurors and thanked them. He then embraced the defense counsel.

Copyrighted 1934 by Sinclair Refining Company (Inc.)

99 Million Foot-Pounds* per gallon

Imagine the work required to hoist the world's heaviest ship 7¾ inches in the air! Astounding as it may seem, a single gallon of the powerful, new H-C could do this colossal job *if all its potential energy could be converted into useful work. Equally astounding it is that this same powerful H-C performs so smoothly, so quietly—in your engine! Try the new H-C in your car for 30 days. Compare it with any other gas you ever used—for hill climbing—for quick acceleration—for long mileage. And remember, it sells at the price of regular gasoline.

Ask the Sinclair dealer for a folder which fully explains how one gallon of the new H-C could hoist the S. S. Leviathan 7¾ inches.

*Foot-Pounds: *The amount of work required to lift one pound one foot. Due to friction and other losses no machine yet built can convert into useful work all the potential energy in any gasoline. Friction alone steals millions of foot-pounds of work from every gallon of gasoline you buy. To keep friction loss in your engine at a minimum be sure to use either Sinclair Opaline or Sinclair Pennsylvania Motor Oil.

DEFLATION BY TAXATION.

The senate has approved amendments to the revenue bill which increase the annual tax payments of the American people by an estimated half billion dollars. In the fiscal year 1933 less than 800 million dollars was collected from the levies on both personal and corporate incomes. That will provide a measure of what the added tax burden means.

Needless to say, these added taxes will have a violently deflationary effect. Here is one more illustration of the contradictory nature of the New Deal program, if, indeed, it can be called a program. The dollar is cheapened with a view to raising prices and that is no sooner done than congress comes along with a confiscatory income and inheritance tax proposal which must result in the dumping of properties of all kinds in order to obtain the cash required for tax payments.

Under the La Follette schedule, approved by the senate, large estates are to be taxed as much as 60 per cent. The social objectives of this kind of taxation may be ignored for the moment. They may be either good or bad. The economic effects cannot be overlooked by an administration whose primary or preliminary purpose is to raise prices. The dumping of many hundreds of millions of dollars' worth of securities, real estate, and other properties on the market cannot fail to force all prices downward. The government will, of course, insist upon receiving its money promptly so that an orderly liquidation will be out of the question. Every stockholder, bondholder, and real estate owner will suffer a loss of capital values as the dumping proceeds.

Criticism of the senate's amendments would be shortsighted, indeed, if it did not take account of the reasoning upon which the tax proposals are founded. The senators are well aware of the fact that the budget is grievously out of balance, even though the government has not spent money as rapidly as it said it would. Unless the gap between expenditure and revenue is closed the danger of a paper money inflation, with an almost complete destruction of money values, is great. The senators prefer confiscation by taxation to confiscation by inflation. As between the two, their choice is probably correct, but in making it they have overlooked the obvious and vastly preferable third course of reducing expenditures. They cannot pretend that their ruinous taxes are necessary as long as they persist in the squandermania which alone justifies the added tax burden.

BLUE BLOOD AND RED.

The king of Sweden is wroth at the marriage of one of his grandsons to a German commoner. Other members of the Swedish royal family have married commoners, and King Gustav is said to have reached the conclusion that the tendency is going too far. There is some irony in this, for King Gustav is the great-grandson of a commoner and his commoner wife. The house of Bernadotte was founded by one of Napoleon's soldiers who, like most of his other marshals, rose from very humble walks of life on the dizzy ladder of Bonaparte's genius. Bernadotte was a mediocre general, though a very forceful character, as successful adventurers must be, and to the democratic mind his lack of ancestry is to his credit, as likewise was his loyalty to his commoner wife, whom he placed and kept by his side on the Swedish throne. He did not cast her off as Napoleon did Josephine. That was not so long ago, as royal dynasties run.

We must not forget that among royalties marriage is a dynastic and political resource, even in this twilight of the kings. On this ground, naturally, the head of the house of Bernadotte does not like to see too many of its cards thrown away. The young princes who have married commoners might have made alliances with some of the surviving royalties, to the political advantage not only of the house of Bernadotte, but of that of Sweden.

But that has become a dubious speculation in a period in which so many ancient monarchies have been destroyed and none that remains can count upon what the insurance companies call a long expectancy. Even in the countries which have swung back to autocracy it is new adventurers of lowly origin who have seized the scepter of power, and intermarriage among the shadowy dynasts they have put aside has become a minor factor of international statecraft.

On the other hand there is the biological aspect of the question, always more important than political history has realized, and King Gustav might console himself with the hope that a mixture of red blood with such sang azur as his family now boasts may prove to be a blessing, though a blessing to his royal pride disguised. These are perilous times for rulers, and they must have unusual energy of mind and will to combat the forces everywhere undermining authority, to say nothing of rank. It does not follow necessarily, as the eugenist will point out, that the blood brought into the royal families by union with commoners will insure great princes, for that is an affair of the mysterious gene with whose combinations politics, kingly or common, has nothing to do. But it is a fair prediction that at least the physical health and vigor of royal families will be increased by common blood. Certainly inbreeding can bring ruin and royal intermarriage seems a sorry survival of past ages.

NO NEW DEAL FOR THE MIDWEST.

When, at its annual meeting, the National Industrial Traffic league adopted a resolution condemning the obnoxious long and short haul clause in the interstate commerce act, we commenced to harbor a hope that this unfair provision of transportation law, which has the practical force of a protective tariff to close the markets of the Pacific coast to Chicago and the middle west, was on its way to the discard. This powerful organization of shippers and receivers of freight immediately took steps to have bills introduced into congress that would remove the clause in its entirety. If favorable action by the senate and the house resulted the railways would follow with the publication of the necessary freight schedules to place Chicago and the middle west on a competitive parity with the Atlantic seaboard and thus destroy the sectional advantage given the eastern coast by the construction of the nationally built Panama canal.

But we were doomed to disappointment. The administration bill to amend the interstate commerce act has recently put in its appearance and is likely to have preference. While it proposes to make some change in the fourth section of the law, the phrase that the railway may not charge more for a shorter haul than for a longer haul—the former included within the latter—except by express permission of the interstate commerce commission will remain intact. Control of future trade between the middle west and the Pacific coast will continue to be vested in the regulatory body rather than in the hands of the transportation companies willing and anxious to develop some west bound tonnage to fill the cars that are now being returned empty.

We are prone to tell the railways that truck and water transportation has displaced rail transportation to a substantial degree because of their lack of aggressiveness—an inclination to stand still in a progressive business world. The administration tells them that they need a rejuvenation with one breath and, with the next, proposes further legislation to perpetuate a system whereby railway managements will continue to operate the properties with the government doing their thinking for them. Our American railway system is a wonderful piece of machinery, but like all machinery it cannot produce profitably without the guiding hand of a master mechanic whose sole interest is maximum efficiency and production. It may have been true that in the past such guidance conflicted to a certain extent with public interest; but it was possible then, and still is possible, to correct abuses by raising a finger of warning rather than by installing that mythical, cumbersome, and inefficient thing called the state as a back-seat driver, endowed with a maximum of authority and a minimum of responsibility.

A BAD EXAMPLE.

Postmaster Kruetgen hopes the 77 hard tire mail trucks operated by the postal service in Chicago will be off the streets by June. Their operation is a violation of the Illinois motor vehicle code in effect since January, 1933, and we suggest to the postoffice department that they are not only a physical injury to the streets and an injustice to our taxpayers but an example of disrespect for law which the federal government should be the last to offer. The fact that there are other private hard tire trucks still in operation in the city does not condone the government's offense, but on the contrary suggests the influence of a bad example. Ample time has been allotted for replacement. The code should be enforced and the postoffice department should do its part.

The Other Side

THE COTTON PLAN.

[Memphis Commercial Appeal.]

Passage of the Bankhead bill means that this year's cotton crop will be 10,000,000 bales. Gins will be licensed, every farmer given a quota and a tax of 75 per cent of the price added to the excess.

It was hoped that the government's generosity last year would result in unanimous coöperation with the government plan this year for voluntary acreage reduction. On the contrary, farmers were slow to sign. In many counties the acreage claimed to have been in cultivation was so far in excess of the number of acres actually in cultivation that advocates of voluntary reduction despaired of accomplishing anything by that method. These factors contributed the sentiment needed to pass the Bankhead bill.

The Bankhead bill is not perfect. There will be injustice in some instances. These are unavoidable in the general application of a crop control law.

Every objection that could be made against the bill was gone into thoroughly. It was found that if provision was made to exempt the small farmer, one man's exemption would be another man's opportunity for evasion. In other words, the bill represents in its provisions and in principle the nearest approach to what congress believes is for the best interest of cotton producers as a whole.

Voluntary acreage reduction having failed to meet expectations, the Bankhead bill was the last remaining opportunity for insuring reduction in this year's cotton crop. Whether we like it or not, disagree with it in principle or for any other reason, it will be the governing authority, and every cotton producer will be required to observe it the same as he observes any other federal statute.

Farmers and ginners who anticipate evasion are reminded that violation of the law carries with it adequate penalty. Observance of the law should not only bring the satisfaction that comes with obedience to the statutes but a good price for cotton and continued prosperity for the cotton farmer.

ALL RIGHT—GO ON! should be carefully committed to memory by traffic cops and employed instead of "Hey, are youse a parking there? Gwan, beat it!" or "Aw, gittoutten there an' gwan! THOUGHT SALVAGED from a musty book: "Don't tell me of a man being able to talk sense," William Pitt now speaking; "can he talk nonsense?" That is, good nonsense. Simply saying "You're dam tootin'," or "You got your kiddin' clothes on, hain't yuh?" or "The first time I heard that I pretty near kicked the end outta my cradle" doesn't rank as good nonsense. They're just bromides mixed up with a little temper. There's no rarer gift than to recognize nonsense and answer it with better nonsense. And remember what Mr. Pitt said, "Anybody can talk sense."

AND I THOUGHT that about all an automobile had was gadgets. And when the repairman said I had to have a new gasket I thought he was mispronouncing gadget. But he made a diagram and showed me that the cylinder head gasket on the left block was burned full of holes. That's the interesting thing about owning a car. They develop some new strange part every week or two. And I always thought gaskets were things you fastened sails down with on a sailing ship. I'll bet my car develops a main topmast stay some day or a starboard main sheet or an aft anchor and the repairman will tell me I've got to get a new one or the old scow will sink right through the pavement some night with all on board. And whatever it is it's going to cost money. Since I've discovered my old bus has got gaskets I've a notion to buy a sailboat and be done with it. It doesn't seem right to buy gaskets and sails and anchors for an automobile.

THERE'S A DAILY law bulletin containing the record of all proceedings in the court and there is some kind of daily real estate newspaper that tells all about the houses and lots that have been sold in the last twenty-four hours and the new buildings about to be erected and there is a daily bulletin of weather reports and forecasts. Therefore, why not some kind of bulletin or small paper which would come out daily and contain all the divorce announcements and trial proceedings, interviews with the persons concerned and many pictures? If we happened to run afoul of the Daily Divorce Bulletin we wouldn't have to read it; there is always a garbage pail somewhere around.

REBIRTH.

In happy valleys new surprises wait—
And shall we still lament, and blindly grope?
When winds blew cold and ice was on the world
We were the helpless pawns of cruel fate,
While in our hearts were bitterness and hate;
Love fled the earth and beauty's flag was furled.
But night is past, the dawn illumes the east,
In green and gold awake the field and glen;
The orchards plan their yearly color feast,
The hyacinths and tulips have their fling—

MURIATIC ACID.

THERE is need for the revival of the medicinal use of the one-time popular dilute muriatic acid. In the old days we took it because of a supposed deficiency of acid in the gastric juice. That was, however, not much more than an effort to rationalize, as the psychologists would say. We sought in that way to explain what was recognized as a fact. Many people had used dilute muriatic acid as something for a tonic and had found it helpful. Not all of this good result was due to the psychic effect of taking medicine, or to the curative powers of nature when given time. Some of it was clearly due to the medicine.

There must be a reason. The fact that the acidity of the gastric juice was due to muriatic acid and the further fact that some analysis of gastric juice showed absence of muriatic acid offered a plausible explanation. The logic of the benefit from taking dilute muriatic acid appeared clear in the light of these facts. Further study of the gastric juice cut the foundations from under this logic.

Meanwhile, the advantages of eating foods that had an alkali ash were being developed. We learned that there were a number of disorders that made it advisable to eat fruits and vegetables and alkali ash foods. The people used bicarbonate of soda as something of a folk medicine cureall. The facts combined to make us pretty well discontinue dilute muriatic acid as a medicine.

Now the pendulum is swinging back, as all free pendulums have a way of doing. Dilute muriatic acid as a medicine is coming back into use. There is some indication that this time better reasons for using it may be found. We know much more than we did about the balance between acids and alkalis in the body. Most people now know that our bodies never become acid; that what we may call an acid condition is no more than a decrease in alkalinity of the tissues. We know that what we call acidosis may be due to certain aromatic substances formed either abnormally or in excess in the body, or it may be due to reduction of the reserve of alkali by overeating acid ash foods.

We now recognize alkalosis as being a condition just the opposite of acidosis and capable of doing just as much harm as the better known last-named condition. We know a lot about the balance between acid and alkali in the ash of nearly every article of diet.

We are beginning to talk about the difference between the reaction of foods as eaten and as digested and their ash reaction and the effects of this difference. For instance, we may eat enough apples or drink enough lemonade to set our teeth on edge and cause a certain ash feeling. This is due to the sourness or acidity of the fruits during the process of eating, digestion, and even absorption. But we know that in the end these foods are burned into an alkali ash which serves to increase the alkali reserve.

And, finally, we are learning something about osmotic pressure; how a disturbance in osmotic pressure causes dropsy on the one hand, or overdrying tissues on the other; and how, in order to get alkaline urine, we must have acidity of the kidney cells.

There is reason to hope that the use of dilute muriatic acid as a medicine may be on a firmer foundation than it was.

SOME IDEAS.

E. J. C. writes:

1. Is it because of the upright position, more or less recently taken by the human race, that there are apoplexy and insanity? Other animals do not have such ailments.

2. By said position have the arteries of the brain become unduly weakened? Would it be possible to strengthen these arteries and prevent their rupture by bathing the head in cold water every morning and by elevating the foot of the bed? Also, by indulging in a certain amount of exercise, whereby it would afford gravity a chance to pull on the body at all the different angles?

REPLY.

1. No. There are other and better explanations of insanity and apoplexy. Neither monkeys nor ostriches are subject to either disorder.

2. No, to the several questions.

SHAKING HANDS.

Mrs. A. D. writes: What would cause the hands of a girl 26 years old to shake? She is in good health.

Among the causes of tremor are hysteria, nervousness, too much tobacco or coffee, goiter, and paralysis agitans.

1. He would have no exemption, assuming that the mother is the head of the family.
2. She would have no exemption if, on the facts, the mother is the head of the family.
3. Depends on the apparent motive.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY HAROLD ETTLINGER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID.—The strained relations between this country and the Vatican are rapidly relaxing. All differences are expected to be patched up within a few weeks. Renewal of friendship between Spain and the church of Rome will mark the end of a troublesome chapter in the history of the young republic.

That the Catholics of Spain expect an agreement soon is evidenced by the fact that the famous Holy week of Seville has been revived this year. The ancient Catholic "communities," which are a type of guild, refused to take part in the traditional ceremonies since the founding of the republic, but they now feel that this demonstration of disapproval of the government's conduct toward the Vatican is no longer necessary.

A concordat dictated by Rome is demanded by the Catholic party, which practically controls the government, but Premier Lerroux is expected to convince them that it would be better to go slow. Thus a modus vivendi and not a concordat is likely to be the immediate result of the forthcoming negotiations with Rome.

Another Catholic demand is almost certain to be granted unless the present parliament is dissolved—namely: the repeal of the constitutional articles taking education out of the hands of the church.

Relations between Madrid and the Vatican were never formally broken off. Msgr. Tedeschini, papal nuncio, is still in Spain, and the Spanish embassy at the Vatican has never been closed, although it has had no ambassador since the foundation of the republic. Leandro Pita Romero, present foreign minister, has been chosen to take that post and conduct the negotiations.

The trouble started when the first republican government named Luis de Zulueta, present ambassador to Berlin, as envoy to the holy see. The pope refused to accept him because of his renown as a liberal. This action was later admitted in authoritative quarters to have been a blunder that has taken three years to repair, for Zulueta has always been a moderate and never likely to cause a row.

Then the Spaniards added to the strain by expelling Cardinal Segura, primate of Spain. He came back once and they threw him out again. He resigned his post, and the pope took the unprecedented step of accepting his resignation. Msgr. Goma y Goma, archbishop of Tarragona, is the new primate.

Convents and churches were everywhere burned in the first days of the republic, and later the Jesuit order was dissolved and the anti-church provisions of the constitution passed, including the separation of church and state and the education laws, with the result that the situation appeared hopeless. However, the Catholic victory in the last elections and the willingness of Premier Lerroux to negotiate assure the bringing of the quarrel to an end.

INCIDENT IN A CANDY STORE.

Chicago, April 2.—The other night several young men were seated in a neighborhood candy store when two squads of detectives drove up. To all appearances they might have been looking for Dillinger. They corralled all the young men and called the patrol wagon, never once telling them what this was about. When the patrolman from the district station arrived he refused to take them, saying he knew all of them, but the detectives were not appeased and said they had orders to take them to the stolen auto detail at 1124 South State street. By that time a crowd had gathered around the patrol to watch these boys taken away. They were then kept at the station for about two hours and finally let go.

These boys had no police record. They were not hoodlums. The candy store [not a saloon or dive] they were in was a reputable business establishment. The police had no warant and there had been no complaint. The police did not even bother to book them. One of the police officers vouched for their character and honesty, but they still insisted on this false show of authority.

If the police officers of this city expect to keep the respect and good will of the citizens they could find an easier way of doing so than by parading innocent youths into a patrol wagon in front of their whole neighborhood.

GAS AND ELECTRIC BILLS.

Oak Park, Ill., April 4.—I am not in the habit of squawking, but I am fed up on some of present conditions, among them the excessive cost of running a gas stove and about four lights at an average of $12 per month to the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois.

I understand that these rates are higher than for the same service in Chicago on account of sparsity of population. I don't know the exact population of Oak Park, but come over and see us some time and see if the population is sparse. P.

THE SCHOOL FOR PAUPERS.

Chicago, April 8.—I own a four flat building on the south side which carries a mortgage and at the present time I am unemployed.

Three of the tenants are on the charity relief rolls. Each tenant is four months in arrears in rent, which totals to twelve months' rent. The charity worker has instructed the tenant not to pay me unless I give a receipt through the month of April, and thus forfeit nine months' rent. We are pressed for our 1931 taxes. Why can't the county allow us to pay the taxes with the unpaid rent receipts of the charity cases? Is the relief administration doing this to cover up graft and unnecessary salaries? No matter what angle you look at it, the home owner is always being chiseled. P. J. J.

THE BIRTHPLACE OF RELIGIOUS FREEDOM.

New York, March 24.—On the twenty-fifth of March, 1933, the Calvert Associates celebrated the 299th anniversary of the founding of Maryland. Much publicity was given this event, and Maryland, because of her toleration act of 1649, was hailed as the birthplace of religious freedom in this country. Michael Williams, president of the Calvert Associates, sailed for Rome to secure the pope's blessing on the work of his organization, announcing, meanwhile, that in March, 1934, the government would issue a special stamp in celebration of Maryland's tercentenary.

It is one thing to celebrate the tercentenary of Maryland. But to celebrate it as the birthplace of our religious freedom is not only unjust but historically incorrect. Thirteen years before the toleration act Roger Williams settled Rhode Island on principles of religious freedom which were never at any time achieved in Maryland. In stating this I quote as my authority Prof. D. S. Muzzey, who, in his "American History," says: ". . . we should remember that Roger Williams, thirteen years earlier, had founded Rhode Island on principles of religious toleration more complete than those of the Maryland act; for, by the italicized words of the latter, Jews or Freethinkers would be excluded from Lord Baltimore's domain . . ." Moreover, Charles C. Marshall, an eminent New York lawyer, in an article called "The Calvert Myth," quotes from the toleration act itself: ". . . whatsoever persons within this province shall deny the Holy Trinity shall be punished with death and the confiscation of all his or her lands. . . ." All of which speaks poorly for the much advertised religious freedom of the toleration act. When you compare this excerpt with one from Roger Williams' pact with his fellow settlers in which he claims that all men "may walk as their conscience persuades them, every one in the name of his God," it is not difficult to see that credit for religious freedom in America goes not to Maryland but to Rhode Island.

There is today—especially in our city public schools—altogether too much incorrect history being taught. This in itself is bad enough. But to allow, without protest, a national celebration to take place, based upon incorrect historical data, is unthinkable, if we are still to preserve in the United States even the smallest remnant of authentic Americanism. JENNIE E. TAYLOR.

SWINGING A GOLF CLUB.

Chicago, April 7.—According to police officers in Jackson park, the commissioners have issued orders against the harmless act of swinging a golf club in some secluded corner of the park during these bright spring days, while it is permissible to play ball or engage in other exercises on the park grounds. The officer even insisted that the club should not be displayed on the grounds for the reason that motorists on the drive might see the clubs and return for practice. I can realize that reckless practice driving at this time might hinder the conditioning of the park golf course and at the same time be dangerous to one's safety, but I cannot see the reasonableness in prohibiting the swinging of plain clubs no matter who may see the club itself.

PLAN SCRUTINY OF SILVER FOES' PRIVATE AIMS

Rep. Rainey Suggests Gold Bloc Investigation.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., April 13.—[Special.]—The smoldering silver feud between congress and the administration flared up with a vengeance today.

While Speaker of the House Henry T. Rainey, titular leader of the congressional silver bloc, engaged in a sharp verbal tilt with Treasury Secretary Henry Morgenthau, two leading house silverites prepared to demand an investigation into the personal interest which opponents of silver legislation might have in gold.

Formal resolutions calling for an investigation of the "gold bloc," it was learned, will be introduced by Representatives Martin Dies [Dem., Tex.] and William L. Fiesinger [Dem., O.], both authors of proposed legislation to rehabilitate the white metal.

Evidence collected by them, it was reported, indicates that one and perhaps more New York banks have made millions of dollars under the administration gold program by purchasing gold abroad and bringing it into this country for an immediate 40 per cent profit.

Previous Clash in House.

It was Speaker Rainey who first suggested the "gold bloc" investigation as a pointed counter blow to Secretary Morgenthau's disclosure yesterday that the personal market positions of leading silver advocates are being subjected to a "further scrutiny" by the administration.

Mr. Morgenthau brought the condemnation of house silverites down upon his head several weeks ago with a similar statement, but denied at that time that the silver bloc inquiry is aimed at congressional sponsors of silver legislation.

Mr. Rainey, as well as his fellow silverites on Capitol hill were greatly insensed today over Mr. Morgenthau's new statement, preferring to believe that such utterances on the part of the treasury head cast a reflection on the motives behind the congressional movement for legislation to remonetize the white metal. Mr. Rainey particularly was caustic in his reply to Mr. Morgenthau.

Hints Real Enemy Is Secret.

The speaker hoped, he said, that the silver bloc investigation announced by Mr. Morgenthau would be "through." He was sure it would disclose the names of customers who bought silver and futures, and other information regarding "spot silver positions." But the speaker wondered just what "significance this will all have."

"It is time to investigate the investigators," Mr. Rainey suggested. Somewhere there is a gold bloc intent upon preventing a broadening of our metallic base by including silver. Who are they? What are their methods? Why is the present fight against silver being carried on?"

"Silver is used by half the world," Mr. Rainey pointed out. "We are trying to find markets abroad by lowering tarif walls. Recognize the metal which half the world demands, including that section of the world where we must find new markets.

"I will be glad to see the various silver groups in the house and the senate united on a silver bill," said the house leader in complete defiance of Mr. Morgenthau and the reported desires of President Roosevelt."

Actress Claims Husband Wants No Children; Sues

Los Angeles, Cal., April 13.—[Special.]—Phyllis Barry, motion picture actress, today filed suit for divorce against Al Nordlund, also known as Al Nord, whom she married in Chicago, March 17, 1932. In her complaint she says Nordlund told her he was "just a nomad and had no intention of settling down to a home and having children." Their final separation after several partings and reconciliations took place last New Year's day.

PRESIDENT WILL COME TO GRIPS WITH CONGRESS

"I can't be truthful and say I am glad to get back," the President continued. "I am awfully sorry to get back, but while I have been having a wonderful time, I gather also that both houses of congress have been having a wonderful time in my absence."

Mr. Roosevelt kept on beaming, and there was none could find the slightest note of bitterness. The congressmen kept on laughing, too. It was very funny, even when the President said:

"Furthermore, I expected on this trip to get some good publicity about the fish I was catching, but couldn't in view of the fact that here in Washington apparently you good people have been going from Wirt to Wirt."

Some of the senators caught on at this point, but Speaker Rainey patted his black flowing tie and white carnation blissfully, and his colleagues from the house were also blissfully unaware.

Congress and Summer.

"The newspaper men on the train," pursued the smiling Roosevelt, "have been trying to make me say that I hope that congress would go home very soon. I wouldn't say it, because I hope you will stay here just as long as you like to. For you younger members of both houses—speaking from an experience of many years in Washington—I want to point out to you the advantages of the Washington climate in July and August. It rarely gets over 110 here—there is no humidity, and I don't mind if I stay here all summer.

"Well, anyway, I wish you had had the chance I had to get away for two weeks, because I did have a wonderful holiday and I have come back with all sorts of new lessons which I learned from barracuda and sharks."

The joking President let his genial eyes play over the congressmen, who still laughed, unaware of being caricatured.

"I'm a tough guy!" Mr. Roosevelt boomed out, and by then some of the legislators must have caught the joke. "So, if you will come down and see me as often as you possibly can, I will teach you some of the stunts I learned.

"It's fine to see you, many thanks, and I will see you all soon."

The congressmen are going to let the President try his stunts tomorrow and Sunday. They may know the game a bit better by then.

Plunges Back to Work.

He signed 27 bills passed by congress in his absence, of which all were of minor import except the new law prohibiting the sale of securities in this country of any foreign government which is in default to the United States treasury.

At 2 o'clock a long session with the cabinet began, at which the general condition of the nation was discussed along with the pressing problem of how to deal with the errant congress.

The cabinet meeting carried 10 minutes over 4 o'clock, the time set for a press conference. The newspaper men came in vast numbers also to greet the chief executive—with questions.

A correspondent asked for an opinion on the McLeod bill. What was that?" the President queried. It was explained that the McLeod bill, which is being forced out of committee by rebellious members of the house, provided for the government to take over all assets of all closed banks and pay off depositors in full.

Mr. Roosevelt, beaming just as nicely as he had this morning, related that he had lost $300 in a closed bank in 1921. Some of his family lost money in the 1907 panic. His father lost in 1893 when banks closed. "Do they all come in under the bill?" the President demanded.

Will the congress take care of all other debts, too? He wanted to know. Some said the amount involved in the bill was four billion dollars.

"Only four billions?" queried Mr. Roosevelt as he mentioned having lost some money in a lobster industry eight years ago and wondered about getting that back.

TWO PHYSICIANS FACE DEATH CASE INQUIRY TODAY

Wolever Doctors Called On by Coroner.

Dr. G. N. Green, 108 North State street; Dr. Abel P. M. Sandahl, 1005 Belmont avenue, and William E. Schmidt, an undertaker at 3834 Irving Park boulevard, were notified yesterday to appear at the coroner's office today to make explanations regarding the death and burial of Franklin H. Wolever, 61 years old, a consulting engineer for the Curtiss Candy company.

Wolever, who lived at 3629 Bernard street, died March 20, following an accident in which six of his ribs were broken. Dr. Sandahl is said to have signed a certificates that death was due to heart disease.

State May Take Action.

Chief Investigator Stanley Kufewski of the state department of registration and education, a department which has jurisdiction in the issuance and revocation of licenses for physicians and undertakers, said he would take no action pending the inquiry today. On Thursday a coroner's jury found that Wolever's death was the result of the accident and it recommended the state department make an investigation.

Dr. Green, physician for an insurance company, told the jury he had made only an external examination and Dr. Sandahl said he signed the death certificate without the clothing being removed from the body. Other witnesses established the fact that Wolever was crushed between a truck and a loading platform.

Firm Pushes Inquiry.

"Otto Schnering, president of the Curtiss Candy company, has asked me to make every effort to develop all the facts concerning Mr. Wolever's death," Attorney Irwin N. Walker, representing the candy company, said yesterday. "He decided on an investigation as soon as he learned what had happened. He is anxious that Mr. Wolever's family obtain whatever protection is coming to them.

"The company is fully protected by employers' liability insurance and if the employé was killed in an accident the amount due the family would be around $4,000. I understand Mr. Wolever also carried an accident insurance policy."

Chief Deputy Coroner Stephen L. Kolanowski said if the facts warant other action he may ask the state's attorney to make an investigation. That death was due to the injury was not learned until the body was exhumed at the request of a son of Mr. Wolever, he said, and he proposed to find out today who, if any one, was at fault.

RUSSIA CONFERS HIGH HONOR ON ARCTIC RESCUERS

MOSCOW, April 13.—(AP)—The seven aviators who rescued 101 Russians from an Arctic sea ice floe and thereby wrote a brilliant chapter in the history of human struggles against far northern elements were given the highest honor tonight ever accorded by the soviet government.

By a special recommendation of Dictator Josef Stalin and other high officials, a new title was created especially for them—that of "Heroes of the Soviet Union"—and, in addition, they and their mechanics were awarded the Order of Lenin and a monetary reward of one year's salary.

The Order of Lenin is the most coveted medal within the power of the soviet government to grant.

Rescued Persons Also Honored.

At the same time these highest officials of the communist party and the Russian government issued a decree awarding the Order of the Red Star to the rescued persons, who took refuge on an ice pack off Siberia when the steamer Cheliuskin, on which they were returning from Wrangel iland, was crushed by the grinding ice and sank Feb. 13.

Their rescue was completed last night. Of the original number of 102, including twelve women and children, one, an aviator, himself flew to safety. But many of the others suffered extreme hardships for weeks because of severe storms and the danger of their position.

Members of the scentific expedition to Wrangel iland, headed by Prof. Otto Schmidt, will be given a premium of six months' salary and a monument commemorating their heroism and courage will be erected in Moscow.

Stalin Sends Message.

In a message dispatched to Cape Van Karem, Siberia, where the castaways were taken from the floe, Stalin and four of his leading colleagues said to the aviators:

"We applaud your heroic work in rescuing the Cheliuskiners and are proud of your victory over the elements of nature. You have realized the best hopes of our country in acting as the most worthy sons of our great fatherland.

"Herewith we are soliciting the central executive committee to grant Pilots Liapidevsky, Levanevsky, Molokoff, Kamanin, Slepneff, Vodopianoff, and ronin [those who effected the rescues] the most honorable title of national heroes for their heroic exploits and to reward both pilots and mechanics with the Order of Lenin and with a sum of money equal to their annual salary."

The will of former Judge George Kersten, leaving an estate estimated at $3,000 to his widow, Mrs. Minnie Kersten, a daughter, and grandson, was admitted to probate yesterday by George B. Weiss, assistant to Probate Judge John F. O'Connell. He was 80 years old.

Letters of administration were issued yesterday in the estate of Assistant City Controler Victor S. Petterson, who died April 4 in his home at 909 West Garfield boulevard. Mr. Petterson left an estate estimated at $21,000.

Five other wills were admitted to probate and filed with Mitchell C. Robin, clerk of the Probate court. The wills were those of:

SCHOOL PUPILS JOIN IN ARBOR DAY OBSERVANCE

With the planting of trees and shrubs at outlying schools and special programs in classrooms and assemblies in the elementary and high schools, school children joined yesterday in the observance of Arbor and Bird day.

A trip to Garfield park conservatory was made by 500 girls, pupils in the Lucy Flower High school. Pupils at the Stone school conducted a morning program of their own and in the afternoon entertained members of the Parent-Teacher association. A similar program was given at the Lincoln school. Pupils of the Sutherland school plan to plant 48 trees when they arrive next week.

Trees were distributed last night to families who attended an Arbor day program at Olivet institute, 1441 Cleveland avenue, under the auspices of the Olivet institute church, of which the Rev. Norman B. Barr is pastor. There was also a band concert.

FINLAND SENDS 7 FASCIST REVOLT CHIEFS TO PRISON

HELSINGFORS, Finland, April 13.—(AP)—Seven ringleaders of a dramatic Fascist revolt in Finland in March, 1932, today were sentenced to prison.

Vihtori Kosola, the Lapua or Fascist leader, and Gen. Martin Wallenius were given one year terms, and five other army officers were sentenced to terms ranging from five months to three years.

Striking suddenly, the Fascists took the town of Mantsala on March 1, 1932, and threatened to march on the capital, 25 miles away. Troops blocked the march and after holding Mantsala for a week the Fascists accepted a promise of immunity for all but the leaders. They had demanded that Marxists and communists be barred from occupying government posts.

FIXES 4½ CENTS RATE FOR WET WASH LAUNDRY

In a ruling against 17 cut rate laundry concerns, Circuit Judge Harry M. Fisher yesterday rendered a decision fixing a price rate of four and a half cents a pound for wet wash laundry. The ruling was made in an injunction suit brought by members of the Chicago Laundry Owners' association seeking to restrain the 17 other members of the association from alleged unfair competition through cut rate prices. The rate fixed by the court was an increase over the price charged by the cut rate concerns.

Attorney Preston Boyden, representing the 17 laundry owners, announced he would appeal the ruling to determine the right of a court of equity to regulate price fixing. He contended that the cut rate owners had been operating with a profit and were entitled to fix their own price.

Judge Fisher announced his ruling after he had been supplied with figures given by David Himmelblau, professor of economics at Northwestern university, showing that the actual cost of doing wet wash after a survey by him, was between 4¼ cents and 4½ cents per pound. The cut rate concerns had advertised a rate of 69 cents for 15 pounds and three cents for each additional pound.

The new price will go into effect today when Judge Fisher signs the formal order.

Everything is sweetie-sweet again with Gene Weiner, playboy Wall street broker, and his blonde wife, the former Dayne Dawne of the stage, and all those court charges they preferred against each other in New York are forgotten. She is a daughter of Lady Kildare of England.

The couple, with their 2 year old son, Gene Jr., were seen yesterday at the Drake hotel where, they admitted, they were on their second honeymoon. Asked about the separate maintenance suit Mrs. Weiner had instituted against Mr. Weiner, they smiled and said "everything's O. K. now. All our troubles are settled." Not long afterward Mrs. Weiner left for the west coast with Gene Jr. Mr. Weiner will join them next week.

In her separate maintenance suit, filed last January, Mrs. Weiner accused her husband of being too friendly with chorus girls and cited an alleged instance in which a pretty chorine embraced him as she looked on and asked: "How's my Genie?" Mr. Weiner retaliated by charging that his wife was ultra-modern in that she fed their 2 year old son highballs.

PASTOR INSISTS ON DOCTOR'S O. K. FOR MARRIAGES

Springfield, Mo., April 13.—(AP)—The Rev. G. Bryant Drake, pastor of the Congregational church here, announced today that he would perform no marriage ceremonies unless the couple does the following:

Gives one day's notice of intent to marry.

Submits physician's statement of physical fitness of both bride and groom.

Demonstrates that "they are not ignorant of physiological and psychological essentials."

"As for the third qualification, I realize it's a thing you can't be sure of," Mr. Drake said. "But at least, especially when they are very young, you can talk to them.

"The church should put up markers to direct folk toward the right road and post signs to block impassable roads. I hold that the blessing of the church upon a marriage is a sacred function. I have treated it too lightly in the past."

3,000 Attend Funeral for Rev. Edward Dwyer

More than 3,000 persons, including some 500 representatives of religious orders of the Roman Catholic church, attended the requiem high mass for the late Rev. Edward F. Dwyer at the Notre Dame church, 1335 West Harrison street, yesterday. Divine office for the dead was chanted by fifty of the clergy in the sanctuary of the church preceding the mass. Burial was in Mount Carmel cemetery, where Father Dwyer's body was laid to rest in the burial plot of the Blessed Sacrament priests. Father Dwyer was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Dwyer of New York City, and was ordained priest six years ago in Montreal. He died Tuesday of heart failure in the St. Mary's of Nazareth hospital in Chicago.

GET HEAVY FINE FOR GAMING AND RUM NEAR SCHOOL

Continuing his drive against slot machine gambling and unlicensed "moonshine" flats in school areas, Judge Thomas A. Green in the South Chicago court yesterday assessed maximum fines against two men.

Jack McCarrin, 50 years old, owner of a small store at 5437 South Halsted street, was fined $100 on a charge of possession of a slot machine. The store is near the Dewey public school and the Visitation parochial school. Police said they found children gambling.

Frank Kubas, 3227 West 37th street, proprietor of an alleged "moonshine" flat at that address, was fined $200 on a charge of selling a half pint of liquor to Steve Ciesla, 14 years old, a high school student.

The boy, according to testimony, bought the liquor for his father. Thomas Ciesla, 3727 South California avenue. Mrs. Ciesla told Judge Green she had warned Kubas not to sell liquor to her husband and that she obtained a warrant for his arrest when he failed to heed her.

Charleston, W. Va., April 13.—[Special.]—Shouting a denial that he had stolen any of the institution's funds, James L. Hill, 46, superintendent of the West Virginia State School for the Negro Deaf and Blind, opened fire with a revolver at the school's faculty breakfast today, killed an instructor, wounded another teacher and a cook, and then ran to his own office, where he committed suicide.

Hill was under investigation by the state board of control for embezzlement.

"He who steals my purse steals trash," Hill cried, according to Mrs. Fannie Herold, one of the wounded teachers, and then whipped a gun from his pocket.

Mrs. Donner Will Be Bride in West Today

BY JUDITH CASS.

IF all of the messages that will cross the country between here and Santa Barbara this afternoon could be backed up by personal appearances, several hundred Chicagoans would be gathered at 4 o'clock on the garden terrace of La Passe, the Charles Garfield Kings' California home now occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Howard Elting, to witness the marriage of the Eltings' daughter, Mrs. Joseph William Donner, widow of William Donner of Buffalo, to Lord Lionel Hallam Tennyson, grandson of the English poet of Victorian days.

There will be at least two Chicago friends of the Elting family present, however. Miss Harriet McLaughlin has timed her California holiday in order to attend the wedding and reception, and Robert McGann, who with Mrs. McGann winters at Ca'di Sopra in Santa Barbara, has sent his acceptance. Because of ill health Mrs. McGann cannot be present.

The members of the Elting family here who are more than a little sad that they are not in Santa Barbara today. . . . Mrs. Philip Elting and her daughter, Ruth, Victor Elting and the young Winston Eltings . . . are planning to be at the station Tuesday morning when Lord Tennyson and his bride will arrive in Chicago on their way to the east coast. They are not stopping over, only changing trains, because they want to have a day or two in New York before they sail next Friday on the Mauretania for London and the picturesque Farringdon estate on the Isle of Wight to which Lord Tennyson was made heir by the will of his father. They will take with them Mrs. Donner's two children, Joseph W. Donner Jr., who is 7, and little Carroll Donner who is just 4.

Altar Erected on Terrace.

With the weather man here playing all sorts of cold weather antics, it is pleasant to hear about the ceremony this afternoon that is to be read under a California sky in a veritable bower of flowers.

The house is of the Normandy type with whitewashed bricks and red shutters and the terrace is hedged with boxwood and Shasta daisies and partially covered by a gayly striped awning.

On this terrace a simple altar of delphiniums, gladioli, and lilies has been improvised at which the Rev. Robert Norris McLean, pastor of the First Presbyterian church in Santa Barbara, will read the service. Unattended, the bride will be given in marriage by her father. In keeping with the out of door setting she will wear a gown of yellow chiffon fashioned with a slight train and shawl cape and a wagon wheel hat of cornflower blue straw. Her bouquet will be an armload of blue and yellow field flowers.

AFTER Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Ryerson left Aiken and before they returned to Chicago they stopped in Washington and took their children sight-seeing. They visited the White House and the congressional buildings and other places of interest, and in the afternoon Mr. Ryerson engaged a motor and took the children to Arlington cemetery and to Mount Vernon. After visiting Mount Vernon they stopped to get something to eat at a little tearoom near by. On the way back to their hotel Mr. Ryerson, addressing his little daughter, Anne, said:

Sight-seer—Dedication—Libel.

"Well, Anne, you wanted to see the White House and the grave of the Unknown Soldier, and the home of George Washington, and you've seen them. Now what did you enjoy most all day today?"

"The ham sandwich at the tearoom," said the young materialist.

THEN there was the radio announcer Variety tells about who dedicated a number to a young woman ill in the hospital, then announced the song which was "You've Got Everything."

A LETTER from London says that friends in England are awaiting with interest the arrival of Viscount Adare and his American bride, the former Nancy Yuille, who were married last month in Palm Beach at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Wolcott Blair. The English are not accustomed to the American practice of having marriage services performed in private homes, and the letter added that one gossip writer in London, in commenting on the fact that the viscount was married in a private home, explained that "there are no churches in Palm Beach."

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

A neat little sign hanging on the dressing tables where recently shampooed women have their hair dried in a loop beauty shop asks them pertly whether they've forgotten their toes and reminds them that a chiropodist is in attendance.

Feeling as we do that foot health and comfort are supremely essential to beauty and peace of mind, we think this modern idea of tying in chiropody with beautifying is one of the soundest notions in the world. We barged in to see the gentleman, regretting profoundly, what with our new patent leather pumps and all, that we hadn't time for a treatment. We took a rain check on that, but we did come away with some good pointers on foot care we'd like to pass on to you.

The chiropodist told us, among other things, that women don't exercise their feet enough. They're encased in shoes all day, and most of the time the shoes could be a bit more sensible. He'll fix you up if you've got foot trouble, but he's got some good ideas on avoiding that predicament. His favorite exercises for arch strengthening and general toning of the foot muscles are exactly the same as Antoinette Donnelly's, which she'll tell you all about for a stamped, addressed envelope.

He says flatly that we all ought to wear sensible oxfords for the greater part of the day and he wishes to heaven some enterprising person would invent a shoe laundry.

He feels, as we do, that a perfectly sound pair of feet are a beauty aid. He's had interesting experiences, right there in the beauty shop, that bear out that theory. Women come in scowling, bad tempered and utterly bedraggled, with one nagging corn or a sagging arch doing its worst. After the necessary corrective work they have a massage with a vibrator, the application of a cooling foot lotion and all the luxurious trimmings of such a treatment; they feel different and they look different as they then trot about their business. Pola Negri Has Top Place on Bill at Palace

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

Pola Negri, the dark haired Slavonic lady of cinema shows, is the chief attraction on the stage portion of the new program at the Palace theater. She appears in a duolog bearing the title of "For All We Know," with Welden Heyburn as her opposite—a vehicle for a personal appearance rather than a one-act play.

The scene suggests a part of the deck of an ocean liner, with the doors to two staterooms in the background. Miss Negri, garbed handsomely in red, leans over the rail, wonders what the wild waves are saying, and talks with Mr. Heyburn about the state of her emotions. It seems that they are sultry. Finally she sings in a warm contralto a ballad with the refrain, "Love Me Tonight."

Mr. Heyburn takes the hint; a Hollywood clutch follows. Then he withdraws to his stateroom, with significant looks at the lady. After a few emotional starts and gestures, indicating modesty in the grasp of the biological urge, she follows him. The curtain fails to suggest a lapse of morals—and then Herman Timberg, the next entertainer on the bill, bounces out to take the audience's mind off the subject.

Harriet Hoctor, prettiest and most adept of American ballet stars, began a week's engagement at the Chicago theater yesterday. With thirty auxiliary coryphees for background she presents a lovely divertissement called "Fantasy in Pink"—the number that was a feature of the recent Chicago engagement of Joe Cook's "Hold Your Horses" production.

This is a treatment of the classic ballet technique from two points of view—from behind the scenes and "out in front." It is an ingenious study in modern choreography, equaling some of the minor items in the repertory of the Monte Carlo Ballet Russe. Miss Hoctor herself is the inventor.

Another elaborate number on the Chicago's bill is "Pirate's Romance," a ballet-operetta containing a troupe of singing, dancing, and miming buccaneers. It is a richly colored and musically ambitious spectacle.

Yiddish plays and musical comedies will return to the Princess theater next Friday night when a piece called "I Would if I Could" will be staged with Aaron Lebedeff and Leon Blank as stars. Matinee and night performances will be given over the week-end.

Good Morning!

"Men in White"? Hospital interns. What do they do? What do they think? What about their various contacts—professional, romantic, financial? [That last's a laugh.] This picture aspires to answer all these questions for you.

Most of the action occurs in a large city hospital where you discover Clark Gable as Dr. George Ferguson, resident physician. And if you have ever had any little medical students running around your home, you know that a resident physician is a glorified intern who has finished his internship and received the appointment—which is an honor, but one of no particular pecuniary advantage.

"Dr. George," as he is affectionately called by his patients, is engaged to the lovely, pampered daughter of a wealthy man. Her father's a crony of Dr. Hochberg, head of the hospital and a very great man in his profession. Hochberg has been responsible for George's appointment, and, after the latter has studied a year in Vienna, plans to have the young man work with him.

It will be hard work, with little money—and Laura is not enthusiastic over the idea of the sacrifices sure to be entailed by such a career.

Her jealousy of her fiancé's work drives George briefly into a short-lived affair with a student nurse. This has a tragic ending—an ending, however, which serves as an efficacious mental eyewash for Laura. . . .

Activities in the operating room, corridors, interns' quarters, sickrooms, laboratories, unreel interestingly and with considerable attention to detail. The picture was staged with scrupulous reference to real hospital surroundings and equipment, and I feel sure that some—perhaps many—of the scenes were photographed in a hospital.

Mr. Gable further endears himself to admirers as the keen and kindly young doctor. Jean Hersholt portrays Dr. Hochberg with skill, real feeling and understanding. Myrna Loy is attractive if somewhat irritating as Laura, and Elizabeth Allan as the lovely young probationer wins your sympathy.

Wallace Ford is funny as a cub intern forever trying to borrow something. Be it vest, girl or money—he has, apparently, nothing of his own.

AND—if you have a notion that your doctor doesn't sometimes wearily and discouragedly drop his head on his arms and wonder what it's all about—you're wrong. He does, often. But, he always realizes, too, that, groping though the medical profession still is, it is nearer knowing the answers to a lot of things than it was twenty years ago—thanks to Lister, Pasteur, Curie, etc.

"SWEDEN, LAND OF THE VIKINGS."
Produced by John W. Boyle.
Narration by Wilfred Lucas.
Presented at the Julian theater.

"You will keep this picture all next week, too?"

"Yes, madam, we're holding it over for another week," he told her.

Her face brightened and she fairly skipped away.

I marveled at the wistfulness and the elation—but when I saw "Sweden, Land of Vikings"—a feature length travelog—I understood what it must mean to one hungry for a sight of her native land.

The picture is photographed in natural colors. Charming folk music accompanies the English narration which is capably attended to by Mr. Wilfred Lucas. He used to be one of my favorite screen players in the "silent" days. With a voice such as he has, I don't see why he was permitted to drop out of things.

After having been transported from New York to the old country on a comfortable Swedish liner, you tour the country by boat and by train. The boats scoot blithely through deep canals amongst beautiful meadow lands from which contented cows gaze at you calmly.

You visit Gothenburg, Stockholm—"Venice of the North"—the quaint walled city of Visby, and are an entranced spectator of the Dalecarlian May day festival.

And how much you learn! Sweden has no poverty, apparently—and no machinery. Her slums are gracious little streets lined with flower covered cottages and all of the work—from boat building to weaving—is done by hand.

Also on the Julian's bill is a fascinating "Mickey Mouse" and an intriguingly erratic, fantastic presentation of Rubinoff and his band—a combination of music and trick photography.

Altogether a genuinly entertaining, restful, cleanly program.

Expert Lists Best Finds of Week in Shops

BY RHEA SEEGER.

The best finds of the week:

Bond street cravat silk, stunning foulard-type silks by the yard to make your newest street suit. They are showing interesting new colors, an old deep blue, a spicy brown, and a silvery green, all marked with small precise patterns like the motifs in imported English cravats, usually found only in masculine ties, but now released for feminine approval by silk manufacturers that present something different.

Patou's costume jewelry "on the square" metal bracelets, earrings, and clips all formed in oblong squares. Stunning stuff for new spring clothes—just about the most unusual silver and gold metal jewelry that has been unpacked. Rather barbaric looking creations, but very smart with tailored clothes and suits and the enviable all black silk dress nearly every one owns and wears like a uniform.

New black linen handkerchiefs with field flowers splashed gayly in each corner, quite like the poppy, daisy, and blue cornflower printed silk that fashioned so many colorful dresses last summer. These effective hankies will go with every kind of a costume and provide the necessary dash you need for dark as well as high colored dresses.

Big black sailors have whirled into town, huge outsize cartwheel hats made of the roughest straw you have worn since you were a small child. The hat brims have straightened out—the newest hats are uncompromisingly outstanding and every one must be planning on wearing these hats, judging by the dispatch with which they are whisked into circulation. If you don't want to try straws immediately, there are some of these gigantic discs in fabric and felt that will make all eyes open wherever you wear them. Black and navy still top the list of popular spring shades with beige plaids and checks streaking along side by side for second position.

Fashion Photograph—Dinner ensemble of crisp white organdy gloves—tucked straps and wide matching bow—that tops a black sheath of an evening gown—small hat of stitched rippled straw.

A Vicious Circle

By ALICE CAMPBELL

SYNOPSIS.

Dorinda Quarles is found stabbed to death following a dinner party in her Paris apartment. Dorinda, untrammeled by scruples or breeding, had served a drug to her guests. Helen Roderick, who was a friend of Dorinda's deceased mother, was staying with Dorinda. She didn't attend the dinner, but awakened early in the morning and discovered the crime and the guests lying about in deep sleep. She is able to arouse her friend, Tommy Rostetter, a journalist. Tommy's dinner partner was Dinah Blake, an American artist, whose engagement to Christopher Loughton, in the American embassy, was, according to rumor, broken on account of Dorinda. Dinah is not among the sleeping guests. Tommy arouses the others and sends for the police, then calls to break the news to Dorinda's stepfather, Basil Jethro, celebrated Oxford scholar, who was her guardian and trustee and who had long since given up trying to curb his charge. Dinah can't be found. Tommy conducts a search for her and for facts to help clear her of suspicion. She paid a call on the Hubert Loughtons shortly past midnight, after leaving Dorinda's party. Dinah returns two days later to the apartment which she shares with her cousin, Hallie Pemberton. She had been sleeping in the studio of absent friends. Her memory is a blank. Tommy Rostetter happens to call before the police learn of Dinah's return and persuades Dinah to pretend she is engaged to him, so that jealousy of Dorinda may not be considered incriminating. Basil Jethro had lost his key to Dorinda's apartment in the court of the building the evening of the crime. Tommy calls at Dinah's. She tells him that Dorinda thought that Jethro had given her mother an overdose of a sleeping drug. Tommy had seen Jethro leaving Dorinda's apartment, carrying a battered suitcase, before the dinner party. It was not in Jethro's hotel room the morning he called on him.

INSTALMENT XXX.

INVESTIGATING A WILL.

As Tommy drove homeward he knew he could not rest till he had pursued his inquiry about the suitcase to the Stanislas hotel. If he hoped to obtain full information it would be necessary to establish some sort of footing with the manager and staff, and how accomplish this except by becoming a guest?

He collected a few belongings in a bag and quickly repaired to the Rue Bezger.

The manager eyed him rather dubiously, but friendly relations were soon cemented when he learned the newcomer's intentions.

"All I want is a quiet room I can occupy for a night or so, while my flat is undergoing repairs," explained Tommy with his most ingenuous manner. "This place is suitable because it's near; and also my friend, Mr. Jethro, advised me to try it as you had made him extremely comfortable."

"That was very kind of him," answered the manager, highly gratified. "The room he had is still vacant if you would care to have it," and he selected several keys from the rack.

"O, by the way," Tommy remarked, "Mr. Jethro wanted me to inquire whether or not he had left a piece of his luggage behind. It was a dark brown leather suitcase, the one he brought in with him the evening before the unfortunate affair, and he can't recall what he did with it."

"A suitcase, monsieur?" The man looked surprised. "No, Mr. Jethro left nothing of the sort in my care. It was Friday evening, was it not? Then he may have had a suitcase with him. I really can't say, because I didn't see him come in. The first intimation I had of his return was when he rang the office to have his dinner taken up. I hardly believe anything of his was left behind, but we'll ask the attendant who took down his trunk."

Tommy dismissed the subject and bestowed complete attention on the choice of rooms. Number eighteen took his fancy. So this was Mr. Jethro's, was it? Yes, it would suit him very well. Then, alone in his temporary quarters, he set about deciding certain matters which from the beginning had puzzled him.

First he examined the room to see if there was any place in which the suitcase could have been hidden. He clearly recalled the long, empty space under the bed, the vacant interior of the wardrobe, and the general look of bareness wherever his eye had strayed. The various drawers were not large enough to conceal so bulky an object. No, beyond the slightest doubt, on Saturday morning the thing was not here. Could it have been stowed in an adjoining room?

Here again the answer was in the negative. There was no private bath or cupboard, and the communicating doors on each side were locked and their keys removed. At one stroke he had deepened not only this particular mystery, but another one as well, for now he knew that the former occupant could not have retired into any adjacent apartment at the moment when his own knock sounded from without. All along he had felt uncertain about Jethro's failure to respond.

Muttering discontentedly, Tommy descended to the office and scrawled his name as illegibly as possible in the register.

"There was no second suitcase," he informed the manager. "So I would think it most probable Mr. Jethro took it away in person. Did you happen to notice if he was carrying anything when he went out Saturday morning? A little before ten it would have been."

"To tell the truth, monsieur, I did not see him go. I can't imagine why, either, because I was watching for him rather especially, after what you told me. Ten o'clock? In any event it was much earlier than that, for feeling worried about his not requiring breakfast I took the trouble to send upstairs to make sure he wanted nothing. That was very soon after you left, monsieur,—say a quarter of an hour—and his room was empty, so you see he had already dressed and gone."

Tommy felt a shock of amazement. What, no attack of faintness? Gone inside a quarter of an hour? Here, at all event, was an instance of out and out lying—a deliberate falsification to account plausibly for the long delay in reaching the Ile St. Louis. But what had Jethro done, where had he gone in the interval that he did not wish to tell the truth about it?

Tommy asked another question.

"I dare say you often have Mr. Jethro staying with you?"

"On the contrary, this was his first visit, monsieur. Some one in the south recommended us."

More than ever did Tommy incline to his recent belief that the philosopher had some definite cause for selecting the Stanislas. That cause mattered little if, having come here, he had remained shut in his room the whole of Friday night. For a few seconds he toyed with the idea of Jethro's having employed an accomplice to do the actual killing, but this theory seemed absurdly untenable, indicating as it did an entire disregard of the first principles of caution. No man with so much at stake would risk being blackmailed for the rest of his life. If he wished his stepdaughter out of the way, he would execute the removal with his own hand or not at all. Revealed facts seemed to show that the latter alternative was the right one.

Jethro must be innocent. For the second time that day Tommy arrived at this conclusion, but having just discovered the man in a lie he could no longer regard him as a pure, unspotted soul. He decided to desert opportunity and concentrate on motive. The scrap of paper taken from Dorinda's room did not, to his thinking, represent a sufficient reason for committing murder, but there might be a better reason not far to seek. What about approaching the firm of solicitors who had handled Lady Agatha's affairs? He had some acquaintance with both the Macadams, father and son.

"That's an idea!" he reflected with sudden hope. "No doubt they drew up the will. Old Macadam is a clam; I shan't get much out of him, but Geoffrey Macadam's entirely human."

At this point Tommy's thoughts flickered back to the tale spun by his scatter brained nephew, Rank Rostetter. He viewed it from every angle, and, as before, cast it into the discards. It might or might not be true, but in either case what could it prove? Nothing helpful to him in his present quandary. He sighed deeply, and drove towards the Opera.

"Too bad my father's not in France just now," he said regretfully. "Though I doubt if he could give you much help. We didn't draw up Lady Agatha's will, you see; only handled her investments and so on during the latter years. She lived partly in Paris and partly in London. You could quite easily get hold of a copy of her will from Somerset House."

"If I go to London, I'll be committing contempt of court," replied Tommy. "And it wouldn't do to compromise myself at the present moment on my fiancée's account."

The young lawyer spoke with slight hesitation. "I want to tell you how glad, and—well, relieved, my wife and I were when we heard about your engagement. Surprised, too. That is to say, Catherine knows Dinah Blake quite well, is decidedly fond of her in fact, but neither she nor I realized there was anything of that sort——"

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Hollywood, Cal., April 13.—[Special.]—Henry B. Walthall, whose span before the camera began with his memorable role of the Little Colonel in "Birth of a Nation," and whose popularity has continued ever since, is shortly leaving for his home state of Alabama to carry out a 20 year ambition to produce a picture of his own. It'll be a civil war story, from the southerner's viewpoint, and Walthall, who is a native of Shelby City, Ala., is backed in the enterprise by private capital. The story he will make is an original of his own writing. His latest part here is in "City Park" for Chesterfield Independent studios.

Marguerite Namara, who sang with both the Chicago and Metropolitan grand opera companies, is playing a small part in Sylvia Sidney's "Thirty Day Princess." Buck Jones, one of the best known of all movie cowboy heroes in the silent days, has now become a serial king. Last year he starred in the Universal "Gordon of Ghost City," and he's signed with the same studio for a 15 chapter thriller called "The Red Rider," and will follow with six adventure films.

"What interested us in signing Buck Jones again," they say at Universal, "is the discovery that more than 1,000,000 schoolboys are enrolled as members of 'Buck Jones Ranger' clubs."

Warner Baxter's new Fox contract puts him in that prominent class in which the stars have to make only four pictures a year and draw their salary. Baxter's next is "Grand Canary," adventure story laid in the Canary Islands, and after finishing that one and taking a vacation he'll do another "Cisco Kid."

Rochelle Hudson and her mother are going back to Claremore, Okla., for the first time in three years to settle Rochelle's grandfather's estate. . . . Will Rogers did an adagio dance, clad in pink tights and a leopard skin for his closing scene in Fox's "Merry Andrew" this week. . . . Conchita Montenegro was the other half of the adagio team.

Mae West's physician reports the bouncy blonde as a pretty sick girl. She has had a severe cold. Filming on "It Ain't No Sin" waits until she gets better . . . Boris Karloff is in the hospital having his tonsils removed . . . The reason John Barrymore's face was sore recently was because Carole Lombard had to smack it 14 times in a scene for Columbia studio's just completed "20th Century."

When the Superior court here approved the three picture contract between Tom Brown, 20, and Radio studio it revealed Brown as drawing a salary of $750 a week. . . . Jackie Cooper, aged 11, is drawing $2,000 a week at M. G. M.

One of the biggest kicks voiced by delegates and spokesmen at the annual convention of Theater Owners' Association of America here was at letting the public in on the considerable salaries paid movie executives, stars, writers, and directors.

"It makes legislators think the movie industry is rolling in wealth," the delegates said. "And, as a consequence, all the tax assessing bodies keep loading heavier taxes on that branch of the movies—the theaters—which is least responsible and able to pay."

W. R. Sheehan's $250,000 a year as Fox studio production head was prominently commented upon.

He Is Sociable at Parties but She Resents It

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I am unfortunate enough to be in love with one of those popular 'life of the party' men you hear about. I don't know what to do. When we go to a party he will be with me approximately ten minutes out of the whole evening. The rest of the time he is running around telling jokes, going into dances, and pinching the girls' cheeks. I try not to be jealous, but it hurts me so.

"When we are alone he tells me how much he cares. I try to think, when we are at the party, that it is his nature. JOANNE."

Can you change the spots of one of the life of the party boys? Maybe some of you women readers have had personal experience in handling the type? We think it might be done, although we do not believe you can completely change a character once formed. That taste for fun, and gayety, and diversity of companionship is just as natural to some men [and girls] as the color of their eyes, hair, complexion. And very frequently the type is harmless, since the safety in numbers applies to their interest in the opposite sex. Of coure such a man could love one girl—the girl he could always go back to, the girl he expects to be waiting smilingly for him. But the fact that he is hurting and putting her in an embarrassing position before her friends might be the right appeal to make to him. There's a good deal of the spoiled, show-off child about the life of the party type, man or woman. They're not conscious that their actions may be hurting the one they love most. They have to be told. If, after the telling, they continue to ride roughshod over one's heart they'd better not be looked to for future contentment.

Mrs. Donner Will Be Bride in West Today

Burlingame, Cal., Lord Tennyson passed most of the winter, is to serve as best man. William A. Slater Jr. of Montecito and Paul I. Fagan of Santa Barbara will be the ushers. The reception following the ceremony is to be on the terrace and in the low rambling house.

Beatrice Kirk Wedding Today.

An event of interest to society here today is the wedding of that glamorous young woman, Miss Beatrice Kirk, to the young English officer, Capt. C. Ross Cuthbert, at 4:30 o'clock in the drawing room of the Lake Forest home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Walter R. Kirk. With simple dignity the service will be read in the presence of only 100 relatives and intimate friends. An equally small reception is to follow the ceremony.

Miss Kirk will have her sister, Mrs. Lawrence Williams [Barbara Kirk] for her only attendant. Capt. Cuthbert, who is the son of the late Col. Albert Edward Ross Cuthbert of the Royal Canadian Forces and Mrs. Cuthbert of New York, will be served by Bruce Harvey of New York and London as his best man.

Among the out of town guests here for the ceremony are the bridegroom's mother, his sister, Miss Margaret Cuthbert, and his aunt, Miss Gertrude Nye of Ithaca, N. Y. Capt. Cuthbert and his bride will be away for only a week now, but in June they plan to take a wedding trip to England.

Parties Follow Benefit Ballet.

There are interesting attractions for both the junior and senior generations this evening after the performance of the Monte Carlo Ballet Russe at the old Auditorium that is to benefit the Eli Bates settlement.

The debutantes, the post-debs, and their beaux will be moving on to the Lighthouse Volunteer Aids' ball in the Bal Tabarin of the Hotel Sherman, always one of the smartest of the spring parties, while most of the "grownups" will be gathering at the Tavern to meet some of the lovely ballerinas they have seen an hour or two earlier back of the footlights.

Both the ballet performance and the Lighthouse ball will officially end debutante flower vending for this season. Selling gardenias and carnations in the Auditorium lobby for as much as they can garner from masculine pocketbooks will be Miss Marie Louise Gardner, Miss Virginia Thatcher, Miss Lucy Harrison, Miss Kean Hughes, Miss Roslyn Paine, Miss Thelma Jensen, Miss Lillian Lampert and her sister, Myrtle, Miss Jean Hyman, and Miss Frances Canfield.

Some of the Lighthouse Aids who are not going to the Auditorium this evening are planning dinner parties at home before their ball. Miss Caryl Bloomingston is to have a small dinner at the apartment of her parents, Mrs. Daniel Peterkin Jr., Mrs. Eugene Cary Jr., and Mrs. John F. Jennings will be hostesses at others. Because of the nationality of the guests for whom the Tavern is entertaining—the Russian ballerinas—the club has asked Prince and Princess Rostislav and Prince and Princess Galitzine to be official hosts and hostesses at its party tonight.

Members of the Saddle and Cycle club must feel that summer really is on its way, for today the club is opening its tennis courts, the men's and women's locker rooms and the baseball field, and is celebrating the event with the first dinner-dance of the season.

The Herbert Bradleys, the Frederick Woodwards, the Hugo Andersons, the William F. Ogburns and the Charles Gilkeys are among those entertaining at the University Colony club dinner-dance at Ida Noyes hall tonight.

The Lake Forest Y. W. C. A. rummage sale will open at 9 o'clock this morning in the Y. W. C. A. headquarters in Lake Forest Market square and continue until the last article is sold.

Before the reception the Alliance Française is tendering the French consul general, Rene Weiller, and Mme. Weiller tomorrow evening at the Casino, Robert Hall McCormick, the alliance president, and the directors are having a dinner at the club for their guests and the other members of the French consulate.

Throngs Attend Geneva Style Show.

At the Little Traveler in the courtyard of which the women of St. Mark's Episcopal church are holding a benefit flower market every Thursday, Friday and Saturday, there was an added attraction yesterday and the day before for Mrs. John Jerome Finlay [Jane Scriven] staged an unusual fashion show in which the models posed in tableaux.

Crowds of women from the north shore and the city drove west to Geneva to see the charming tableaux both days, including Mrs. Charles H. Schweppe, Mrs. John V. Farwell III., Mrs. Arthur Farwell, Mrs. John W. Root, Mrs. Chauncey B. Blair, Mrs. Edward J. Bermingham, Mrs. Charles H. Requa and her daughter and daughter-in-law, Mrs. Stewart Johnson and Mrs. Howard Requa; Mrs. Bruce MacLeish, Mrs. Harry C. Holloway and Miss Ruth Holloway, Mrs. Hathaway Watson and Miss Irene Wilson, Mrs. M. Paul Noyes, Miss Betty Scriven and Mrs. Charles R. Lindsay Jr.

The many Chicago friends of Mrs. Hyde Pynchon, the former Mary Hyde, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Seymour J. Hyde of Greenwich, Conn., will be surprised to learn of her marriage to John Rowland on April 5 in Kingman, Ariz., where she has been spending the last several months with her children. Mrs. Rowland came to Chicago at the end of the war as the bride of Harold C. Pynchon, then a lieutenant in the army, and lived here until her divorce a few years ago. Mr. Rowland is a brother of the late Henry C. Rowland, novelist.

Shane Leslie Guest in City.

Shane Leslie of England and Ireland is visiting his friend, Msgr. Thomas V. Shannon, on Kimbark avenue. Mr. Leslie is to be in Chicago until May 1 to lecture at various Catholic colleges and universities. He is a great-grandson of the duke of Marlborough and a cousin of Winston Churchill. Mrs. Leslie, the former Marjorie Ide, daughter of Henry C. Ide of Vermont, one time governor general of the Philippines, did not accompany Mr. Leslie, but remained at home with their two sons and daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Leopold E. Block are giving a reception tomorrow from 4 to 7 o'clock at their residence, 357 Fullerton parkway, for their daughter, Eleanore, and her fiancé, Daniel Saidenberg, whose engagement was announced recently.

Music Leaders Are Chorus for Final Concert

Milwaukee Director Made President of Group.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Something like 600 convention members became a chorus on the stage of the Auditorium theater last night to present the last concert of the Music Supervisors' National conference. Incidentally it was the last time that the members will assemble under that name, for one of the final actions was the decision to change the name of the organization to Music Educators' National conference.

HERMAN SMITH.

The farewell concert was signalized by a long program of excellent singing under the direction of Dr. Hollis Dann. The chorus was assisted by the Supervisors' Auxiliary chorus and the Lane Technical High school orchestra directed by Oscar W. Anderson. The program was varied and interesting; one number, Adolph Hoffman's excellent transcription of Bach's Toccata and Fugue in D minor for orchestra alone, the rest of the concert divided between chorus a capella and chorus with orchestral accompaniment. From the singing of the supervisors it was easy to see why the singing of many school choruses this week has touched such a high degree of merit.

A good part of the final session during the day was devoted to the election of officers for the coming term. The vote for president was so close that a recount became necessary, but the final decision was that Herman F. Smith, director of music of the Milwaukee public schools, had won over Miss Ada Bicking, director of music of Jordan university, Indianapolis. The figures, following the policy of the conference, were not made public.

Walter H. Butterfield, the retiring president, automatically became first vice president, and Louis W. Curtis of Los Angeles was chosen second vice president. C. V. Buttelman of Chicago remains as executive secretary.

Church Groups Plan Tours for Next Summer

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The lure of the lakes and seas has been felt since Easter by leaders of sections of Chicago's religious life. Two journeys afloat will be made in June under differing auspices with spiritual recovery and stimulation as leading quests.

One journey will be a pilgrimage to English cathedrals and Oberammergau, under plans developed by John D. Allen, president both of the Episcopal Church club of Chicago and the National Federation of Episcopal Church Clubs. Pilgrims of this group, which Mr. Allen announces will number more than 100, will embark from New York on the chartered ship Carinthia June 6, with London the first destination.

The other spiritual quest afloat will draw inspiration from the great lakes aboard the steamship North America, with the Bible and its study the chief reward instead of great cathedrals and Oberammergau's Passion Play, the objectives of the more ambitious Episcopal pilgrimage. This journey will be sponsored by the Chicago Bible society, 35 East Wacker drive. The Rev. Dr. J. L. McLaughlin, leader of the society, announced yesterday that already 350 persons are seeking reservations to embark on June 16. The party will be limited to the capacity of the ship, which Dr. McLaughlin said will comfortably accommodate 500 persons.

The North America will become a virtual floating biblical institute during the 7 day cruise of the inland waters, according to Bible society plans.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By A. HAL SIMS

Mr. Sims is universally acclaimed the greatest living contract and auction player. He is captain of the renowned "Four Horsemen" team of four, and has won twenty national championships since 1925.

A FEW GENERAL OBSERVATIONS.

I have concluded, for the time being, my explanation of the responses which we use when the partner has opened with a bid of one in a suit of one no trump. Before going on to deal with opening bids of more than one and the related responses, I wish to urge my readers to look through the various responses again and compare them. I want you to realize that each fits logically into its place next to its neighbor, that all the ground is pretty thoroughly covered, and that where they overlap, they leave scope for individual judgment in making a selection.

This adds enormously to the interest of the game; we would not enjoy it if every situation could be infallibly analyzed to a certainty. Then, too, there are extreme freak hands which will defeat any system created for everyday use, though I am confident that the Sims system of bidding offers greater protection against misfit freaks than the others which are used against me in tournaments.

I do not wish you to memorize all the requirements I have set forth for the various responses. That is unnecessary—they suggest themselves once the principle is clear to you and you are convinced that the methods are logical and coördinated. Memorize the primary trick valuations—no great effort is needed, you will agree—and study the examples analytically.

Take an old deck of cards and make up hands to illustrate the various types of holdings, both for bidding and responding, and notice how the necessary information, both negative and positive, can be exchanged.

Future articles will include examples of and comments on this phase of the bidding when hands actually played are discussed. In Contract, do not mistake mathematics for precision. Accuracy is not obtained by multiplying finicky fractional high card values by a figure representing their average promoting power over small cards in their suit, but by counting the losers in each hand after the ground has been prepared for identifying them as such.

Duplication and Leeway—and Some Inferences.

Last week I observed a striking instance of blundering through not allowing for rather obvious duplication by applying the leeway principle when the bidding had been opened by the opponents.

Sp. K x x x	Dl. —
Hs. Q x x x	Cl. A K 10 x x

West dealt and passed this hand; South opened fourth hand with one heart, West passed, waiting for the denial—which came in spades. To his surprise, East now entered the bidding with two diamonds, holding

Sp. J	Dl. A K Q x x
Hs. x x	Cl. Q J x x x

South passed and West bid three clubs, his opportunity for setting the opponents in a major suit having been removed. Now East, mesmerized by his apparent fit in clubs, blindly bid five clubs, which was set one trick vulnerable. He should have realized that there were, as far as he could tell, three sure losers in the hand. By bidding four clubs he would have conveyed that notion to West who, with the spades bid on his left, would then pass.

If the game was to be risked, East should have tried three no trumps, since North and South did not support each other's major suits and West had entered the bidding at three, although East had not been doubled in two diamonds. There would have been time to revert to clubs if the no trumps were doubled. East's jack of spades would probably protect the king or queen on the opening lead if West holds a spade honor, as appears likely. Had West not liked the opening heart bid, would he not have overcalled it immediately with two clubs?

Hair Should Be Treated Before the Permanent

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Springtime is wave time as well as the young man's fancy time.

Well, this spring you'd better not be seen out with hair hanging on your neck. There is no 1934 hair rule so important as to keep the neck clear of hair. This means that whatever hair you've been raising lately will have to be permanented and lifted up as high as the natural line back there.

But it was of permanents I wished to speak, not styles, except as the tidy head and neck inspires a style idea. As you may know, there are now several methods of permanent waving, and the trade is developing all the time improved ways of winding, different ways of applying heat, and better fluid mixtures, as well as better and more comfortable machines.

But what interests you and me is not the machine make, so much as how we are going to get a really good permanent. Well, we have something to do with that, too, in the condition of the hair we bring to the salon. We can't expect a satisfactory permanent over hair that has lost its vitality or is suffering any of the numerous scalp conditions relative to poor hair. Then, too, if the hair has been dyed and bleached you'd better put your hair in a specialist's care for a time before you take the permanent. It needs reconditioning, and it needs pre-permanent supervision.

I hate to be discouraging about cheap permanents this year, especially when we are all trying to get our money's worth for as little money as possible. But a permanent isn't like a powder puff that you can throw away if you don't like it. It's here to stay with you until it grows out, which may be anywhere from three to six months. Then, too, you want a natural looking waving, not a Topsy topknot when you get one. Good permanent waving is a joy for one who knows hair, who knows how to handle a machine, who knows how much heat the hair will stand; a well informed and experienced operator, in other words. For this experience we have to pay if we want a job well done.

"What about substituting brown corn sirup for molasses in gingerbread?"

"Can a teaspoon of baking powder be substituted for each egg omitted in a recipe?"

"What makes these angel food cakes of mine so porous and coarse textured?"

"Why is my 'seven minute frosting' gray when I beat it with an electric beater and not when I beat it with a hand beater? I always use an aluminum double boiler for the beating."

First about the substitution of brown sirup for molasses in gingerbread. (Mrs. T. M. P. wants to know.) Most molasses, being the by-product in the manufacture of sugar from beets or cane, contains a considerable quantity of impurities which give it its distinctive flavor. Corn sirup is made from corn starch, which in turn comes from the grain of corn. While there is a great range in the make-up of both of these sugar sirups, tests show that the average corn sirup is somewhat sweeter than molasses. However, as a general thing it has less natural acids to be overcome by soda, but may be substituted directly for molasses in recipes, or vice versa. One should expect a slightly different flavor, of course.

Then that old question about egg and baking powder substitutions. I'm assuming that you refer to cakes, Mrs. P. Our usual estimate is that one whole egg or two egg whites equal from one-half to one teaspoon of baking powder in levening power. But there's difficulty when we carry this substituting too far. When baking powder entirely replaces eggs in a cake we too often get an unpleasant, husky texture. Also when substituting the powder for eggs increase the liquid one-quarter cup for each egg omitted and very slightly increase the shortening in the cake.

And it still seems that we're on the matter of cakes, for coarse angel cakes are bothering Mrs. R. E. S. The answer to that may seem just a little confusing, but here it is. Coarseness in egg cakes really may happen from either too little mixing of the batter or too much mixing. The folding must be sufficient to mix thoroughly the ingredients, but this should be done gently. Extremes on either side are dangerous. Too hot an oven sometimes causes coarseness; also too much or too little beating of the egg whites. They should be beaten until just stiff, but not dry and lusterless.

Next for Mrs. U. F. C.'s grayish seven minute frosting. I'm afraid, Mrs. C., that your trouble lies with your aluminum double boiler. Aluminum is a splendid metal for countless uses, but it doesn't seem to adapt itself well to prolonged beating of white batter, mixing of dough, or whipping of frosting, especially when a metal implement is used for the stirring. A grayish tint in the mixture is too often the result, although actually this is completely harmless. The reason that your hand beater has not given this tint is that there simply hasn't been so much hard beating done and there may even have been less contact between the beater and the double boiler. I would suggest that if the mechanical beater is to be used, and it certainly is a labor and time saver, that you adopt an enameled utensil for this particular preparation.

Parisiennes Give Their Approval to Shorts for Sports

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—A fashion that began last summer down at Monte Carlo and other Riviera resorts has moved into the salons of Paris dressmakers this spring and taken possession of the extra-active sports mode. That is the style of one piece shorts, which the style conscious woman wore all over the Mediterranean coast last season with a long skirt buttoned over it. The dressmakers often omit the camouflage of the long top skirt this spring, and they make the shorts of every kind of material from tricot to taffeta.

Shorts made of either silk or wool alpaca are popular in Paris fashions and are extremely practical. They may be somewhat girlish in cut, as Lyolene makes them, and like the model shown in our sketch. This garment is made of silk alpaca in the greenest apple green and the brief trousers are cut to look more like a skirt with set-in hip pockets and a buttoned placket at the back. They are worn over fitted silk shorts in the same color.

The sleeveless blouse has a deep V décolleté at the back and a square neckline in front with a bow to trim it. A tucked piece of the alpaca is set in the front of this bodice.

NEW YORK GIRLS KEEP NATIONAL MEDLEY CROWN

Record Swim Led by Eleanor Jarrett.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Eleanor Holm Jarrett, Olympic swimming champion, helped the Women's Swimming Association of New York retain the 300 yard medley relay championship in the women's national A. A. U. meet last night at the Lake Shore Athletic club pool. Competing in the 100 yard back stroke, she gave her team a thirty foot advantage in a performance that contributed largely to a new meet record of 3 minutes 42.6 seconds.

Unofficially, Mrs. Jarrett was timed for the 100 yards in 1 minutes 9.8 seconds, which broke her own world mark of 1:11.6. Tonight she will have an opportunity to erase her own world record, and undoubtedly she will do it, if last evening's sprint is a criterion.

Hold Mrs. Jarrett's Margin.

Lillian Irwin plunged in as Mrs. Jarrett finished, and she held the advantage during the 100 yard breast stroke. Then came Dorothy Dickinson in the free style 100 yards, and while she lost some distance to Leonore Kight, anchor for the Carnegie Library club of Homestead, Pa. Olive McKean of the Washington Athletic club, Seattle, Wash., and Emma Shemaitis of the Lake Shore A. C., she was not seriously threatened. Mrs. Jarrett's personal effort was the difference between defeat and victory for the New York girls.

Miss Kight Gets Revenge.

Miss Kight gained revenge over her Pacific coast rival, Miss McKean, in the 220 yard free style, which was the other women's national championship decided last night. On Wednesday Miss McKean defeated Miss Kight by the narrowest of margins in the 100 yard free event, but last night over a longer distance Miss Kight won by a wide margin. The time was 2 minutes 36.4 seconds, one second slower than Miss Kight's championship time.

Alice Bridges of Whittinsville, Mass., Community association, was third. Emma Shemaitis, June Burr, Miami Beach club, Miami, Fla., and Doris Buckley, Washington A. C., reached the finals in the afternoon's qualifying races, but were eliminated in the final.

Medica Breaks Another.

Jack Medica of Seattle, who apparently can swim faster than any man in the world at any distance over 220 yards, staged another exhibition last night and established another American record. The distance—250 yards—is uncommon and the time will be listed in the records as a noteworthy performance. Medica swam the distance in 2 minutes 25 seconds as against the former American mark of 2:37, which was established by Johnny Weissmueller.

Medica now has been timed for five distances in three nights of the Women's national championships and on each occasion he has established either a world or American record. Tonight he will finish with an attack on the existing marks for 550 yards, 600 yards, 700 yards and 800 yards. There was none last night in the packed galleries who would dispute the wager that the University of Washington sophomore would break records in all four distances.

Highland Wins Sprint.

Art Highland of Northwestern university, won the 50 yard free style last night in one of the supporting races. Don Horn, Northwestern, and Max Briedenthal, Lake Shore, tied for first in the 220 yard breast stroke race; Carl Nelson, Lake Shore, was the winner in the 500 yard free style event, and Lake Shore won the 400 yard free style relay. Little Miss Billie Nicholson, who threatens to become a national champion one of these days, won the 50 yard handicap race for girls from 9 to 12 years of age.

Tonight's concluding program for the national meet includes the 500 yard race free style, 100 yard back stroke, and high broad fancy diving.

Championship Events.

220 YARD FREE STYLE—Won by Lenore Kight, Carnegie Library club, Homestead, Pa.; Olive McKean, Washington A. C., Seattle, Wash., second; Alice Bridges, Whittinsville, Mass., Community association, third. Time 2:36.4.

Talking it Over

BY ARCH WARD.

THERE will be two eastern teams on Michigan's 1935 and 1936 football schedules. . . . A series with Pennsylvania was arranged several weeks ago. . . . Another has been completed with Columbia. . . . You may look for official confirmation any day now. . . . Barney Ross, lightweight champion, never has been knocked off his feet. . . . Sonja Henie, champion figure skater, is only 5 feet tall, weighs 100 pounds and wears a No. 3 shoe. . . . She never has competed in speed skating races. . . . Her ambition is to see Babe Ruth hit a home run. . . . Bill Mehlhorn had to abandon a week's exhibition golf tour of Kentucky because of pleurisy. . . . Sir Thomas has been turning in the best workouts of the Kentucky Derby candidates training in Louisville. . . .

The Notre Dame football team will play at home every Saturday next October and will be away every Saturday in November. . . . Ralph Metcalfe has run 52 sprint races since becoming eligible for varsity competition at Marquette and has won 75. . . . Two of his defeats were in the Olympic games and in one of those, the 100 meters, he was given a tie for first place. . . . Stanford loses only Norgard, end, and Corbus, guard, from its football starting lineup of last season. . . . Clyde Baker, a sophomore pitcher at Southern California, recently worked a double header against St. Mary's and won both games. . . . Venders at Wrigley field sold more than 38,000 individual packages of ice cream at a double header between the Cubs and Giants a few years ago.

Harry Nelly, baseball correspondent emeritus, who now is tending maple sugar trees in Bryan, O., says the weather there jumped from winter into summer and there isn't enough sap to make one wrestling fan. . . . Charley Hall, who was a good pitcher with the Boston Red Sox 20 years ago, is a day laborer around Ventura, Cal. . . . President Frederic Hamilton of Bradley college, Peoria, Ill., is an expert basketball shot. . . . He entered open competition with several hundred players of central Illinois a few years ago and after leading the field for a time finished in seventh place. . . . When King Levinsky took up professional boxing he called himself Battling Levinsky. . . . He appeared to be such a hopeless clown that the original Battling Levinsky, whose right name is Barney Lebrowitz, squawked to the Illinois athletic commission, and the newcomer, who has earned $121,000 in purses at Chicago Stadium, had to change his nom de sock. . . .

Clark D. Shaughnessy Jr., son of the Chicago football coach, appears to have the makings of a great punter. . . . He is a sophomore at Hyde Park High school. . . . Si Johnson of the Cincinnati Reds is a coin collector. . . . The world champion Giants have been defeated more often this spring than any team in either major league. . . . Mixed bouts were permitted in the recent National A. A. U. boxing tournament for the first time in the history of Missouri. . . . Not so many years ago Andy Lotshaw, trainer of the Cubs, was one of the leading hitters in the minor leagues, but he never received a call from a major league team. . . .

Col. E. R. Bradley, with four entries in the Kentucky Derby, picks Singing Wood to win, Sir Thomas to place and Cavalcade to finish third. . . . The colonel, however, will have a bet on his own entry just in case. . . . U. S. PREP TRACK MEET AT U. OF C. IS DISCONTINUED

National High School Body Forces Action.

The University of Chicago's national interscholastic track meet, the only event of its scope in the high school track world, has been discontinued. This was announced last night by Thomas Nelson Metcalf, athletic director at the Midway.

Sanction for the famous meet, the 30th running of which was to have been held this June, has been withdrawn by the National Federation of State High School Athletic associations, which, under the leadership of C. W. Whitten, its secretary-treasurer, has been waging a campaign against large scale high school meets in all sports.

Oppose National Meets.

"At the annual meeting of the national council of the National Federation of State High School Athletic associations which was held at Cleveland, O., on Feb. 26, a motion was adopted by the national council, instructing the executive committee not to sanction any national athletic meets for high school boys. The motion was passed almost unanimously, there being as I now recall it only two votes in opposition to the motion.

"I think there were quite a number of factors that entered into the decision. One of these was that these meets are not national in character under any circumstances. It is quite likely that very few of the so-called national meets in the past have had representatives from more than half of the states, or at least not from many more than half.

Cites Growing Expenses.

"The point was further made that as they approached nationality in character they became more and more objectionable just because the expenses incident to attending such meets grow with their spread throughout the country. In these days of decidedly limited resources it was the opinion of those present that it was really wrong to encourage the expenditure of appreciable sums of money in attendance upon such a meet.

"But at any rate, all points considered, the vote was as stated above. It is my opinion, therefore, that the national federation will not desire to coöperate with the University of Chicago in continuing the interscholastic meet."

No Comment from Metcalf.

Director Metcalf would not comment last night upon the action of the federation. His announcement, however, indicates that the university will not seek to hold the meet against the wishes of the federation, which represents state high school athletic authorities in a number of states.

It was this group, again at the active instance of Mr. Whitten, which forced the discontinuance of the University of Chicago's national interscholastic basketball tournament in 1930, after eleven such meets had built the tournament into an affair of great national interest. Mr. Whitten's group also, in the past year, has succeeded in the limitation of the university's swimming, wrestling, and Christmas week basketball meets to local schools.

Introduced Many Great Stars.

Since its establishment in 1902 by A. A. Stagg, the Chicago interscholastic has been the most important prep track meet, and it has been regarded as a stimulating influence in track competition. A host of high school stars who later gained fame in collegiate and Olympic competition first came to national attention in the Chicago meet. Nearly 100,000 boys have competed in the meet. Individual entries last year numbered 101, representing 180 schools in 26 states, with a range between New York and Colorado, Minnesota and Texas, and the six teams which led the scoring represented six different states.

The roll call of contestants has been virtually a "who's who" of track. Winners of the 100 yard dash for the last seven years have been, from 1933 back, Jesse Owens, Jimmy Owen, Randall Herman, Ralph Metcalfe, Don Bennett, Eddie Tolan and George Simpson. Included among recent track

BROWNS RELEASE GRAY; HE GOES TO MILWAUKEE

St. Louis, Mo., April 13.—(AP)—Sam Gray, 34 year old right hand pitching veteran, was released unconditionally today by the St. Louis Browns and a few hours later signed with the Milwaukee club of the American Association.

Gray has served continuously in the major leagues since becoming a member of the Philadelphia Athletics in 1924. He came to the Browns in 1929. With St. Louis he won 97 games and lost 92 in six seasons.

The Milwaukee club is a Brown farm.

WASHINGTON IS WINNER OVER CALIFORNIA CREW

Seattle, Wash., April 13.—(AP)—In one of the closest races ever seen here the University of Washington crew swept over the finish line about three-quarters of a length ahead of California in their annual regatta today.

Washington retained its Pacific coast title, having previously defeated California in the freshman event, while California won the junior varsity race.

The unofficial time of the varsity race was 16:33. It was a thriller from start to finish, with first one shell and then the other creeping into the lead. It was either's race until the Washington crew summoned extra power and went over the finish line in the three mile Lake Washington event.

The closeness of the race was believed to assure participation of both crews in the Poughkeepsie regatta for the national championship in June.

Poloists Play for Berths on West's Teams

Lineups were announced yesterday for the two high goal polo teams which will battle tonight at the 124th Field Artillery armory for the right to represent the West against the East in the senior and open classes of the approaching national indoor tournament.

On a 15 goal team known as the Golds will be Bill Nicholls rated at 7, Capt. C. A. Wilkinson at 5, and Prentice Porter at 3. Against this trio the Whites will pit a 10 goal team, with Lieut. Larry Smith handicapped at 4, and Maj. Dick Hunter and Jim Hannah at 3 apiece.

At the pace Lieut. Smith is traveling, the experts say, his 4 goal rating should be doubled, and it is predicted that the end of the season will find his handicap raised to at least 7 goals.

Nicholls Better Mounted.

Nicholls is expected to display the form that has earned him his 7 goal rating, since he will be better mounted than heretofore. Capt. Wilkinson, a veteran of last year's national championships, should be at his peak as a result of two hard engagements during the western championship tourney.

The senior team selected after tonight's game will meet the New York Athletic club's trio of Billy Reynolds, Buddy Coombs, and Arthur Borden, eastern champions. The west open class team will face the combination of Winston Guest, Borden and Reynolds.

Seven Goal Opener.

In the opening game tonight the Cleveland Riding club will clash with the 124th Field Artillery Cardinals in a semi-final of the less than 7 goal class.

A. B. Phillips of Cleveland will be making his first appearance at the armory, but the ability of his teammates, Cliff Radcliff and Charley Calhoun, is well known. They represented Cleveland in the Metropolitan league senior class.

Blocking the path of the Ohioans will be Capt. Bill Everett, Lieut. Hobart De Reed, and Lieut. Romeo Mura. Tonight's lineups:

WHITE SOX LOSE FINAL OF 14 GAME SET TO PIRATES

Bonura's Hitting Streak Broken.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Terre Haute, Ind., April 13.—The White Sox today took another whipping from the Pittsburgh Pirates, this time by a score of 3 to 2.

While it was a bit more painless than some of their recent embarrassments, the setback gave the Chicagoans their fourth straight loss and their ninth in the 14 game spring series with the National leaguers which came to a frigid termination on this Friday, the 13th day of April.

The Sox made only six hits of which four were the property of Evar Swanson, who was back in the lineup at his post in right field after a lot of monkeying around with earnest but inexperienced rookies. Two of Evar's hits were doubles.

Bonura Is Stopped.

Neither of the other two hits pounded out by the Sox sluggers was made by Bonura, thus giving Zeke his first batting horse collar, or zero, in the 24 games of the Sox exhibition calendar to date. It was a sad day for Zeke and blamed entirely on that Friday the 13th business.

Mule Haas, erstwhile sick outfielder, returned to his job in center field after a month's absence and Jack Hayes returned to second base to give the Sox an opening day appearance.

Ted Lyons pitched all the way for the Sox and looked mighty good except when he threw a home run ball to Paul Waner with two out in the fifth, which tied the score, and a triple to Harry Lavagetto, with two out in the sixth which blossomed into the winning run. Ted allowed only eight hits, three of which were by Padden.

Make 3 More Errors.

The Sox made three errors prior to the eighth inning, giving them a record total of 30 misplays in a span of 23 consecutive innings.

The manner in which the Pirates' offensive started caused many to suspect that the inning would last a long time. Lyons walked L. Waner and Lindstrom on eight straight wide ones. Then Ted tightened and P. Waner, Traynor, and Vaughan failed to get the ball out of the infield.

Feeling rather pepped up because of Lyons' escape, the Sox got themselves a run in the second inning. Appling doubled to right and stopped at third on Dykes' single. Appling scored and Dykes took second on the first of Birkofer's run making wild pitches, after which Hayes, Pasek, and Lyons furnished easy outs. The Pirates tied the score in their end of the second on Suhr's single and Padden's double to left.

Score Without a Hit.

Another wild pitch by Birkofer permitted the Sox to take the lead in the fourth inning without the aid of a hit. With two down Hayes walked and went to third when Lavagetto dropped Pasek's pop fly. Hayes scored

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Wrigley field, which for the last four days was the home of 55 cent baseball, will be restored to big time acts and prices this afternoon. The acting, weather permitting, will be done by the Cubs and White Sox in the fifth game of the spring series they started several weeks ago in Los Angeles. The sixth and final of the set will be run off tomorrow, but the scene of action will be shifted to Comiskey park.

The rival managers, Lew Fonseca of the Sox and Charles Grimm of the Cubs, apparently have different ideas as to how they are going to win these two civic affairs. The Cub chief thinks he can do it by using Pat Malone today and Charley Root tomorrow. Fonseca will let four men—Jones, Gallivan, Heving, and Wyatt—share the two games, and probably will consider himself lucky if he doesn't have to drag in a few others. His pitchers, as the world now knows, haven't been any too hot this spring.

Fan Six Sox in West.

The last time Malone faced the Sox they saw the best pitching the big right hander has produced all spring. He had a hand in one of the three victories the Cubs registered over the south siders at Los Angeles. He was in there for only three innings, but that was long enough for him to serve up such a fancy assortment of curves that six of the pale hose batters fanned. The only hit off him that day was a homer boosted over the wall by Zeke Bonura. Malone also did a nine inning stretch against the Pirates at Los Angeles, but they bounced him around a bit.

Cancelation because of wintry weather of yesterday's scheduled 55 cent exhibition of Cubs vs. Cubs prevented Lon Warneke and Guy Bush from getting another full game under their belts before going into the regular campaign next Tuesday, but they were given enough work to keep themselves primed. Despite the snow flakes Grimm put on a lengthy workout in which his two star right handers threw to the hitters in batting practice.

If both Malone and Root produce some impressive pitching in the two games with the Sox, a large load will be removed from Manager Grimm's mind. It will mean that he can feel certain of having at least four regular workers during the first weeks of the flag campaign. Later on Bud Tinning is expected to take a hand. Bill Lee, the rookie from the Columbus American association team, will be broken in gradually. He'll be tried out in a relief role at the first opportunity.

Pitcher Lynn Nelson, who was turned over to the club doctor when he developed alarming symptoms a few days ago, is merely the victim of a bad cold. He will be able to answer roll call when the team starts for Cincinnati tomorrow night.

ILLINOIS EXPELS KNOX, FRESHMAN FOOTBALL STAR

Champaign, Ill., April 13.—[Special.]—The committee on discipline of the University of Illinois announced today that a "freshman student in the school of physical education had been dismissed from the university for having made fraudulent statements on his registration record of previous schools attended before entering the university."

The statement did not disclose the name of the student, but every one on the campus knew he is Sam Knox, captain of the freshman football team, who was groomed to play a tackle position on the varsity next fall. Knox it was discovered this week, attended the University of New Hampshire nearly three years, playing on the freshman team and two varsity elevens. In matriculating at Illinois last September, however, he did not list his attendance at New Hampshire, although matriculants are directed to list all institutions previously attended.

When Knox appeared on the campus last fall he said he had played football in an eastern prep school but had never attended college, working instead to assist his brother through school. He was recognized as an outstanding player from the start and at the close of the season his freshman teammates elected him honorary captain.

Knox participated in hocky and other sports at New Hampshire and was class president. He has been working part time in a gas station here and hopes to continue and eventually petition the university to be reinstated so that he can complete his education. If this is denied him he probably will enter professional football. He hopes to be able to put a 17 year old brother, who joined him this week, through the university.

ILLINOIS OWNERS TAKE STEPS TO PROTECT HORSES

BY FRENCH LANE.

The Illinois Thoroughbred Horse Owners and Breeders' association is coming to the rescue of proud thoroughbreds who on occasions have been manhandled by starters and assistant starters while at the post on Chicago race tracks.

L. M. Severson and Dr. J. M. Kaiser, the secretary and treasurer of the association, called on Robert S. Eddy, president of the Fox Valley Jocky club at the Aurora track yesterday afternoon, and unfolded their plans to curb the starters and assistant starters who serve on Chicago race courses this year.

The Illinois Humane society will be requested to have a representative at the starting gate throughout the Chicago season. The thoroughbred owners and breeders will ask the new Illinois racing commission to provide for this in the rules to govern racing which they will adopt within a few days.

"We can call to the attention of the commission numerous instances in which the careers of young, spirited horses have been ruined by the treatment they received while the starter and his assistants were attempting to line them up in the starting gate." Severson told the president of the Aurora track. "Horses have been kicked in the shins, struck in the head and kicked in the body, and in at least one instance beaten over the head with a fence rail by starters and their assistants."

Few horses treated in this manner have ever been able to accomplish much later on in their careers. They approach the starter's gate with fear in their hearts and it proves to be a handicap they are unable to overcome.

"We not only want a representative of the Humane society on hand to see the start of all races, but want action taken in the courts against any person violating the code of the Humane society," Severson concluded.

Many Owners Complain.

Two years ago the Arlington Park Jocky club put a rule into force that an assistant starter was not to be allowed to touch a horse while it was approaching the starting gate. It rought some ragged starts and a short time later the assistant starters were permitted to lead unruly horses up to the gate.

Owners and breeders for many seasons have complained about the way in which their horses were handled at nearly every track by the starter and by the members of his staf. No action was taken, however, and as a result the Illinois Owners and Breeders have decided to call on the Humane society to help them out of their difficulties.

Most of the owners and producers of thoroughbreds in the state are represented in the Illinois association. The officers are Richard J. Nash, president; P. M. Chappel, vice president; L. M. Severson, treasurer, and Dr. Kaiser, secretary.

Dixie Kid, Once Ring Champion, Dead on Coast

Los Angeles, Cal., April 13.—(AP)—A broken, white haired Negro, Aaron L. Brown by name, died in a hospital here a week ago. Today, when friends sought donations to save the body from a Potter's field, his identity was learned. He was the Dixie Kid, welterweight champion of the world from 1904 to 1908.

His earnings from fifteen years of fighting long since gone, the Dixie Kid lived on what odd jobs he could pick up, and on what his friends gave him.

The Dixie Kid was born in Fulton, Mo., Dec. 23, 1883. At the age of 21, he met Joe Walcott, then recognized as the world's welterweight champion, at San Francisco on April 30, 1904, in a bout which was awarded to the Dixie Kid on a foul in the twentieth round. His claim to the title was disputed in some parts since Walcott held him to a draw later in a 30 round bout. However, he was generally recognized as the champion until 1908 when Mike [Twin] Sullivan defeated Jimmy Gardner in a 25 round bout in Los Angeles to claim the crown.

Shortly after 1910 the Kid sailed for Europe, and his battles there made him an idol. An indication of his popularity in France was shown by the fact that while a referee awarded one fight, a 20 round bout, to his opponent Willie Lewis, in 1911, a jury of Parisian sportsmen reversed the decision.

It was in that year that he met and knocked out Georges Carpentier in five rounds—the same Carpentier who met Jack Dempsey for the world's heavyweight championship in 1921.

Hokuao Wins Bowie Event; Pays Off $5.30

J. B. Belk's Flaming Mamie finished second, nearly a length behind the winner, while G. C. Winfrey's Stone Martin was third. Under an impost of 117 pounds Hokuao covered the mile and 70 yards in 1:46 4-5. He paid $5.30 for $2 in the straight mutuels.

Haggerson went to the front at the start of the race, but began to tire after six furlongs. Sonny Workman, piloting Hokuao, then shot him into the lead and appeared an easy victor in the stretch. Stone Martin and Flaming Mamie challenged in the final furlong, but could not overtake Hokuao.

DIS DAT FINALLY WINS.

Arlington Downs, Tex., April 13.—[Special.]—Dis Dat finally triumphed today for the first time since his arrival from Agua Caliente. The California owned horse won by two lengths from Slapped in the feature mile event at the Arlington Downs track. Mad Wind was third. Dis Dat established a new track record in winning the race. He ran the eight furlongs in 1:37, four-fifths of a second faster than the previous mark.

Fairmount to Seek Racing License Today

Fairmount Park at Collinsville, Ill., will follow Aurora with a 34 day spring meeting opening on May 26, if the present plans of the management of the two racetracks are approved by the Illinois racing commission.

Robert S. Eddy, who serves as president of both the Fairmount park and Aurora race courses, announced yesterday that he will make application to the commission today for the 34 racing days from May 26 to July 4, inclusive, and that if the state governing body has no objection preparations will begin shortly for staging the meeting.

The opening on May 26 of Fairmount, which draws much of its patronage from St. Louis, would leave only a two day gap for the many horsemen who race over the Eddy-Cattarinich tracks. Aurora closes its twelfth annual spring meeting on May 23, with the second running of the $10,000 added Illinois Derby at a mile and a furlong as its closing fixture.

Under the preliminary plans which President Eddy has drawn up, the total purse distribution for Fairmount's 34 days of racing will be $135,400. Last season a 37 day meeting, staged from Sept. 2 to Oct. 14 was very successful at Fairmount, distributing $125,500 in purse money.

Under the new regulations, in force since the racing law was amended to provide for a commission, 5 per cent of the total license fee must be paid over today, when Eddy applies for dates. Fairmount's daily license fee is $1,000, so that $1,700 of the total of $34,000 must be turned over at once. The further sum of $8,400 must be paid if the dates are granted, with the balance of $28,900 due 20 days before the scheduled opening of the meeting.

Chicago Turners to Hold Volleyball Tournament

List Finals in Y. M. C. A. Girls' Basketball Meet

Finals of the North Avenue-Larrabee Y. M. C. A. girls' basketball tournament will be held Monday. The schedule:

Boomers vs. Continental Illinois Bank Post.

LONDOS CHANGES HIS SCHEDULE TO MEET GARIBALDI

Jim Londos, heavyweight wrestling title claimant, has rearranged his next week's schedule in an attempt to comply with the Illinois Athletic commission's ruling, specifying that a windup wrestler must be in town three days prior to a match. He opposes Gino Garibaldi in a return bout at Chicago Stadium Friday.

Londos' match at Montreal, Que., slated for Wednesday has been set ahead to Monday thus enabling him to arrive Tuesday night. But he goes to Milwaukee Thursday for a bout with Joe Malcewicz. He hopes to have this sanctioned at Monday's meeting of the commission.

IOWANS WIN HALF OF MAT MATCHES IN A. A. U. MEET

Ames, Ia., April 13.—(AP)—Falls came thick and fast in the second round of the National A. A. U. wrestling meet tonight as 15 men in the 30 matches succeeded in pinning their opponents.

Southwestern Teachers college of Weatherford, Okla., with a man entered in nearly every event, had the largest number of victories, turning in three decisions and two falls. Iowa State was next with four victories.

Freddie Miller Defeats Sharkey in Ten Rounds

Minneapolis, Minn., April 13.—(AP)—Freddie Miller, world featherweight champion, gave Jackie Sharkey, Minneapolis, a sound beating to win a ten round nontitle fight tonight. The Cincinnati title holder broke a rib on Sharkey's right side in the seventh round. Despite a bad body whipping, the Minneapolis boy stayed the limit. Miller won nine of ten rounds. The champion weighed 127 and Sharkey 128.

Camp Runs 73 Billiards; Claims Snooker Record

New York, April 13.—(AP)—Marcel Camp of Detroit, set what was claimed as a world record for snooker billiards in a tournament today. Camp defeated William Croll of New York, 135 to 0 in 8 innings, and made a high run of 73. He based his record claim on the latter accomplishment.

St. Columbanus Defeats Presentation Five, 21-11

St. Columbanus defeated Presentation, 21 to 11, in one of three games in the Cook county church girls' basketball tournament at Mount Carmel gymnasium last night. In other contests Immaculate Conception won from Redeemer Lutheran, 11 to 9, and Sacred Heart beat St. Philip Neri, 24 to 18.

Ten Years Is Long Life for Banded Birds

BY BOB BECKER.

Few song birds that dwell in the wild ever live as long as ten years, according to Prof. J. W. Stack, ornithologist at Michigan State college, East Lansing, Mich. Prof. Stack bases his conclusions on the banding of 11,831 birds over a period of ten years.

All banding records give us a fairly accurate check on the travels of birds. Naturally, birds keep coming back year after year over the same migration route, and thus the bird banders are able to trap them and check on repeats.

Bluejay Has Long Record.

One of the outstanding records of a banded bird on Prof. Stack's list is a bluejay, first banded in January, 1922. It was caught again this year. The bird is one of the oldest bluejays on record. The maximum ages recorded by the banded birds is five and one-half years for the Bob White, seven and one-half years for grackles, and nine years for the white breasted nuthatch.

Birds kept in captivity indicate more accurately the potential life span of song birds. A bird in the wild state doesn't have the same chance to attain a ripe old age as that of one kept in a cage away from natural hazards of the outdoors.

Cardinal Lives 13 Years.

For example, a cardinal has been known to live 13 years in a zoo. We recall some years ago receiving a record

Frankhouse, Brandt Yield Only Four Hits.

Boston, Mass., April 13.—(AP)—Fred Frankhouse and Ed Brandt, Boston Braves' pitching aces, held the Red Sox to four hits today as the National leaguers gained a 4 to 3 decision in 10 innings and clinched the inter-city series with their third straight victory. The fourth and fifth games will be played tomorrow and Sunday.

Wally Berger, with one out in the tenth, lined out a double to center field. He went to third on an infield out and brought in the winning run when Baxter Jordan singled to left.

Both of these hits came off Herb Pennock, who relieved Dusty Rhodes after the ninth with the score tied at three-all. Rhodes was hit eight times during his stay on the mound.

Hal Lee, the outfielder filling in for the injured Rabbit Maranville at second base, accepted 13 chances cleanly, registered 10 putouts to equal Jordan's fielding performance at first, and participated in the only double play of the game. Score:

In the Wake of the News

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., April 13.

Dear Wake: In The Wake recently I read the historic information that immediately after the great 1871 Chicago fire many business concerns moved to temporary locations in the 22d street district.

In this connection it might interest old-timers to know that Chapin & Gore, who had established a wholesale grocery and liquor business in an L-shaped store on the northwest corner of State and Monroe streets, burned out in 1871 with a loss of approximately $100,000.

The firm saved about 100 barrels of whisky by rolling it down Monroe street into the lake, which at that time was much closer than it is now. The whisky was saved and for some time afterward Chapin & Gore marketed a new brand of whisky called "Lake Whisky" from 152 East 22d street, on the north side of the street between Wabash and Michigan, where they migrated with the rest of the old houses for the temporary establishment of their wholesale business. Chapin & Gore continued that stand as a branch until the "noble experiment" was inflicted on us.

C. H. Herrmann.

Edtor's Note—Charlie Herrmann, writer of the above, was in the old days a friend of Big Bill Lange, Jimmy Callahan, Drury Underwood, Smiley Corbett, Tom Hanton, Malachy Hogan, and that jolly crowd. Chapin & Gore, of which he became president, saw the "handwriting on the wall," sold its stock, and went out of business shortly before the repeal laws of 1919. Herrmann retired to California and only recently returned to Chicago.

Chapin & Gore's place on Monroe street, between State and Dearborn, was a nationally known sports rendezvous with a restaurant famous for its "corn beef and," cigar stand with Johnny Roche in command, and bar, although its liquor trade was mostly bottled goods.

When the present Wake was secretary-treasurer of the Western Jocky club, 1902-'05, we kept on hand for our southern stewards in attendance at meetings "C. & G. 1876" brand. This was bourbon, of which these southern gentlemen were keen judges, for which we paid $7 a gallon in wicker covered demijohns, contrasted with the $1 to $1.25 a quart for regular whiskies. We don't remember its exact age, but it was thick with a great bouquet such as one rarely sees now.

Free Thought.

Toil-twisted—hanged by its noose
A moment dared, conscience loose
My heart steps forward—the sun's purest rays
Compass my being out of bay—
Like driftwood that knows no shore,
No bondage, nor seasons four—
Breathe with the tide
And watch the tireless gulls with eager eyes
To new horizons that seem to show
With each sea's swell as the old boat rolls,
Feel trade wind's salty kiss,
Hear music unfurled by the swish of waves that hurl
Tiny jewels and douse the deck with millions of pearls,
Feel the boat jolt, cracked by the whip of angry wave
Such moments of dreams penetrate me—
For dreams are food for restless fiends—

Explanation.

While writing this Wake, we heard a rustling of some poems we had placed on the window sill right at our side. At first we thought it the wind, but the sound was too pronounced, so we reached over and a small black lizard, about five inches long, including tail, raced away with a poem in his mouth.

One doesn't kill lizards because they devour mosquitoes and insects, as do the more common chameleons, but neither does one like them in the house in one's bedroom.

This fellow gave us a merry chase, crawling between linings of the drapes. Finally we shook him into a paper bag and released him outside, but we couldn't get the poem away from him. So if any contributor f. ls to see his verse in print, it's the one the lizard carried away.

and Pasek took second on the aforesaid second wild pitch by Birkofer. With two out in the fifth Paul Waner smacked a homer, which tied the score at 2-all.

In the sixth the Pirates went in front, again scoring after two were out. Lavagetto tripled and scored on Padden's single to center.

The Sox would have tied the score or better in the ninth but for ill advised base running by Uhalt. Uhalt batted for Pasek to start the ninth and walked. Bordagaray batted for Lyons and fouled to Padden. Then Uhalt apparently forgot the status of the game and tried a delayed steal, in which he easily was sunk.

As usual in such instances, a hit followed. Swanson doubled off the right field wall, a blow that would have enabled Uhalt to tie the score had he run the bases in order and everything, and also would have given Bonura one more chance to keep from having his hitting string busted, to say nothing of a possibility of victory. The game ended when Young made a nice play to throw out Haas.

Maranville, On Crutches, Takes a Short Stroll

St. Petersburg, Fla., April 13.—[Special.]—Rabbit Maranville, the Boston Braves' veteran second baseman, left his hospital room for a short stroll this afternoon for the first time since he was injured in an exhibition game against the New York Yankees two weeks ago. With the aid of crutches Maranville walked around City hospital and then returned to his room.

Dr. Prescott Lebreton, bone specialist, said Maranville would be able to walk without crutches in about two months. It is doubtful if Maranville will be able to rejoin the Braves before July. He suffered a fractured leg in a slide to home plate.

Pittsburgh to Hold Public Links Meet

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The United States Golf association announced yesterday that it will hold its thirtieth annual competition for the national public links championship on the South Park links of Allegheny county, Pittsburgh, Pa., July 30 to Aug. 4. The James D. Standish Jr. cup for the individual title and the Warren G. Harding trophy for the intercity championship again will be at stake.

Each competing city may enter a team not exceeding five players. They shall be determined in local 36 hole medal play competition, with authority given by the local U. S. G. A. representative, if he chooses, to name his quintet from the 20 low gross scorers. He also may select for the team, without the necessity of qualification, any player who was a member of the preceding year's squad.

Trials Start July 1.

Local trials must be held in the two weeks starting July 1. Prospective entrants must obtain an entry blank from the local U. S. G. A. representative and return it to the latter on or before June 23, or entry will be rejected.

The entry fee is $5. Entrants in the championship who quality may accept traveling expenses to and from Pittsburgh, plus $6 per day from the city which they represent without violating the amateur definition. All entrants are eligible to compete in their local trials, upon acceptance of their entries, provided that they have not since Jan. 1, been members of, nor enjoyed the privileges of a private club maintaining and supporting its own golf, and who have not since that date ceased to retain this status.

The winner of the Harding trophy will be determined by the lowest aggregate score for 36 holes medal play of any four players from each city recorded in the qualifying rounds of the championship at Pittsburgh. These will be held at 18 holes each on July 30 and 31, with two eighteen hole matches each on Aug. 1 and 2, 36 hole semi-finals on Aug. 3 and the 36 hole championship match Aug. 4.

The Hickory Hills Golf club, located on 95th street between Harlem and Kean avenues, will open officially today, although more than 200 took advantage of last Sunday's weather to get an early start. Harry Adams, who sent two winners to THE TRIBUNE Golf school last year, again is back as professional. Harry sustained a broken nose in an automobile accident at Miami, but now is fully recovered.

Horton Smith, Oak Park Country club professional, who won the Masters' tournament from Bobby Jones and the game's best pros last month at Augusta, Ga., will appear at 1:45 o'clock this afternoon as a feature of the season's final regular Sport Huddle on the Sportsmen's floor of Marshall Field's Store for Men.

In the last four months such athletes as Gabby Hartnett, Guy Bush, Bill Tilden, Ellsworth Vines, Barney Ross, Lionel Conacher, Chuck Gardiner, Red Grange, Bill Hewitt, and Willie Hoppe have appeared.

Weather permitting, the Bryn Mawr Country club will open its golf course today, with regular tees and greens being used. Frank Walsh, professional in charge, will be on hand for lessons today and tomorrow for members only.

Walsh offers the following bit of advice, which might well be taken to heart by all golfers playing their first rounds:

Be careful. Don't expect results the first game. Go out for the exercise and forget the score; in fact, don't even take a score card with you. Tee the ball high and make your tee shots with a brassie. Use the spoon for fairway shots. Play winter rules, teeing the ball for all shots for the first few games of the season. Don't think too much about hitting the ball. Concentrate on getting the swing right.

Earl Porter, manager of the York Golf club, Cermak road and York road, announced yesterday the course will open for regular play today. Ellsworth Hopkins, tri-state open champion has been engaged as pro for the club. Work is under way on the eighteen grass tees which when completed will make York one of the best fee courses in the country.

Wendell Phillips Nine Defeats Fenger, 7 to 0

Wendell Phillips High school's baseball team defeated Fenger, 7 to 0, at Beasmer park yesterday. Phillips scored only three hits and made most of its runs on eight Fenger errors. Young pitched for Phillips and gave two hits. Score:

Phillips	220	011	0—7	3	0
Fenger	000	000	0—0	2	3

New York, April 13.—(AP)—Ten former Olympic competitors and all of last year's seven individual champions are among the 192 entrants who will meet tomorrow night at the 2d Naval Battalion armory in Brooklyn in the women's national indoor track and field meet.

The ten who have worn their national colors in the Olympics are Betty Robinson, Evelyn Hall, Nan Gindele, Annette Rogers, Tidye Picket, all of Chicago; Louise Stokes, Rena MacDonald, and Olive Hasentus, Boston; Stella Walsh, Poland, and Mildred Frizzell, Canada.

The meet will be contested in meters for the second time, and several new national records are expected, especially in the sprints where Miss Walsh is favored to take both titles. She did not complete last year.

In addition to the eight championship events, which include the 400 meter relay, two special races will be run. Milton Sandler, national 800 meter champion, heads a star field in the two-thirds of a mile race, while Joe McCluskey, former Fordham Olympic steeplechaser, will try for several intermediate world and American records on his way to the tape in a 5,000 meter run.

All-Nations Squad Faces Wonderbolts

Players from eight clubs, representing seven nationalities, will appear on the International Soccer league's all-star team against the Wisboldt Wonderbolts at De Paul field, Sheffield and Webster avenues tomorrow. It is Wisboldt employes and Julius Hjulian day and the largest crowd of the season is expected.

The lineup of the all-star team will include Riba [1st Germans], goal; Wihlborh [Swedish A. A.], and Schaaf [Schwaben], full backs; Carlander [Swedish A. A.], Schmuck [Chicago sports], and Thiel [Forest Park], half backs; Stanley [Swedish] Fischer [Hansa], Krockel [Chicago sports], Kramer [Wanderers] and Fraser [Sloboda], forwards. Reserves are Kutsch [Schwaben], Lenker [Wanderers], and Jordan [Schwaben], and the manager is Ernie Olson.

The Wonderbolts haven't been defeated in Chicago since Oct. 8, 1933, and Hjulian, the big Swedish goalie, has had much to do with the success of the team. He is the first Chicago professional ever picked to play on a United States all-star team in an international tournament. He will be between the sticks for the American team in the international competition at Rome next month.

A double header is scheduled for Kuppenheimer stadium, 19th street and Keeler avenue, the Maccabees meeting the British Legion in a major league match and Hakoah playing the Hungarian-Americans in a Peel cup encounter.

stars who held Stagg meet records are Ivan Fuqua, Indiana; Charles Casper, Texas Christian; Slats Hardin, Louisiana State; Jack Keller, Ohio State; Elwyn Dees, Kansas; Ed Hamm, Georgetown, and Rufus Kiser, Washington.

Draws Field of Champions.

Most of the entries have been leading contenders of the state meets; in 1932, ten of the thirteen individual winners of the Illinois meet competed in the Stagg meet. The meet has been held continuously since 1903, except for 1918, 1919 and 1930, when the war interferred. Except last year, when it was taken to Soldiers' field as part of the World's Fair sports program, the meet for the last eight years was open to spectators without charge. In recent years it has been held in June, after most of the high schools had closed for the summer. The majority of the contestants traveled to Chicago by automobile, thus holding down expenses. During their stay on the Midway they were housed and fed by the university athletic department.

Eight of the sixteen meet records are also United States interscholastic records. In last year's meet ten new records were set, three of them by Jesse Owens, who equaled the world's record of :09.4 in the 100 yard dash and set new meet records of 20.7 in the 220, and 24 feet 9¼ inches in the broad jump.

I., Rangers, and Stix Baer and Fuller, title defenders. After dividing the first two games of the series, which were handled by eastern officials, the Stix asked the United States Football association to name a western man. [Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 13.—United States government bonds turned strong throughout the list today on the closing of subscription books in the exchange offering of 3¼ per cent treasury bonds for Fourth Liberty 4¼s. Net gains ranged to one-half point, and that was in fourth 4¼s themselves.

The advance in this issue was difficult to understand in the face of the possibility that the treasury tomorrow will issue a call for one or more series. Selling just above 104, the bonds yielded about one-quarter of 1 per cent as a one year investment. Dealers explained, however, that traders who bought the bonds for Tuesday delivery accepted only uncalled bonds.

Sellers Take Gamble.

The onus of any gamble involved in such trades on the early date before the expiration of the call privilege rests on the seller. Thus, sellers holding called bonds against a contract to deliver fourth 4¼s must acquire uncalled bonds to carry out the trade or make a price adjustment with the buyer.

High-grade corporation bonds went along with governments into higher ground, some of them again eclipsing previous highs for the year. Outstanding strong spots included American Telephone debenture 5s, Chesapeake and Ohio refunding 4½s, Brooklyn Union Gas 6s, Brooklyn Edison 5s of 1952, Santa Fe 4s of 1960 and the Adjustment 4s, Denver Gas 5s, Long Island refunding 4s and Union Pacific first 4s.

Speculative Issues Rise.

Second-grade and speculative issues continued to change hands at higher prices. An advance of two points did not diminish demand for American and Foreign Power 5s. Good demand was also evident for St. Louis and San Francisco issues.

HOLC BONDS.

U. S. Pipe and Foundry.

Investors' Guide: I shall appreciate information regarding United States Pipe and Foundry.—H. J. D.

Answer: United States Pipe and Foundry company supplies about 75 per cent of the cast-iron pipe used in this country. The product is used almost exclusively for transportation of water and artificial gas. High cost of the product makes it undesirable for general industrial uses, and inability to resist corrosion prevents great use of cast-iron pipe for any product containing a high chemical content.

Immediately following the world war increased use of automobiles and a housing shortage resulted in a spread of urban population to outlying districts. There was a great demand for cast-iron pipe to supply water to these formerly undeveloped areas.

A drop of 50 per cent in the price of pipe from 1925 through 1929 and a drop of 17 per cent in tonnage sales checked these boom profits, and the company, contrary to the experience of industry in general, did not share the peak 1928-'29 profits experienced generally.

Since then business has followed a generally downward trend. Municipalities, the principal customers, have found it difficult to sell bonds and to collect taxes and have been unable to finance expansion. In the early part of 1934, however, the management announced that the company was beginning to feel the impetus of federal aid.

The company managed to finish 1933 with a loss of only $71,000, against loss of $1,273,900 in 1932. Net income in 1931 was $1,012,000, or 49 cents per common share, against net income of $2,881,000 for 1930.

Capitalization consists of 599,810 shares of no par $1.20 first preferred and 600,000 shares of $20 par common. The common pays 12½ cents a quarter.

On Jan. 15, 1934, the management announced perfection of a new patented pipe-making process which is said to be superior to the De Lavaud process, also controled by the company.

The short term future of the company depends in large part on ability of municipalities to balance their budgets and to sell bonds. The long term future apparently depends on the spreading out of the population over wider areas. Dominant position of the company in the industry, strong current position and creditable record of operations entitle the common stock to a fair rating.

TRADE FORGING AHEAD; WANTS LESS MEDDLING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

New York, April 13.—Aggressiveness is now superseding confidence in general trade, which shows no signs of a halt in the general improvement which has been so evident for many weeks, according to Dun & Bradstreet, Inc. The agency reports that every section of the country is showing a definite upswing in the industrial recovery, with first quarter statements showing that firms long in the red are now either in black figures or close to them. Continuing, the review says in part:

"While full credit is accorded the emergency legislation enacted last year for the wholesale betterment provided by the strong foundation laid for business recovery, as well as for the strengthening of the nation's banking structure, considerable stress now is being placed on the need for allowing the forward movement to proceed unhampered by new and unnecessary restrictions.

See Expansion More Vigorous.

"Economic data covering the week unmistakably indicate more vigor to the onward march, with a more orderly procedure being attained.

"Labor troubles, apparently a natural prelude to better business conditions, are obstructing immediate progress in certain branches; but, on the whole, the difficulties are being faced in a conciliatory spirit by all parties concerned and viewed as a reliable indicator of the extent to which industry has expanded, as there has been no curtailment thus far in the general rate of operations.

"In the industrial divisions operating schedules are rising at a more rapid rate than they did in March, unaffected to any major degree by the labor difficulties still unsettled in some districts.

"Credit and capital from private lenders now are becoming more easily obtainable, and the stringent requirements adopted by most firms during the last three years are being relaxed somewhat.

Align Production to Demand.

"The chief contributing factor to the greater stability of business during the balance of the year lies in the determination to align production closer to demand, in order to avoid the recurring excess supplies, which invariably bring price cutting and inventory shrinkages. The machinery for this already has been established, and its more forcible administration is being counted upon to lessen the duration of the ebbs in the regular flow of commerce."

"Almost without exception, the leading retailers of the country find that the tapering off of business, which usually is apparent after Easter, has not developed, as volume last Saturday in some centers was the heaviest for any single day in three years, with the gain reaching 40 to 50 per cent over the comparable period last year, when Easter buying was at its peak.

"As the month advances gains will become larger, as spring requirements have been covered only partially thus far, and the larger income of workers, when compared with a year ago, will carry the totals to more advanced levels than seemed likely a month ago."

Work on Plan to Refinance Armour & Co.

Formation of a recapitalization plan for Armour & Co. is said to be near completion and may be submitted to the regular meeting of directors in Chicago next Friday. T. G. Lee, president, who with Philip A. Reed, first vice president and treasurer, conferred in New York on Thursday with Frederick H. Prince, chairman of the executive committee, on details of the scheme, returned to Chicago yesterday but declined to discuss it prior to submission to directors.

F. H. PRINCE. [A. P. Photo.]

"We have followed more or less definite lines in developing the refinancing plan," he said, "but something of this magnitude does not come out of a single source or single meeting. Ther are many details yet to be worked out and it is too early to say whether or not the proposal will be submitted to directors next Friday or not. We simply do not know when the plan will be completed."

Big Trade in Armour Stocks.

Action of the company's stocks, however, indicated something about the plan had become known. From comparative lethargy the preferred and A and B common shares leaped into the group of the ten most active stocks on the New York exchange. More than 45,000 of the "A" shares changed hands, 14,400 of the "B" shares were traded in, while the volume in the preferred stock reached 26,600 shares.

Neither of the common issues revealed net changes for the day, but the senior issue sagged ¾ point net after running up more than two points from its previous close in the early trading. Some of the late selling which developed in this issue was said to have arisen from the fact that action on the recapitalization plan will not occur until next week, while New York reports on Thursday had indicated directors would take up the subject today.

Details of the new plan varied widely in gossip of financial circles, but authoritative sources said an earlier proposal quoted in many quarters that one class of common stock would be established in exchange for the present preferred and common issues would not be followed.

It was said capitalization of the company would be increased and a small payment would be made to preferred stockholders on the $22.75 in accumulated dividends. Two classes of stock would be created, according to report, preferred stockholders receiving new preferred shares and also extra stock for the unpaid dividends, possibly in the form of new preferred or common. Some suggested the new preferred would have a conversion privilege into common.

Officials and directors refused to comment on the plan, but it was said any program which is worked out will permit an earlier dividend resumption than the present setup permits. Following failure of the attempt to recapitalize the company last year directors are determined that the present scheme shall be acceptable before submission to stockholders.

FREIGHT TOTAL FALLS SHARPLY ON COAL SLUMP

Week's Loadings Off 50,556 Cars.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 13.—Loading of revenue freight on the railroads of the United States decreased 50,556 cars to 557,887 during the week ended April 7, the American Railway association reported today. The decline was attributed almost wholly to a drop in the shipment of coal. The decrease in this classification was 49,618 cars.

Compared with the corresponding week in 1933 the figures showed an increase of 65,826 cars, and they also showed a gain of 12,264 cars over the 1932 corresponding week.

Miscellaneous and less than carload lots of freight both showed increases over the immediately preceding week and again provided most of the business, the respective totals being 228,363 and 167,040 cars.

Coal Price Rise a Factor.

The decrease in coal loadings was due to recent price advances. It was said that consumers laid up stocks in anticipation of the price upturn.

Although a recession in total traffic is customary at this time, the drop was larger than seasonal. Loadings have declined for three consecutive weeks, in which period traffic has slipped off 67,886 cars. However, the large gains during the first two and one-half months of this year have not been offset by the downturn.

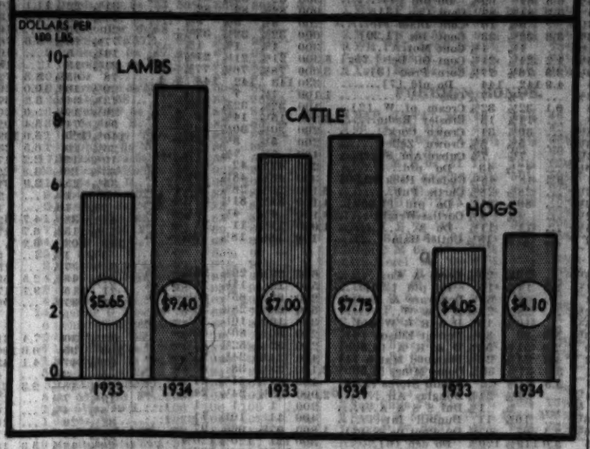
Wholesale Prices of Livestock Compared With a Year Ago



The chart above illustrates the relative improvement in live stock prices this year over the levels prevailing a year ago. It is outstanding that the lamb market, free of governmental meddling, shows the greatest improvement.

Hogs, burdened with a processing tax of $2.25 per hundredweight, show practically no improvement over a year ago and the market has been further disturbed by large federal purchases of pork products.

The cattle trade has enjoyed slightly more improvement than hogs, but here again the governmental bureaus are from time to time influencing the market through the purchase of canner cows and beef products.

House, Senate Push Work on Stock Control

Washington, D. C., April 13.—Material progress toward completion of the much discussed Fletcher-Rayburn bill to control stock exchanges of the nation was made on both sides of the Capitol today.

A senate banking and currency subcommittee finished minor alteration of the bill and ordered it newly printed. If no changes are made tomorrow Senator Fletcher hopes to hand the measure back to the full committee Monday afternoon or Tuesday morning.

The house interstate commerce committee, which clings to its own plan despite recent senate committee proposals, went steadily ahead with amendments. Chairman Rayburn had some expectation of winding up the committee work tomorrow.

Two Groups Differ.

Chief differences between the senate and house committees are that the former wishes to repose control of the exchange in a special three man commission, which would also regulate principal margin requirements. The latter group wants the federal trade commission to be the regulatory body and lays down arbitrary margin requirements in the bill.

Taking up the sections concerning liability for making false or misleading statements, the senate committee decided to make "omissions" subject to damages.

Under another amendment approved the national securities exchange commission would be authorized to investigate and report to congress on the matter of classification of members of exchanges. This language was chosen in lieu of that allowing the commission authority to set rules and regulations for classification.

Publicity Provision.

On motion of Senator Walcott, the senate committee adopted a proviso that any person making an application for stock issuance, or furnishing other documents, and protesting against publicity revealing certain information could have a hearing before the commission previous to application of a penalty.

The committee adopted an amendment to make only violations of the act punishable by imprisonment; violation of the commission rules and regulations to be penalized by fines.

The effective date of the act was postponed from Aug. 1 to Oct. 1 in the case of margin requirements, and from July 1 to Sept. 1 in the case of registration of exchanges and registration of stocks.

Twenty-five stock exchanges tonight issued a joint statement disclaiming any intention of preventing the adoption of regulatory legislation.

MARCH CONSTRUCTION CONTRACTS DOUBLE; FAR ABOVE YEAR AGO

New York, April 13. — (AP) — March contracts for construction of all description amounted to $179,161,500, according to F. W. Dodge corporation. This was almost twice the total reported for February and about three times the volume of March, 1933. Increases over both the previous month and March of last year were recorded in each of the four principal classes of construction.

For the first quarter contracts totaled $462,341,500 contrasted with $196,026,800 in the same period a year ago, the corporation reported. For residential building the gain over 1933 to date amounted to about 46 per cent; for nonresidential building the increase was almost 85 per cent; for public works 1934 volume was more than 3½ times that of the 1933 total; while for public utilities the first quarter's total was about 2½ times as great as in the corresponding period of 1933.

"During the second quarter of 1933," the Dodge survey says, "contracts for all classes of construction in 37 states as a whole totaled $236,086,600. For the second quarter of 1934, contracts in the same territory should exceed $375,000,000 by a fair margin."

ELECTRIC ROADS WEIGH PLAN FOR FREIGHT AGENCY

Probable effects of the plan proposed in the Turney report on handling less than carlot freight, which was included in Coördinator Eastman's recent report, were discussed yesterday by fifty representatives of electric interurban railways at a meeting in the Blackstone hotel.

The plan proposes establishment of a carrier owned by privately operated agencies, similar to the American Railway Express, to route, handle, and allocate on a competitive basis all L. C. L. freight.

Ralph Bradley, attorney for the Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee, said the scheme would have a severe effect on business of interurban lines, particularly those companies operating interstate traffic or which have through rates with trunk lines.

HALL TO HEAD LINCOLN LIFE LOAN DIVISION

Fort Wayne, Ind., April 13.—[Special.]—William B. F. Hall of the investment department of the Lincoln National Life Insurance company, has been chosen manager of the northern states mortgage loan department to be established May 1 in Hammond, Ind., it was announced today.

The new department will liquidate and conserve the assets of the former Northern States Insurance company of Hammond, whose business the Lincoln National reinsured in 1933. Mr. Hall will administer the trusteed assets as a separate fund, coöperating with John W. Mortland, trustee appointed by the court to represent the interests of the Northern States policy holders.

SENATE CUTS SALES TAX ON GRAIN TRADES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 13.—A reduction in the stamp tax on sales of produce for future delivery from five cents to one cent per $100 was approved by the senate today. The reduction was advocated by the finance committee which reported that the tax was "seriously interfering" with normal business transactions on the exchanges.

SENATOR LEWIS.

The change was made over the protests of Senator Lynn J. Frazier [Rep., N. D.], who made a bitter attack upon the Chicago Board of Trade. He was joined in this assault by Senator Huey Long [Dem., La.]. Senator James Hamilton Lewis [Dem., Ill.] made a semi-humorous defense of the board.

"The Chicago board traded 10 billion bushels of wheat last year, while only 500 million bushels were grown in the entire year," declared Senator Frazier. "In other words, it traded more than twenty times as much wheat as was grown."

Kingfish Has Some Views.

"The Chicago board couldn't do anything wrong," remarked Senator Lewis, smiling. "It went Democratic a year ago and the Democrats can do nothing wrong. As for the trading in more wheat than was grown, the members may only have been obeying the scriptural injunction to grow two blades where one grew before."

"The traders complain that this five cents a $100 tax puts 'em out of business," he shouted. "I say, fine! I wish we could put them all out of business."

"Never Got a Dime."

"I hope this bemoaning by the senators from North Dakota and Louisiana doesn't mean that they have suffered personal losses in the grain markets," again interjected Senator Lewis, while the senate chuckled.

"Me, either," declared Senator Frazier.

Meanwhile the Chicago exchange brought expert after expert to the stand before the house agriculture committee to protest against administration plans to regulate the commodity markets by statute. They attacked the pending control bill section by section, detailing the objections on which the grain trade bases its opposition.

Among the witnesses today was Arthur F. Lindley, president of the Board of Trade Clearing house and a member of the Chicago exchange business conduct committee.

WRIGLEY STARTS DISTRIBUTING "JOB CONTRACTS"

"Employment assurance" contracts are being distributed to employes by the William Wrigley Jr. company under the plan recently approved by stockholders. Approximately 1,280 employes in this country will receive contracts signed by Philip K. Wrigley, president.

Yeserday the oldest employe in the factory at 3535 South Ashland avenue, in point of service, Andrew C. Kappes, was given his contract.

"It is a great relief to workers to know that if they are laid off at a slack period they will not starve," Mr. Kappes said.

The employment assurance plan embraces regular employes who have been with the company for six months or more and who receive $6,000 a year or less.

Those 'Teeth' in U. S. Bills Have Cavities

BY HOWARD WOOD.

"I have been reading in the papers," writes Mr. P. Hosiea McSnapberry of Little Big Horn, Wis., "that congress has been called upon to pass a stock exchange regulation bill 'with teeth in it' just as they gave us a security act with teeth last year.

"When it comes to legislation affecting stocks and bonds there is always so much talk about teeth that one expects to find a product resembling an elk. Invariably, however, there are a few important molars missing. Plenty of penalties are set up for the officials of private corporations who offer securities, but the lawmakers always exempt bonds put out by themselves and other public officials."

This segregation of the sheep from the goats, continues Mr. McSnapberry, seems to be based upon the assumption that the investor needs protection from the corporate issuer of securities but is perfectly safe in the hands of the political issuer, an assumption which, he asserts, is fallacious.

He points out that a survey last year by the Municipal Finance Officers' association disclosed that out of 15½ billion dollars of municipal bonds outstanding about 1 billion, 200 million were in default.

"To any of the investors who have purchased the defaulted bonds of Florida municipalities, Arkansas highway bonds or the bonds of the City of Detroit," says Mr. McSnapberry, "the knowledge that the securities act of 1933 penalizes private issuers but exempts states, cities and other municipal bodies is poor consolation."

But states and municipalities, he goes on to say, are by no means the prime offenders among public bodies.

"A week ago," he says, "the senate banking and currency committee made public a report by the federal trade commission stating that Mr. Henry L. Doherty's Cities Service company in the period from 1927 to 1930 had obtained 1 billion, 146 million dollars from investors and had used nearly a billion dollars of it to rig the market for the company's stock.

"The trade commission representative described this operation as 'one of the most striking things we have come across in our utilities investigation.'

* * *

"Having suggested in a previous letter that Mr. Samuel Insull be given a job with the brain trust because of his valuable experience in the bootstrap method of borrowing, spending and inflating to prosperity, I now recommend Mr. Doherty for the job of special adviser to the treasury.

"He's just the man. With all that experience in selling securities and then using the proceeds to rig the market for his own stocks he would be invaluable to the treasury, which has had set aside for itself a two billion dollar fund to be used in rigging the market for its own securities.

"Under a stock exchange bill with teeth in it Mr. Doherty might be unwilling to conduct such operations in his own stocks, but he should have no hesitancy about performing such services for the treasury because the treasury would be exempt under the law."

"Perhaps it is with the idea of providing jobs for ex-financiers that congress thoughtfully exempts public officials from the penalties imposed upon ordinary issuers of securities," he says. "Otherwise it would be hard to understand why public officials should be exempted when only during the last year congress has sanctioned the government's cancelation of its agreement to pay its borrowers in gold, permitted 40 per cent devaluation of the dollar, and allowed the issuance of a bond issue bearing the gold clause when payment of gold had previously been banned by executive order."

Under the securities act of 1933, Mr. McSnapberry points out, officials of private corporations who might indulge in such practices are obliged to dig down in their own pockets and cover the losses of investors.

"The 40 per cent reduction in the value of the dollar," he concludes, "reduced the theoretical value of the treasury's outstanding securities nearly ten billion dollars. If members of congress were not exempt from the penalties imposed upon the directors of private corporations, each senator and congressman might be assessed about 18 millions to cover the investors' loss.

1,200 MILLIONS MORE LIBERTY BONDS CALLED

Announce Result of April Conversion.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., April 13.—Encouraged by the response to his most recent bond conversion operation, Secretary Morgenthau this afternoon called an additional one billion 200 million dollars worth of Fourth Liberty Loan bonds. The redemption date is October 15, 1934. New bonds will be offered in exchange.

The Morgenthau announcement followed a cabinet meeting this afternoon at the White House at which the proposition was discussed and approved.

At the same time Mr. Morgenthau announced the results of the treasury's April conversion. Exchanges of Fourth Liberties called for April 15 for a new issue of 2¼ per cent 10 to 12 year bonds amounted to 797 millions out of a total of about one billion dollars. Thus, holders of only about 200 millions of the bonds called for payment April 15 will have to be paid off in cash by the treasury.

234 Millions Notes Exchanged.

In the same exchange holders of 234 millions of ¾ per cent notes maturing May 2 were tendered in exchange for the new bond issue. The total note maturity was 244 millions, leaving the treasury only about 10 millions of cash to pay out to the holders of the maturing notes.

Secretary Morgenthau drew from a glass jar to select the serial numbers of the bonds called for April 15.

The additional one billion, 200 millions of bonds called today for redemption on Oct. 15 have serial numbers ending in the digits 5 or 2 and are preceded by the letters H or R.

The total of outstanding Liberty bonds which pay 4¼ per cent interest is 4 billions, 300 millions.

Lower Rate Bonds Expected.

Announcement of the call of additional bonds was interpreted as meaning that the treasury would invite holders of the called bonds to accept a new lower interest rate bonds in exchange for their called bonds. If 2¾'s are offered in exchange for the called 4¼'s the treasury's annual saving in interest rates on one billion, 200 millions of bonds would be 12 million dollars.

The first conversion operation was attempted last October when the treasury called 1 billion, 375 millions of Fourth Liberty 4¼'s for payment on April 15, 1934, and then asked holders of the called bonds to accept in lieu of cash 10-12 years bonds paying 4¼ per cent interest the first year, but only 3¾ per cent thereafter.

This operation was a failure because bondholders had been frightened by the Warren-Rogers rubber dollar scheme which got under way about that time. Holders of about a billion dollars worth of the called bonds held out for cash, declining to take long term bonds with the threat of drastic inflation in the air.

Treasury Squeezes Money Rates.

Between October and April the inflation issue was pretty well relegated to the background and the treasury applied a big squeeze to the money markets, which move brought about a general reduction in money rates and bond yield. By the middle of March money market conditions were so easy that 3¼ per cent was made to appear a good yield.

Then the treasury came along with a mopping up plan aimed to get in the holdouts and avoid the necessity of paying out a billion dollars of the treasury's cash on April 15. The second offer was better received than the first, as witnessed by Secretary Morgenthau's announcement that all but about 300 millions of bonds had been turned in by the deadline Thursday evening.

PEORIA LIFE HEAD HELD NOT GUILTY OF EMBEZZLING

Peoria, Ill., April 13.—[Special.]—Emmet C. May, former chairman of the Peoria Life Insurance company, now in receivership, was found not guilty by a jury here tonight of a charge of embezzling $35,000.

May's chief defense, aside from emphatic denials that he embezzled the money, was that he was being made the "goat" of the company's receivership troubles. The "goat" theory was strongly pressed by Defense Attorneys Joseph A. and Albert J. Weil.

May was one of the organizers of the insurance company in 1908. He served as president from 1913 to 1933, becoming chairman in the latter year. The company went into receivership last Nov. 15. It had between 180 and 190 million dollars' worth of insurance in force and close to 90,000 policyholders.

DOLLAR VOLUME OF A. & P. MARCH SALES UP 8.42%

Dollar volume of sales of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company for the five weeks ended March 31 was larger, but the quantity of merchandise sold last month was less than in the corresponding period of 1933, it was announced yesterday.

Dollar volume amounted to $81,292,409, showing an increase of 8.42 per cent over the total of $74,979,542 in the like period of last year.

WARD INSURGENT GROUP REVEALS DIRECTOR SLATE

The proposed new directors' slate for Montgomery Ward & Co., which the Montgomery Ward Stockholders association, an insurgent group, was revealed yesterday by Joseph Zook, head of the stock group. He said that two other selections in its program for a "balanced board," one a present Ward officer and the other "an expert in retail fields," will be announced shortly.

First of the proposed board of directors which will be voted on at the annual meeting April 27 is Joseph Zook. Others are Richard G. McMahon, general merchandising manager, Hahne & Co. department store, Newark, N. J.; George C. Miller, president of the Dodge Manufacturing corporation, Mishawauka, Ind., and Charles A. McCoy, assistant secretary-treasurer, Potts & Callahan, Inc., contractors, Baltimore, Md.

WHEAT EXPERTS DRAFT PLAN TO FIX WORLD PRICE

ROME, April 13.—(AP)—The plan for establishing minimum export prices on wheat, drafted by a subcommittee of the world wheat advisory committee in session here, was revealed tonight to the Associated Press.

The report indicates that wheat importing countries believe that positive betterment of prices must come before putting into execution their principal engagement in the London wheat agreement, namely reduction of tariffs and at least partial abrogation of their quantitative restrictions applying to imported wheat. These modifications could go into effect, the report implies, when the price of wheat imported to Great Britain reached 63 gold cents per bushel.

The plan calls for a subcommittee to meet in London May 4 and draw up a schedule of minimum prices.

The Argentine delegates, headed by Tomas A. Le Breton, voiced their "preliminary impressions" on a subcommittee's project involving wheat quotations, quotas, and methods of bettering prices.

They were understood to have told their colleagues the export price idea had too many traps for a practical application.

New York, April 13.—The New York Federal Reserve bank today reported the receipt here of $1,682,900 gold from Canada and the arrival at San Francisco of $941,000 gold from China.

The company's statement for 1933 is more detailed than the condensed one for 1932. Net income from operations, before depreciation charge, amounted to $1,402,383 last year. This sum was reduced to $519,228 by provision for depreciation of $884,140.

Other income, comprising income from investments, purchase discounts, rentals, interest, and miscellaneous, totaled $94,690.

Other Charges Listed.

Other charges, consisting of investments written off, bad accounts written off, discounts allowed, and interest paid, were $20,148. The provision for the federal income tax was carried at $84,875.

Besides the net profit of $508,889, there were added to surplus dividends received and accrued for the year on preferred stock of the Waverly corporation amounting to $40,500, and profit on the resale of stock amounting to $1,500. After deduction of additional federal income tax for 1930 and prior years with interest of $38,760, and payment of dividends, the surplus stood at $4,941,415 on Dec. 31, 1933.

In the condensed statement for 1932 net operating income was reported at $1,476,689, provision for depreciation at $1,53,488, and provision for federal income tax for 1932 at $63,793.

Current Assets $3,438,843.

Current assets on Dec. 31, 1933, totaled $2,438,843, of which $2,123,406 was in cash. Fixed assets were carried at $1,998,118, after reserve for depreciation of cabs and service cars of $2,786,813, and reserve for depreciation on machinery, equipment, etc., of $554,934. In 1932 fixed assets were carried at $2,887,918, after depreciation and amortization reserves of $2,603,046.

Current liabilities on Dec. 31, 1933, were $436,715, and the year before $447,289.

Early this month the company appealed to the city council for a higher and uniform taxicab rate on the ground that the decrease in rates inaugurated last summer failed to augment patronage to the point where income covered operations.

CONGRESS TRUST 100 PCT. PAYMENT PLAN APPROVED

Approval of a plan whereby depositors of the defunct Congress Trust and Savings bank will receive 100 cents on the dollar was given in an order entered yesterday by Judge William V. Brothers in the Circuit court.

Depositors previously have received 55 per cent of their claims. The balance, 45 per cent, has been made possible through a fund totaling $201,000 subscribed by a stockholder group and through approval of a loan for $136,360 by the executive committee of the Reconstruction Finance corporation. Completion of details of this advance are expected this week. The distribution in all likelihood will be available to depositors within three or four weeks.

BRITISH STEEL INDUSTRY HAS FIVE YEAR PLAN

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 13.—Details of a five year plan of reorganization of the iron and steel industry throughout the British empire were issued tonight. The scheme, which constitutes the most important move toward industrial reorganization yet launched in this country, culminates two years of discussion in which the chancellor of the exchequer, the import duties advisory committee, and the national committee of the iron and steel industry participated.

It will give the British Iron and Steel federation control of the industry in every part of the empire and will empower the federation to control imports by quota to make the industry independent of tariffs in five years, seek to recover lost world markets by means of an export levy on home sales, reorganize production by eliminating wasteful competition, encouraging amalgamations and modernization of plant and secure coördination of every iron and steel enterprise in the empire.

STOCKS DRIFT WAITING ACTION OF ROOSEVELT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 13.—Stocks marked time today pending light on President Roosevelt's reaction to the course of certain congressional activities during his absence from Washington. Particularly traders would like to know what the President is going to do about the securities regulation bill, which has been so badly emasculated while he was down Florida way. They would also like to know just what he thinks about the new efforts by certain western senators to "do something for silver."

Another fly in the speculative ointment was the fresh labor difficulties in the motor industry. Little attention was paid to the decline in freight car loadings last week, although the rails ran into some selling along with other issues which have been claiming space on the tape since the current period of dullness set in.

Union Pacific Declines.

Union Pacific sold off about 3 points, but such other trading favorites of the group as New York Central, New Haven, Lackawanna, Delaware and Hudson, Illinois Central, and Chesapeake and Ohio held within fractions of their previous close and many of them finished the day exactly where they had started.

The decline in loadings had been expected, as it was accounted for almost entirely by a drop in coal trafic. March coal shipments were abnormally heavy because there was a rush to anticipate higher coal prices crease around April 1.

Other trade news of the day was likewise without important effect on market operations. The weekly Dun & Bradstreet Review reported retail trade was holding up impressively and some of the earnings reports coming to hand looked a bit better than the street has been used to during these long, lean years.

Armour Issues Are Active.

A report that the Armour of Illinois directors were to meet in Chicago tomorrow afternoon to consider a new recapitalization plan caused an early flurry of strength in the packing shares, but the activity subsided when it was learned that no directors' meeting was scheduled before next Friday. Armour shares have been active at intervals for several weeks now. The preferred rose more than 2 points to a new top while the boomlet was on today, but the closing sale showed a drop of 3½ points from the high and a net loss of nearly a point on the day.

Motor shares showed considerable resistance to selling on strike news. Chrysler gaining a fraction and General Motors closing unchanged. Electric Autolite shares sold a little lower as several hundred men walked out of the Toledo plant. Nash rallied slightly on word that the strikers in its Kenosha, Wis., factory had agreed to a settlement.

Dealings in preferred stocks were determined enough to shove a sizable list into new high ground for the year or longer. Advances in this section ranged from 1 to 5 points.

AUSTRALIA HAS WINES TO TRADE FOR U. S. GOODS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

SYDNEY, Australia, April 13.—Wines offer one of the best means right now for promotion of more active trade between the United States and Australia according to a survey of trade possibilities in Australia. Negotiations are now under way between the United States and the Australian minister for commerce, Mr. F. H. Stewart, for the opening of a market in America for Australian wines.

Australia produces approximately 18,000,000 gallons of wines each year ranging from rich clarets to sparkling white and red wines. Her varieties of climate, from the long sunny seasons in New South Wales to the cooler, crisp winter months of south Australia, afford good body and taste to the various wines produced. Unlike the European wines, Australian wines are fortified by alcoholic juices fermented from the grapes with the consequence that they are stronger in alcoholic content than most wines from other countries.

Export to U. S. Limited.

Australia being predominantly a primary producing country, her products compete greatly with the agricultural products of the United States in the foreign market, principally China and Japan. Accordingly, the possibilities of Australia selling more goods to the United States are limited to such products as merino wools, mineral ores, hardwoods, gold, osmiridium, and wines.

America does not look upon Australia yet as a great wine producing country because of the fact that up to the time of prohibition in the United States the Australian wine industry was in its infancy and her exports of wines were practically negligible. This reason most likely accounts for the absence of a wine and liquor quota for Australia among the allocations of liquor imports into America granted various countries by the Roosevelt administration last December.

Urgent representations by the Australian government to Washington through London called the government's attention to this neglect. Accordingly, Australia is now cheering Uncle Sam in view of Roosevelt's most recent decision to lift the quota restrictions on all foreign wines into the United States.

Ottawa Pact Hampers Trade.

Under the imperial Ottawa agreement between Britain and her dominions, Australia has imposed restrictive duties on foreign goods which has given England manufacturers substantial preferences over American goods on top of the depreciated British currency. American trade to Australia, particularly in automobiles and machinery, suffered greatly from this discrimination. Notwithstanding, America's exports to Australia were still four times greater than Australia's sales of goods to America.

When the commonwealth heard the announcement last December that there would be only a paltry 10,000 gallons of Australian wines allowed into America up to March 1 against 1,100,000 gallons from Italy and 784,000 gallons from France, strong representations were made by Australian exporters and vignerons for the federal government to place still higher restrictions on American goods.

Might Lift Import Duties.

With the lifting of the quota restrictions for importation of foreign wines into America, Australia hopes to sell hundreds of thousands of gallons of her choicest wines. Perhaps the way now is open for the Australian government to lift or ease some of the exorbitant restrictive duties on American goods such as automobiles, machinery, oils, and films.

Federal Minister for Commerce Stewart recently announced a desire on the part of the Australian government to consider a possible trade treaty with the United States to include substantial imports of Australian wines into America. All American business interests in Australia are in favor of such a pact, which would prove a strong and sincere gesture on the part of Uncle Sam in considering and valuing Australia's trade. Wines are definitly one major product that could prove a means of better trade relations between Australia and Uncle Sam.

"BIG "WRITE-UPS" CHARGED AGAINST ASSOCIATED GAS

Washington, D. C., April 13.—Charges that Edward J. Cheney, a New York engineer, made total "write-ups" of $83,311,000 in appraising the properties or investments of certain subsidiaries of the Associated Gas and Electric company, including a write-up of $191,000 of the property of the Chasm Power company, in which State Senator Warren T. Thayer of New York was alleged to have been interested, were placed in evidence today before the federal trade commission.

Charles Nodder, commission examiner, filed the charges during today's session of the commission's inquiry into the affairs of the Associated as part of its investigation of public utilities under order of a senate resolution.

The trade commission was charged by the Associated with using "a cheap political trick" in citing on its record the purchase by Associated of the company owned by Thayer, at $43,000 more than its book valuation. Letters were introduced recently at the commission's inquiry which purported to show Thayer had interested himself in legislation to aid Associated.

BEFORE BORROWING Get the Facts About HOUSEHOLD'S REDUCED RATE ON $300 LOANS

1. We offer good service at reasonable cost
2. We only make loans that are helpful to the customer
3. We do not "high pressure" people into borrowing
4. If wanted, we give free, authentic information on managing people's incomes.
5. If desired we give free, authentic information on buying economically.

HOW LOANS ARE MADE

Household makes loans only to families. Husband and wife sign on loan signatures. They can be repaid in monthly installments over 20 months or sooner. Loans are made on the basis of the information furnished by husband and wife. We do not question your employer, your neighbors, your relatives, or the people with whom you do business. All of our offices are equipped so that your business can be handled in a private consultation room.

COST OF HOUSEHOLD LOANS

Last July we reduced the cost of all loans of over $100 below the maximum permitted under the Small Loan Law. Thousands of families have since borrowed from Household at our reduced rate at a substantial saving to them.
